

ART. IX.—The Lamplugh Family of Cumberland, Part II.
By the Rev. S. TAYLOR.

SECTION IV.

THE FIRST LAMPLUGHS OF DOVENBY, 1500-1660.

IN investigating the history of this branch of the family we are fortunate in having had access to the Lamplugh-Dykes pedigree, compiled in 1856 for the grandfather of Lt.-Col. F. H. Ballantine-Dykes by George William Cullen, Portcullis Pursuivant of Arms, whose statements have been carefully and accurately verified by references to contemporary documents, wills, etc.

Concerning the origin of the Dovenby Lamplughs the Dykes pedigree says nothing. They seem to have been established there for some time before the 16th century and to have rivalled the parent branch at Lamplugh in wealth and importance. It is just possible that the first Lamplugh to hold the estates was the Ralph de Lamplugh, who was concerned in a case about the manor of Ireby (part of the Dovenby property in later years) in the year 1407, and who may have married the heiress of the Kirkbrides, who formerly held these lands.* This Ralph was probably the son of Sir Thomas Lamplugh I of Lamplugh, who was signing charters in the St. Bees Register from about 1370 to 1390.* But we have no definite information until we come to the year 1512.

ROBERT LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, died 1512.

A Robert Lamplugh of Dovenby is recorded as having died in 1512† and to have had two sons:—

* Trans. n.s. xxxviii, Lamplugh Family of Cumberland, pages 83, Section II.

† Inq. P.M. apud Penrith. 4 Henry VIII.

1. Thomas Lamplugh, of whom hereafter.
2. William Lamplugh, Clerk, living in 1512.* In 1525, Thomas Dalby, Archdeacon of Richmond, speaks of a William Lamplugh as chaplain of Workington.†

THOMAS LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, 1512 onwards.

Thomas Lamplugh of Dovenby, son of the foregoing Robert of Dovenby, was aged 24 at his father's death. He was living also on Oct. 22nd, 1520, and was then married to Alice, daughter of Christopher Curwen of Moresby. He had three sons:—

1. Robert Lamplugh, his heir, of whom hereafter.
2. John Lamplugh, tenant of Papcastle in Bridekirk Parish, who was living in 1586,‡ and from whose son (possibly illegitimate), Innocent Lamplugh, sprung a branch of the Lamplugh family who became in some measure the heirs of Dovenby. (See Section VI following, "The Lamplughs of Papcastle").
3. Thomas Lamplugh, also living in 1586.‡

ROBERT LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, HIGH SHERIFF, 1557.

There is no evidence for the existence of a Robert Lamplugh in the parent branch of the family at this date, so we may safely conclude that the Robert Lamplugh who was High Sheriff in 1557, was this Robert of Dovenby. He was probably at the Battle of Solway Moss along with John Lamplugh of Lamplugh.§

On Feb. 19, 1563, he presented William Robinson to the living of Bridekirk.|| He married Jane, 3rd daughter of Thomas Preston, of Preston Patrick and Levens, who

* Inq. P.M. apud Penrith, co. Cumberland, 4 Henry VIII.

† Trans. N.S. x, 145 "Rectors of Workington," by Thomas Iredale.

‡ Appendix 24, Will of Leonard Lamplugh, 1586.

§ Nicolson and Burn, History of Cumberland, vol. I, page L.

|| Bridekirk Parish Books.

married as her second husband — Tolson, of Woodhall, Papcastle, before 1586.*

The children of Robert Lamplugh and his wife Jane were:—

1. Francis Lamplugh, of Dovenby, of whom following.
2. Leonard Lamplugh, of Barnard's Inn, County Middlesex, who made a will dated Nov. 3, 1586, proved June 30, 1587, "on behalf of Jane Tolson, mother of the deceased, and Joseph Thwaites, executors." In this will he speaks of his brother Francis, and of his two uncles, John and Thomas Lamplugh, of his sisters, "Penruddock and Orpher," and of his cousin Thomas Preston. (See Appendix 24. Will of Leonard Lamplugh, 1586).
3. Ann Lamplugh, who married William Orfeur, of High Close, and had three sons, William Orfeur, of High Close, Cuthbert and Edward, and two daughters, Margaret Orfeur, who married Christopher Richmond of Feddon Well, and Jane, who married John Brisco, of Crofton.†
4. A daughter, who married John Penruddock, and had children.

FRANCIS LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, HIGH SHERIFF, 1580.

Francis Lamplugh, son of Robert Lamplugh and his wife Jane Preston, presented another William Robinson to the living of Bridekirk* and on Feb. 22, 1581, John Wheelwright.‡ In 1583, along with many other gentlemen of Cumberland and Westmorland, he signed articles agreed upon by the Earl of Huntington and Thomas, Lord Scrope, of Bolton, which dealt with the conditions then prevailing on the Scottish Border.§ There is a

* Appendix 24, Will of Leonard Lamplugh.

† Trans. N.S. xi, 99, "The Orfeurs of High Close," by William Jackson.

‡ Bridekirk Parish Books.

§ Nicolson and Burn, History of Cumberland, vol. I, page XCVI.

contemporary portrait of him in the possession of Lt.-Col. Ballantyne-Dykes. His will is dated the 13th of June, 1602, and he was buried at Bridekirk on June 17th, his will being proved at Carlisle in the September following. He married Jane, daughter of Thomas Salkeld, of Whitehall, who was buried at Bridekirk on Jan. 22, 1606. Her will, dated Jan. 7th, 1606 was proved at Carlisle on Feb. 8th, 1607 (See Appendix 25. Will of Jane Lamplugh).

They had a large family, no less than eight sons and two daughters, who present one of those not uncommon instances when a large family of sons die out in a surprisingly short time. It will be more convenient if these sons are taken in order, recording first those of them who in turn inherited Dovenby and leaving to the last the only one of them who left surviving children.

SIR THOMAS LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, 1577-1632,
HIGH SHERIFF, 1615.

