CONTENTS

ART.		PAGE
I.	The dates of human impacts on the environment at Ehenside Tarn, Cumbria. By D. Walker	1
II.	Petillius Cerialis in Carlisle: a numismatic contribution. By D. C. A. Shotter	21
III.	An excavation at Brougham Castle. By John M. Zant	31
IV.	Earthworks near Crosby Lodge, Westmorland. By B. K. Roberts	39
V.	A possible merels board incised on the pre-conquest cross-base at Addingham St Michael's Church, Cumbria. By M. A. Hall	45
VI.	Evidence for Medieval Clearance in the Seathwaite Valley, Cumbria. By Chris Wild, Colin Wells, David Anderson, John Boardman and Adrian Parker	53
VII.	Contrasting Clerics: two Tudor bishops of Carlisle. By Margaret Clark	69
VIII.	Building a public bakehouse at Appleby in 1615. By Blake Tyson	79
IX.	The lost German mines at Caldbeck. By Richard Smith, Samuel Murphy and Warren Allison	89
X.	A brief history of Kendal Petty Sessions. By W. G. Wiseman	105
XI.	The Paralysis of the Cumberland and Westmorland Army in the First Civil War c. 1642-45. By Clark Stuart Colman	123
XII.	The first large scale county maps of Cumberland and Westmorland in the 1770s. By Paul Hindle	139
XIII.	The Finsthwaite Princess: the making of a myth. By Janet D. Martin	155
XIV.	Building survey at the Carnaud Metal Box site, James Street, Carlisle. By Tom Burke and Julian Cotton	165
XV.	The Alston branch of the Newcastle and Carlisle Railway. By T. M. Bell and R. W. Rennison	175
NOTES.	Flint artefacts from Moor Divock – Artefacts from Carus Green Farm, Kendal – Artefacts found during the re-siting of the B.N.F.L. pipeline at Drigg and more evidence from the sea-cliff erosion – Gun Flints from Kendal – The name of the River Petteril – Raphaell Holinshed's description of Hadrian's Wall – A Carlisle hangman in America – Dairy of Rev. William Preston of Warcop November 1765 – Tree-ring dating of buildings on the Solway Plain	191
Index		209