ART. XXIV.—Calendar of Charitable Trusts in the Diocese of Carlisle, 1736—1865. By the Rev. JAMES WILSON, M.A.

PERSONS engaged in local government work are sometimes unable to find copies of the trust deeds of elementary schools, nonconformist chapels, and other buildings and properties dedicated to charitable uses. The original deeds are not unfrequently lost or mislaid, and squabbles arise among the heads of a parish or village over the administration of the trusts. Within the experience of the writer, much unpleasantness has been caused in various places by the loss of the trust deeds of school or charity, and injustice has been done to individuals because there was no local information by which the legal administrators of the trust could be discovered. The awkwardness of such contingencies is self-evident. We have known the incumbent of a parish who was locked out of his church school, and a nonconformist minister who was refused admittance to his chapel, owing to local disputes over the proper management of these edifices. Had the trust deeds been accessible, it is very improbable that any difference of opinion should have arisen.

It is not perhaps generally known that it is possible to get copies of trust deeds referring to gifts for charitable and religious purposes from the Public Record Office in London, by payment of the cost of transcribing them. In pursuance of 9 George II., cap. 36, entituled "An Act to restrain the dispositions of Lands, whereby the same become unalienable," a statute which came into force on 24th June, 1736, it was made obligatory to have all charitable deeds enrolled in Chancery. As these deeds have been entered on the Close Rolls since 1736, it is easy for any person to obtain a copy of the deed in which he is interested provided he knows the official description. As a search through the Close Rolls for every applicant was out of the question, owing to the imperfect nature of the indexes and the general want of information contained therein, the matter was taken in hand by the House of Commons about thirty years ago in view of approaching legislation on education and public charities. On 20th March, 1868, a return was ordered by Parliament of the number of enrolments in Chancery effected from 1736 to 1865 in pursuance of the above-named Act. When the return came to be printed in 1871, it filled a volume of over a thousand pages known as "Appendix II. of the Thirty-second Annual Report of the Deputy Keeper of Public Records." As this appendix is now very scarce and difficult to get, we have compiled from it a calendar of all the entries which refer to the district covered by the operations of this Society—viz., Cumberland, Westmorland, and Lancashire North of the Sands, a district which we have called in the title for the sake of brevity the diocese of Carlisle. It is to be hoped that the calendar will be found useful to the local historian as well as the parish councillor and school manager.

The abbreviations employed in the calendar in reference to the Close Rolls should be quite clear. For instance, the entry about "Allonby in the parish of Bromfield.—Trust for the minister and schoolmaster there 19 Geo. II., 11, 14," signifies that the deed of this trust has been enrolled on the Close Roll of the 19th year of George II., Part 11, No. 14. Any person walking into the Record Office and handing to the clerk at the desk of the search room a ticket inscribed "Close Roll, 19 Geo. II., Part 11, No. 14," would very soon be supplied with the enrolled copy of the trust deed referring to the Allonby minister and schoolmaster. The same principle applies to the entries in the calendar where the regnal year has been omitted. For instance, the entry about "Allonby, land, &c., for Congregationalists or Independents, 1844, 93, 17," signifies that the deed referring to this Nonconformist trust has been enrolled on the "Close Roll for the year 1844, Part 93, No. 17." If a copy of this deed were desired, it could be obtained by application either in person or by letter from the Public Record Office on sending up the official description as we have indicated. As the rule laid down by the Deputy Keeper has been followed in this calendar, we are hoping that the descriptive object of each deed and the official reference to each roll will be a sufficient guide to inquirers.

The references are arranged under the present Parish or Ecclesiastical District with County indicated by C., W., or L., for Cumberland, Westmorland, or Lancashire.