Thomas Lamplugh, eldest son of Francis Lamplugh and Jane Salkeld, was 25 years old on Jan. 19, 1602/3, the time of his father's death. He married Agnes, the daughter of Thomas Braithwaite of Warcop and sister of Sir Richard Braithwaite. He died childless and was buried at Bridekirk, on Nov. 26, 1632. His will, dated June 6th, 1631, was proved at Carlisle, Feb. 17, 1634. Previous to that on Feb. 14, 1732/3 an admonition of his effects was granted to his brother Anthony Lamplugh, which was afterwards revoked, possibly through the finding of this his will, which proved to be the source of great trouble to the Dovenby Lamplughs and to all those related to them. In this will (see Appendix 26 for full text of Sir Thomas Lamplugh's will), after making very generous provision for his wife for her lifetime, he leaves the greater part of his estates in turn to his only surviving brothers, the Rev. George Lamplugh, Anthony Lamplugh, William Lamplugh and Cuthbert Lamplugh.

Should they all die without male heirs, the estates are to go to "my kinsman and servant George Lamplugh and his lawful male heirs," then "to my kinsman and servant John Lamplugh and his lawful male heirs."

These two men, George and John Lamplugh, the "kinsmen and servants" referred to here, were the second and third sons of Innocent Lamplugh of Papcastle, who was presumably the son of the testator's great uncle, John Lamplugh, of Papcastle, and according to tradition, illegitimate. In any case, all Sir Thomas Lamplugh's brothers having died without male heirs the estates should have come by the terms of this will to this George Lamplugh, of Papcastle and his male heirs.

Some of the property was certainly in the possession of this George Lamplugh of Papcastle at the time of his death in 1668 (see Section VI following, Will of George Lamplugh, of Papcastle). But it seems equally clear that the descendants of the female heirs of William Lamplugh, the only brother of Sir Thomas who left surviving children, laid claim to the estates and, possibly by arrangement came into possession of some part of them. A further examination of the history of Sir Thomas' brothers may make the matter clearer. Dame Agnes Lamplugh, wife of Sir Thomas, was buried at Bridekirk on Oct. 24th, 1665, when family tradition says that she was 100 years old. Her will, dated March 2nd 1658, was proved at Carlisle in 1665 (see Appendix 27 for the will of Agnes Lamplugh). As we think of these years, 1638 to 1665, going by, with this old lady holding on tenaciously at Dovenby Hall, while claimants to the estates waited and died before she did, we can conjure up a picture as grim as it is dramatic. There are contemporary portraits of Dame Agnes and Sir Thomas Lamplugh in the possession of Col. Ballantine Dykes. He was succeeded as Lord of Dovenby by his next surviving brother, the Rev. George Lamplugh.

THE REV. GEORGE LAMPLUGH, died 1633.

The Rev. George Lamplugh, 3rd son of Francis Lamplugh and Jane Salkeld and eldest surviving brother of Sir Thomas, was Rector of Workington from 1595-1633, and also Rector of Distington. He married at Lamplugh, on Sept. 27, 1613, Elizabeth, daughter of Richard Lamplugh and Alice Warde and sister of John Lamplugh IX, of Lamplugh. Her will, dated August 25, 1645 (see Appendix 28), gives much information about both branches of the family. A lady who could leave "to my nephew William Fairfax, those books of mine he hath and to his wife one jewel with a death's head in it," must have been a character: or perhaps the humour is unconscious! The Rev. George did not survive his brother long, being buried at Bridekirk on Nov. 9th, 1633. He having no surviving children, the manor passed to his brother Anthony Lamplugh.

ANTHONY LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, died before 1638.

Anthony Lamplugh, of Dovenby, the sixth son of Francis Lamplugh and Jane Salkeld, succeeded his brother the Rev. George. On Sept 22, 1634, he presented Nicholas Beeby to the living of Bridekirk. He married first, Elizabeth Hudleston* of Millom. After her death an admonition of her goods was granted to her husband, Anthony Lamplugh on Sept. 9th, 1633, and another admonition on July 19th, 1638, to her mother, now Elizabeth Knipe, and her husband, by which last date Anthony Lamplugh must have been dead. (See Appendix 29).

Anthony Lamplugh married secondly Eleanor —, who survived him and married Peter Wyarde, M.D., with whom she made a presentation of the living of Bridekirk to Samuel Grasty in March, 1660. By some arrangement, after the death in 1665 of her sister-in-law, Dame Agnes, wife of Sir Thomas, she must have continued to enjoy part of that lady's jointure. (See Section VI. Will of George Lamplugh, of Papcastle). It is obvious that Anthony Lamplugh made a will, by which presumably he disposed of the Dovenby estates, but this will was disputed by Dame Agnes and George Lamplugh of Papcastle, who doubtless claimed the estates under the will of Sir Thomas. (See Appendix 30). It may have been at this time that an arrangement was made between George Lamplugh of Papcastle on the one side, and Eleanor Wyarde, Anthony's widow and the descendants of William Lamplugh, Anthony's brother, on the other.

* This Elizabeth Hudleston was a daughter of Sir William Hudleston, of Millom Castle, Cumberland and Haseley Court, Oxfordshire and of Elizabeth Hartepoole.

We must now record the remaining sons of Francis Lamplugh of Dovenby and Jane Salkeld, leaving William, the only one of them who had children, to the last.

John Lamplugh, presumably the second son of Francis Lamplugh and Jane Salkeld, was buried at Bridekirk on Aug. 7th, 1597, before his father's death.

Francis Lamplugh, the 4th son, was a cloth worker of London. His will, dated March 27th, 1605, was proved on the 5th April following. His wife's name was Ann and he had no surviving children (see Appendix 31, Will of Francis Lamplugh).

Nicholas Lamplugh, the 5th son, was alive on June 12th 1602, at the time of his father's death. He must have died childless before Sir Thomas.

Cuthbert Lamplugh, the 8th son, was baptised at Bridekirk on Oct. 4th, 1586. In 1631, when Sir Thomas made his will, he was still unmarried. He was buried at Bridekirk on Jan. 14, 1637/8, and just too soon to inherit the Dovenby lordship by the terms of his brother's will.

Helen Lamplugh, daughter of Francis Lamplugh and Jane Salkeld, married Richard Tolson, of Woodhall, Papcastle and had with other children (see Bridekirk registers), Henry, Lancelot and Richard, Mary (who married on April 24, 1609, William Osmotherley, at Bridekirk) and Frances Tolson.

Anne Lamplugh, another daughter, was buried at Bridekirk, March* 13, 1585/6.

William Lamplugh, the 7th son of Francis Lamplugh of Dovenby and Jane Salkeld, was the only one of the eight brothers to leave surviving children. He himself was dead before Dec. 21st, 1630, when an admonition of his goods was granted to his wife, with a second admonition after her death, on March 11, 1631, and a third on March 10th, 1638. He had three children (see Will of Sir Thomas Lamplugh, his brother, Appendix 26).

1. Anthony Lamplugh, his only son, was alive on June 7th, 1631, when he was left land at Holm Cultram by his uncle Sir Thomas, of Dovenby. If he had survived the death of his uncle Anthony in 1638, he would have come into final and undisturbed possession of the manor and lands of Dovenby. According to Mr. G. W. Cullen he died beyond seas before Oct. 5th, 1636, when an admonition of his effects was granted to his sister, Frances Bullock als Lamplugh. There was a second admonition on March 25, 1638/39, granted to his second sister, Dorothy Winstanley als Lamplugh. If, as seems likely, there were disputes and litigation about the Dovenby inheritance after the death of his uncle Anthony Lamplugh, the descendants and advisers of his

* On Nov. 16, 1625, a wedding is recorded in the Bridekirk registers between "Jana Lamplugh relicta and William Fairfax clericus." Sir Thomas in his will of 1631 calls this Jane Fairfax 'niece' and she is also mentioned as niece in the will of Elizabeth, widow of the Rev. George Lamplugh, in 1645. It looks as if one of the eight brothers had married and had a son who died leaving a childless widow.

two sisters may have made a claim against George Lamplugh, of Papcastle on the ground of the uncertainty as to the exact date of their brother's death.

2. Dorothy Lamplugh, second daughter of William Lamplugh, was unmarried in 1631. On March 18, 1638, she was the wife of Edmund Winstanley, to whom after her death an admonition of her effects was granted. He was of the parish of St. Margaret, Westminster and of St. Andrew, Holborn, presumably a merchant. His will, dated Jan. 11, 1661, was proved on June 7th, 1662, with a second grant on Jan. 1, 1665. He had one son Edmund Winstanley, alive in 1666; but nothing further is heard of this family in connection with the Dovenby inheritance, except for one significant reference to the name Winstanley (not a common one), which occurs in James Jackson's diary. "Sept. 19, 1665, did Mr. Richard Lamplugh, of Ribton come to Abbey Holme and had possession given to the demesne by fira Threlkeld and James Jackson, by virtue of a letter of attorney from Mr. James Winstanley, authorising the fore-sd. fira and James upon the purchase of the sd. Richard Lamplugh."

It is difficult to believe that the name Winstanley can be a coincidence. Richard Lamplugh had married a descendant of Dorothy Winstanley's sister, Frances Lamplugh, and from this note in Jackson's diary it would appear that he bought out from the Winstanley family the property which they held in Cumberland. It will be observed that in 1631 Sir Thomas Lamplugh left some land in Holm Cultram to Anthony Lamplugh son of Sir Thomas' brother William. (See Appendix 26. Will of Sir Thomas Lamplugh).

3. Frances Lamplugh, the elder daughter of William Lamplugh, was sister and coheir of her brother Anthony Lamplugh. She was unmarried in 1631, but on Oct. 5th, 1636 she was styled Frances Bullock als Lamplugh. She married William Bullock, son of Hugh Bullock of the parish of All Hallows', Barking. Her husband was living on Oct. 22, 1649, when she herself had died, (before March 25th, 1638/39).

Frances Lamplugh and William Bullock had one daughter Frances Bullock.

FRANCES BULLOCK (FRANCES MOLINE)
OF DOVENBY, died 1676.

Frances Bullock, the only daughter of Frances Lamplugh and William Bullock, was living unmarried on Oct. 22, 1649. She married Abraham Moline, merchant of London, and was buried at Bridekirk Church on April 13th, 1676, where she is entered as "Doia Francisca, uxor Abrahami Moline gen," which fact suggests that by that time, after the death of Dame Agnes Lamplugh and George Lamplugh of Papcastle, she had come into some of the Dovenby property either by purchase or by virtue of her descent from her grandfather, William Lamplugh, of Dovenby. She and Abraham Moline left three children:—

1. Abraham Moline, of the City of London, styled an apprentice in an indenture dated Sept. 18, 1678, "son and heir of Abraham Moline." He probably died childless not long afterwards.
2. Frances Moline, daughter of Frances Bullock and Abraham Moline, great-granddaughter of William Lamplugh of Dovenby, married Thomas Lamplugh III, of Lamplugh the last representative of the direct line, (see Section II). She was buried at Lamplugh on Jan. 10, 1745, aged 80. Her will, dated May 12th 1742, was proved at Richmond, Yorks, in 1745. Of her large family (see Section II), only two grew up.

- a. Margaret Lamplugh, who married Richard Brisco, of Crofton and died, a week after the wedding, in 1731.
 - b. Elizabeth Lamplugh, who married George Irton, of Irton, and who died a widow without surviving children in 1775, leaving Dovenby Hall and her estates, first to Rev. Thomas Lamplugh, of Copgrove, descendant of Archbishop Lamplugh, and then to Peter Brougham. (See Sections II and V and will of Elizabeth Lamplugh, Appendix 13).
3. Maria Moline, the other sister, granddaughter of Frances Lamplugh, heiress, it would seem, in some part to the estates of Dovenby, was living unmarried at Bridekirk on Dec. 7th, 1676, when she stands sponsor to a child of the Rector of Bridekirk.

She became the second wife of Richard Lamplugh of Ribton (see Section V following); and presumably in some degree by virtue of this marriage, part of the Dovenby property came to that branch of the family. She married secondly, by a license granted at Carlisle, Richard Goodman, of Carlisle, on Sept. 6, 1706. Richard Goodman was living on Jan. 8th, 1721, when he is styled "Of Dovenby, gent."

Thomas Lamplugh III, of Lamplugh, in his will dated June 27, 1734, bequest to his "sister, Maria Good-man" £20 for life.

On July 19, 1736, "Mrs. Good-man, of Dovenby" was buried at Bridekirk. By her first husband, Richard Lamplugh, of Ribton, she had four children (see Section V).

- a. Thomas Lamplugh, born 1682, died 1694.
- b. Robert Lamplugh, born 1686 and had issue (see Section V following).
- c. Elizabeth Lamplugh, born 1685, died 1728, who married John Woodhall, of Papcastle. Her grandchildren were Peter Brougham and Mary Brougham, who were ultimately the heirs of all the Dovenby property. (See Section V).

d. Mary Lamplugh, born 1686, died 1702.

This is a grim story of the plague years, when a whole family suffered eclipse in a surprisingly short time. When Dame Agnes, wife of Sir Thomas, of Dovenby, died in 1665, there were none left to carry on the main line of the Lamplughs, of Dovenby. By the will of her husband, a kinsman, George Lamplugh, of Papcastle, came into some of the property after the death of Anthony Lamplugh in 1638. Other parts of it must have come, either by purchase or by virtue of their marriages with the two Moline heiresses, to the Lamplugh families of Lamplugh and Ribton. It was not long before these two branches had also disappeared.

SECTION V.

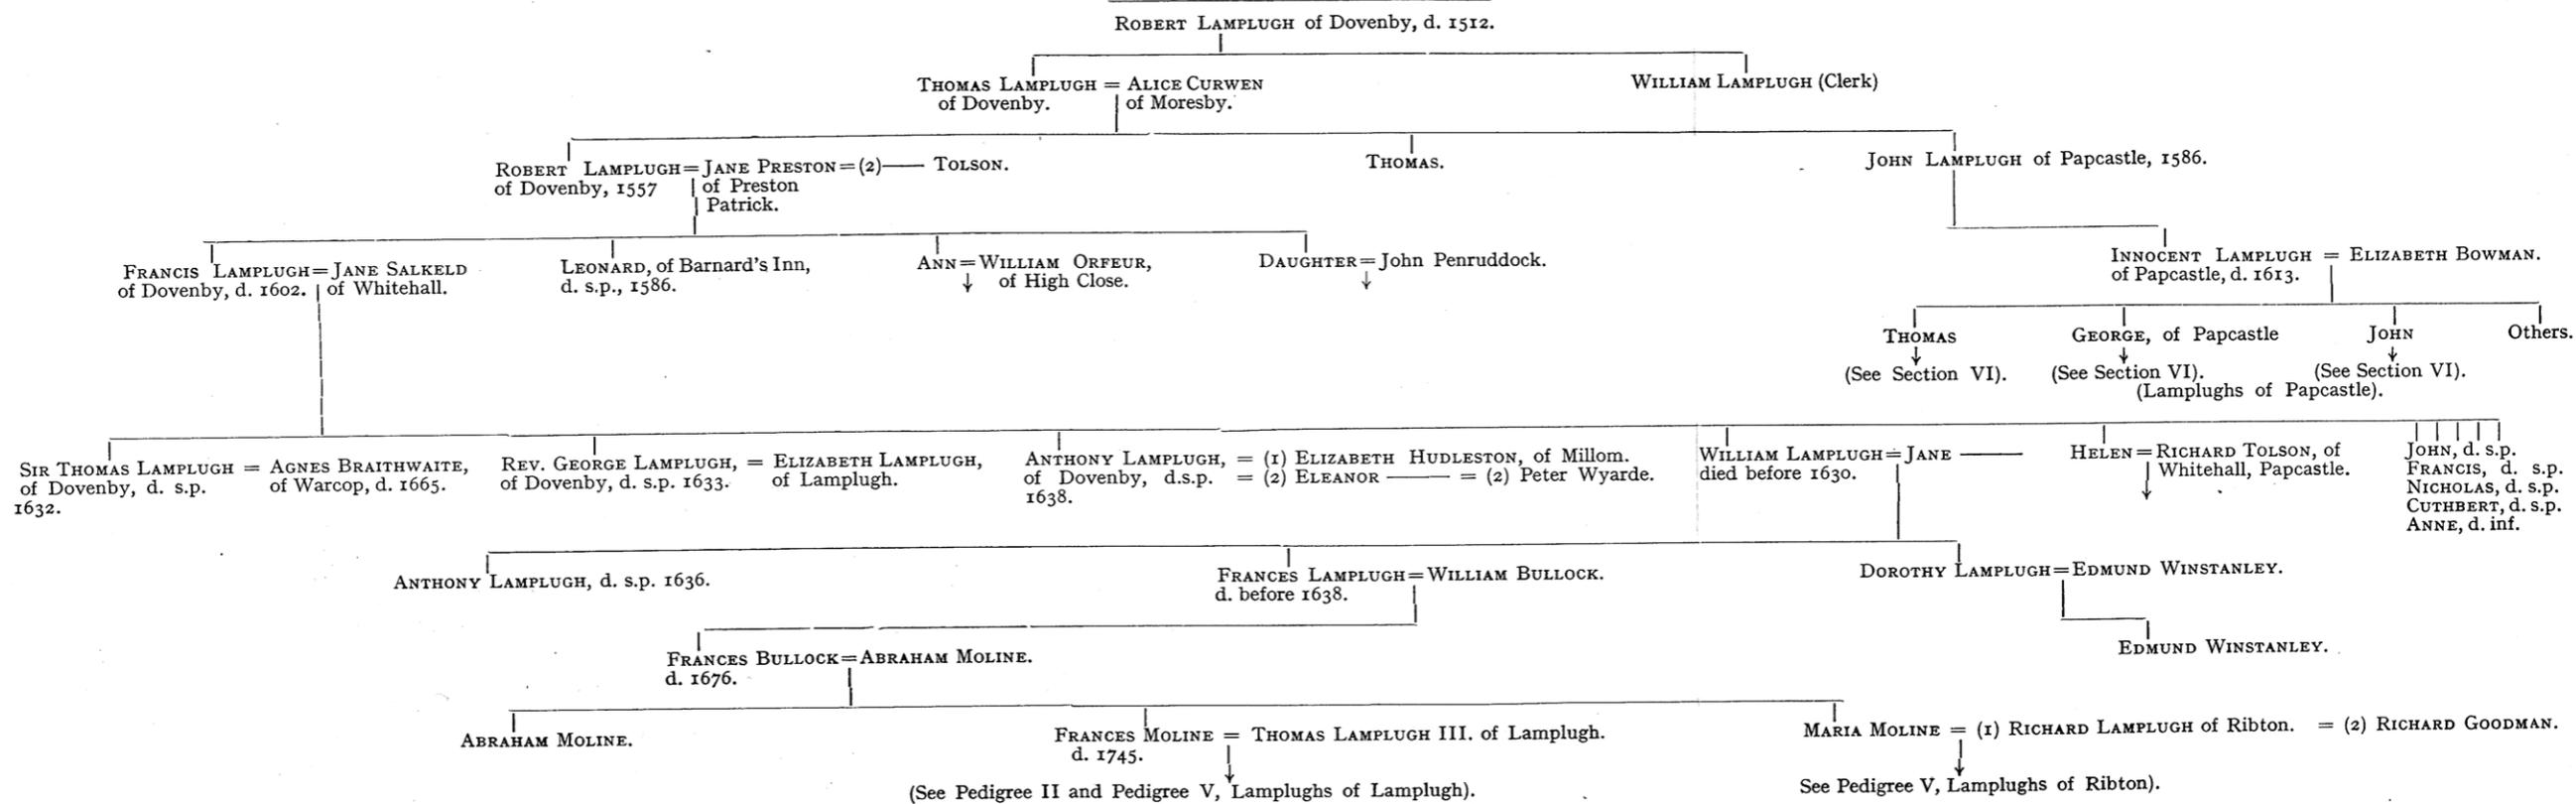

THE LAMPLUGHS OF RIBTON AND SECOND LAMPLUGHS, OF DOVENBY.

1640—PRESENT DAY.

THOMAS LAMPLUGH, OF RIBTON,
HIGH SHERIFF, 1644, died 1670.

Those who have already read Section III of these articles, "The Lamplughs of Skelsmere and Little Riston," will already have some information about the origin of this Thomas Lamplugh. There can be little doubt that he, like Archbishop Thomas Lamplugh, came from Yorkshire and was thus a member of the Little Riston family. There is strong evidence that the Archbishop came from that branch and the two men are obviously connected. Probably, as we have said, he was the Archbishop's uncle and the second son of Thomas Lamplugh, of Little Riston (see Pedigree V). There is a note in the family's possession which states that

PEDIGREE IV. THE FIRST LAMPLUGHS OF DOVENBY.

To face p. 82.

“ Thomas Lamplugh came from Beverley in Yorkshire during the Civil wars and bought Ribton in the parish of Bridekirk.” At the end of his life he was already planning the building of a new Ribton Hall (close to Cockermouth), which was completed by his son Richard, a beautiful house in the then fashionable Wren style.

Some genealogists, notably William Jackson, have surmised with some excuse that he was of the Papcastle branch of the Lamplughs and an elder brother to that George Lamplugh, of Papcastle, who became part heir of the Dovenby estates. But reference to the will of this George Lamplugh (see Section VI Will of George Lamplugh of Papcastle), shows that in that will, dated 1668, George speaks of his brother Thomas as already dead. The Bridekirk registers record the death of Thomas Lamplugh of Ribton thus: “ Thomas Lamplugh ar. (gen domis) de Ribtonia “ on April 13, 1670. The two men cannot therefore be confused.

He became a man of some importance in Cumberland. There is evidence to show that he was connected with several commercial enterprises. In 1642 he was elected a governor of St. Bees School and in 1644 he was High Sheriff of the County. Part of his wealth, which he doubtless increased, may have come from his marriage. Dr. Parker in his book The Rural Deanery of Gosforth, says, “ The sister of Richard Barwise of Ile Kirk married Lamplugh, whose son, Richard, sold the estate to Sir James Lowther of Whitehaven.” Thomas Lamplugh’s wife was called Grace and she was buried at Bridekirk on July 1st, 1640. There is a portrait of Richard Barwise in the possession of Col. Ballantine-Dykes. Thomas Lamplugh of Ribton had two children:—

1. Richard Lamplugh, his heir, of whom following.
2. Frances Lamplugh, who married (see Appendix 7), in 1654, Col. John Lamplugh X, of Lamplugh, the first of the three marriages which connected these two branches of the family. She was his third wife and had a large number of children. (See Section II, Lamplughs of Lamplugh).

RICHARD LAMPLUGH, OF RIBTON AND DOVENBY died 1704. HIGH SHERIFF, 1692.

Richard Lamplugh, the only son of Thomas Lamplugh, of Ribton, was also a man of importance in the County. High Sheriff in 1692, he was elected Member of the House of Commons for Cockermouth on Feb. 9th, 1678, and his name is continually appearing in documents and diaries of that time as a busy and active man with much property. He married as his first wife, Frances, daughter of Sir Christopher Lowther of Sockbridge. She died before Nov. 1690 and left three children.

1. Richard Lamplugh, of Ribton, baptised at Plumbland by the Bishop of Carlisle on July 22, 1668. He died without issue and an admonition of his effects was granted at York to a creditor on June 27, 1724. It was probably he who sold what remained to him of his father's property to Sir James Lowther, of Whitehaven, that omnivorous collector of other people's land. He married Dorothy, daughter of John Brisco, of Crofton, whose brother Richard married Margaret Lamplugh, of Lamplugh. After his death she married Nicholas Warde, of London, merchant.
2. Grace Lamplugh, living unmarried at the time of Archbishop Lamplugh's death in 1691. She seems to have been still unmarried when she died in London in 1724.
3. Jane Lamplugh, who married 1st, John Senhouse, of Netherhall, and had by him two sons, who died in infancy and six daughters, Mary, Jane, Frances, Grace, Isabel, and Elizabeth Senhouse. Secondly she married Charles Orfeur of High Close, and by him had two sons, Charles and William, who died in infancy, and six more daughters Anne, Bridget, Phoebe, Catharine, Margaret and Eleanor Orfeur.*

Richard Lamplugh, of Ribton married as his second wife, Maria Moline, part heiress of the first Lamplughs, of Dovenby (See Section IV above). They had the following children:—

1. Thomas Lamplugh, baptised at Bridekirk, Dec. 3, 1682, died there June 23, 1694.
2. Robert Lamplugh, of whom hereafter.
3. Elizabeth Lamplugh, baptised at Bridekirk, April 7, 1685, married John Woodhall, of Papcastle, who was buried at Bridekirk on April 4th, 1728. She is mentioned as a party to an indenture on March 26th and June 8th, 1707. She was admitted to the tenancy of a cottage in Papcastle on March 30, 1710 as "Madam Elizabeth Lamplugh," which she surrendered on July 19th, 1711, as "Elizabeth Woodhall, wife of John Woodhall, of Papcastle." She was buried at Bridekirk on Oct. 26, 1727. She had one surviving child:—

Frances Woodhall, baptized at Bridekirk, Sept. 4, 1711, buried at Cockermouth on March 4, 1740. She married John Brougham, of Cockermouth, who died on Nov. 14, 1782, aged 77. They had two children.

a. Peter Brougham, of whom hereafter.

b. Mary Brougham, of whom hereafter.

Richard Lamplugh, of Ribton was buried at Bridekirk, on March 24th, 1704/5. His 2nd wife, born Maria Moline, married again, Richard Goodman of Carlisle.

ROBERT LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, 1686-1763, HIGH SHERIFF, 1718.

Robert Lamplugh, the son of Richard Lamplugh and

* Monument in Plumbland Church.

Maria Moline, was baptised at Bridekirk, on April 27, 1686 and died in Jan., 1763. He married his first cousin, Grace Lamplugh, of Lamplugh, the daughter of his father's sister, at Bridekirk, on March 26, 1706, thus uniting these families for the third time in two generations. He had by her three children:—

1. Richard Lamplugh, of whom following.
2. John Lamplugh, baptised on Aug. 6, 1711, and died without issue before 1764.
3. Frances Lamplugh, baptised May 6, 1710. She married David Falconer, who was living on March 21, 1771. They had one daughter:—
Elizabeth Falconer, of whom hereafter.

RICHARD LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY, 1706-1764.

Richard Lamplugh, son of Robert Lamplugh and Grace Lamplugh, was baptised at Bridekirk, on March 20, 1706, and was buried there on Jan. 4, 1764. He died childless. His will (see Appendix 32), is dated Dec. 26, 1763, proved at Carlisle on Feb. 8, 1766. He leaves his property in trust to Henry Curwen for his niece, Elizabeth Falconer.

ELIZABETH FALCONER, OF DOVENBY.

She was daughter of Frances Lamplugh and David Falconer, niece of the foregoing Richard Lamplugh. She died four years after her uncle in April, 1768, and her estates of Dovenby passed to Peter Brougham, the grandchild of Elizabeth Lamplugh, of Dovenby, her great-aunt.

PETER BROUGHAM, OF DOVENBY, 1735-1791.

Peter Brougham, the son of John Brougham, of Cocker-mouth and Frances Woodhall, who was the only daughter of John Woodhall and Elizabeth Lamplugh, of Dovenby, was admitted to the manor of Dovenby, as "cousin and customary heir at law of Elizabeth Falconer, spinster, deceased," on May 12, 1769. He was baptised at Cocker-mouth on April 24, 1735. By Royal License, dated March 5, 1783, he took the name and arms of Lamplugh. At the death of the Rév. Thomas Lamplugh, Rector of Copgrove (great-grandson of Archbishop Lamplugh) in 1793, he should have also come into possession of the other Dovenby estates by the will of Elizabeth Irton, the daughter of Thomas Lamplugh III, of Lamplugh. But he had died unmarried, in 1791 (buried April 19, at Cocker-mouth), and all his property passed to Mary Dykes, the only daughter of his sister, Mary Brougham, who had married on June 6, 1769, Frecheville Dykes, of Warthole, who was baptised at Penrith, on Sept. 25, 1731, and who died on April 30, 1784. Mary Dykes, née Mary Brougham, was buried at Plumbland on Oct. 18, 1785.

MARY DYKES (BALLANTINE-DYKES),
OF DOVENBY, 1774.

Mary Dykes, the niece of Peter Brougham (see Appendix 33), was one of those heiresses who have appeared but rarely in county history. She united in herself the whole properties of the Lamplughs of Dovenby, with those of the Dykes of Warthole. She was born at Cocker-mouth on Dec. 28, 1774, and on Jan. 11, 1800, she married her cousin on the Dykes side, Joseph Dykes Ballantine, of Crookdale. At his marriage he took the additional surname of Dykes, by Royal warrant dated Jan. 29, 1800. He and his wife, who lived at Dovenby Hall, had a large family, which is by no means common in the case of heiresses:—

1. Frecheville Lawson Ballantine-Dykes, of whom following.

2. Joseph Ballantine-Dykes (The Rev.) married Helen T. Litt, and had issue. He died in 1872.
3. Lamplugh Brougham Ballantine-Dykes, d. s.p. 1886.
4. Lawson Peter Ballantine-Dykes, d. s.p. 1875.
5. Leonard John Ballantine-Dykes, d. s.p. 1843.
6. James William Ballantine Dykes, d. s.p. 1894.
7. Mary Ballantine-Dykes, married John Marshall, of Derwentwater, and had issue, and 2ndly, P. O. O'Callaghan and had issue.
8. Jane Christiana Ballantine-Dykes, married Lt.-Col. Thomas Donnelly, and had issue.
9. Ellen Ballantine-Dykes, married James Walker, of Dalry, and had issue.
10. Frances Ballantine-Dykes, married Edward Ormerod.
11. Susan Ballantine-Dykes, married William Moncrieff.

FRECHEVILLE LAWSON BALLANTINE-DYKES,
OF DOVENBY, 1800-1860.

He was born on Dec. 12, 1800, and married on April 11, 1844, Anne Eliza, eldest daughter of John Gunson, of Ingwell, by his wife Ann Frances, the child by his first marriage of Edmund Lamplugh Irton, of Irton Hall. Their children were:—

1. Frecheville Brougham Ballantine-Dykes, died 1866.
2. Lamplugh Frecheville Ballantine-Dykes, his heir, of whom following.
3. Hubert Frecheville Lawson Ballantine-Dykes, died 1870.
4. Lawson Leigh Ballantine-Dykes.
5. Leonard Thomas Ballantine-Dykes, died 1897.
6. Mary Frances Ballantine-Dykes, married Major-Gen. Sir J. F. T. Donnelly and had issue.
7. Adeliza Ballantine-Dykes, who married Capt. J. F. D. Donnelly.
8. Eveline Joyce Ballantine-Dykes, who married Robert Keate.

PEDIGREE V. THE LAMPLUGHS OF RIBTON (LATER OF DOVENBY).

To face p. 89.

9. Ida Isabel Ballantine-Dykes, who married Capt. J. T. Cotesworth.
10. Beatrice Irton Ballantine-Dykes, died 1875.
11. Agneta Mary Ballantine-Dykes, married Capt. H. de Teissier, 5th Baron de Teissier, and had issue.

LAMPLUGH FRECHEVILLE BALLANTINE-DYKES,
OF DOVENBY, 1854-1893.

He was born on July 5, 1854 and married on Feb. 19, 1879, Edith Georgiana, daughter of R. Howard Brook, of Castle Howard, Avoca, County Wicklow. He died on Feb. 5, 1893, leaving one son:—

Lt.-Col. FRECHEVILLE HUBERT BALLANTINE-
DYKES, OF DOVENBY, 1881.

He was born on Sept. 16, 1881 and married Winifred Mary, daughter of W. Pitt Miller, of Merlewood, Grange-over-Sands, and has three children:—

1. Thomas Lamplugh Ballantine-Dykes, born June 30, 1912.
2. Nancy Ballantine-Dykes, born Sept. 14, 1919.
3. Joseph Frecheville Ballantine-Dykes, born April 15, 1922.

SECTION VI.

A NOTE ON THE LAMPLUGHS OF PAPCASTLE,
1550-1660.

A reference to Section IV above, "The first Lamplughs of Dovenby," will show that Robert Lamplugh of Dovenby (vixit c. 1550), had a brother of the name of John Lamplugh, of Papcastle. This man had a son of the name of Innocent.

INNOCENT LAMPLUGH, OF PAPCASTLE, died 1613.

The Lamplugh Parish Register records that on Nov. 3, 1594, "Innocent Lamplugh, son of John Lamplugh, of Papcastle," married Elizabeth Bowman, daughter of John Bowman, of Brownrigg."

A search in the Bridekirk registers shows that their children were:—

1. Thomas Lamplugh, baptised on Jan. 28, 1598/9. He was dead before 1668 (when his brother George makes his will). He may have married on Nov. 26, 1622, Lucy Tolson, of another old Papcastle family (see Bridekirk Registers). He certainly had children (among them a younger son, John, who was alive in 1668).
2. George Lamplugh, 2nd son of Innocent, became in some measure the heir to some of the Dovenby land. See following.
3. John Lamplugh, baptised at Bridekirk, on Oct., 29th, 1609. He, like his brother George, was mentioned in the will of Sir Thomas Lamplugh, of Dovenby (see Appendix 26), as 'servant and kinsman,' and put after his brother George into the line of succession to Dovenby estates, should there be a failure of male heirs to the testator's brothers. He certainly had children (see his brother's will following).
4. Agnes Lamplugh, baptised Feb. 22, 1600/1, buried Jan. 6, 1608/9.
5. Helen Lamplugh, baptised Oct. 23, 1603, who married a man of the name of Wilkinson, and had children.
6. Mary Lamplugh, baptised March 29, 1612.

Innocent Lamplugh was buried at a Bridekirk on Sept. 11th, 1613.

GEORGE LAMPLUGH, OF PAPCASTLE,
d. 1674.

George Lamplugh, 2nd son of the foregoing Innocent Lamplugh, of Papcastle, was baptised at Bridekirk, on May 5th, 1607. He must have entered the service of Sir Thomas Lamplugh, of Dovenby, in his youth, for he was only 24 years old, when Sir Thomas in his will describes him as 'kinsman and servant' and puts him into the line of succession to the Dovenby inheritance in default of heirs to his own brothers. When early in the year 1638 Anthony Lamplugh, the last surviving brother of Sir Thomas, died childless, this man along with Sir Thomas' widow, Dame Agnes, contested Anthony's will, and presumably made good his claim to part of the Dovenby estates by the terms of Sir Thomas' will. It seems certain, however, that some arrangement was made, possibly as the result of litigation, whereby Anthony Lamplugh's widow, Ellen Wyarde (she had married again) was provided for and probably the descendants of William Lamplugh, the only brother of Sir Thomas who had left surviving female heirs, also made good their claim to some part of the property. An abstract of the will of George Lamplugh of Papcastle will in some measure show the extent of this compromise:—

The will of George Lamplugh is dated May 5th, 1668.

“ I give to my son John Lamplugh one moiety of the tenement at Papcastle which descended to me on the decease of my brother Thomas Lamplugh and to the heirs male of his body, then in default of such issue, to my son Thomas Lamplugh and his heirs male for ever.”

“ AS to the moiety of the said tenements and all those manors and lordships of Papcastle and Dovenby and all other lands tenements and hereditaments in Dovenby and Papcastle and elsewhere within the County of Cumberland and Realme of England, my will is that the same shall descend to my said son Thomas Lamplugh and his heirs for ever, provided always that my wife be not disturbed in the lands settled upon her for life by the power given to me by the proviso of a former settlement.

“ To my daughter Mary Lamplugh the yearly rent and sum of £10 from the lands late the joynture of Dame Agnes Lamplugh.

“ To my said wife the yearly rent or sum of £10 from the said joynture lands for her natural life.

“ To my daughter Dorothy Brumfield the yearly rent or sum of £10.

“ I give and bequeath to my son John Lamplugh the yearly rent or sum of £10.

“ I give to the said John Lamplugh, my son, according to the power given to me by the said proviso or settlement the like yearly rent or sum of £10, to be paid out of the perpetuity of the joynture lands of Ellen Wyarde, from my decease or from the decease of the said Ellen Wyarde, for his natural life, provided always that the perpetuity of the said lands, late the joynture of the said Dame Agnes, now the joynture lands of the said Ellen Wyarde, which are by the recited settlement limited to my son Thomas, shall not be charged with the said rent charge.

“ To my son Brumfield 20s.

“ To such of his children by my daughter Dorothy as shall be alive at my death 10s.

“ To Katharine, wife of my son Thomas £5.

“ To such of the children of the said son Thomas which shall be living at my death, 21s.

“ To my sister Ellen Wilkinson, £40.

“ All the residue to my son John, my daughter Mary and my nephew John, younger son of my brother Thomas, share and share alike and I appoint them joint executors of this my last will and testament, and I give to each of them for their trouble, 21s.

“ I give to my brother John Lamplugh's children 5s. each.

“ To my godson John 5s.

“ To my nephew John Wilkinson of Lorton 10s.

“ To Thomas Lamplugh 41s. to buy a ring.

“ To the poor of Bridekirk 40s.”

This will, signed by George Lamplugh, is witnessed by Allan Wilson, Philip Wilson senior, John Wilkinson, junr. and Thomas Clark.”

Those who are better acquainted with the legal phraseology of the 17th century may be able to interpret more clearly the terms of this will, but it seems sufficiently clear even to a layman that previous to this will some legal arrangement had been made whereby George Lamplugh and after him his eldest son Thomas were to enjoy the emoluments of certain of the Dovenby lands, while Anthony Lamplugh's widow was provided with a joynture for her life from the same lands. We may guess that the descendants of this George Lamplugh of Papcastle found it necessary or expedient to sell what remained in their own hands of the Dovenby estates. It is at any rate certain that in the 19th century the manors of Gilcrux, Papcastle and Dovenby, with the properties, were in the hands of the Lamplughs of Ribton and Lamplugh and passed through them by inheritance to Peter Brougham and thus to the Dykes family. The children of George Lamplugh of Papcastle were:—

1. Thomas Lamplugh, baptised at Bridekirk on March 21st, 1633/4, married Katharine —, who was buried there on May 16, 1670. He certainly had a son Thomas (see the above will), buried on Aug. 21, 1669. Both this Thomas and his wife Katharine are described in the Bridekirk registers as ‘of Cockermouth,’ with the title ‘armiger.’
2. John Lamplugh, of Papcastle, baptised on July 21, 1642, married Margaret Walmsley, of Preston at Bridekirk on July 6, 1671. They had three children recorded in the Bridekirk registers, Thomas, baptised July 9, 1674, Margaret, baptised Nov. 3, 1675, and John, baptised on Oct. 17, 1677.

3. Anne Lamplugh, baptised March 11, 1631/2.
4. Dorothy Lamplugh, baptised Jan. 11, 1635/6, married on Aug. 7, 1662, Thomas Brumfield and had children.

Three other children of George Lamplugh, of Papcastle, Elizabeth, Jane and Mary Lamplugh, were born at Bridekirk but died in infancy or youth.

George Lamplugh of Papcastle, was buried at Bridekirk, on April 24, 1674.

PEDIGREE VI. THE LAMPLUGHS OF PAPCASTLE.

Thus the meagre records of a distinctive Lakeland family trickle into the mists of the 20th century. A friend, reading these pages, has observed that genealogies usually give him 'rigor mortis!' Yet the eye of imagination can make even these dry bones live.

Once again armed traders barter at Lampla' Cross, while a young man, to guard the place, builds his pele tower in the name of law and order and the King. The falcon Bruce swoops down this western road — and is off again, with the Cumberland riders clattering at his heels! A feudal land-grabber, by order of the king himself, bows submissively to Holy Church. Rebellion makes its desperate throw and a Cumbrian dies on a York scaffold. The red rose and the white divide house from house, kin from kin. A fugitive monarch lurks among these hills. Northern gentlemen gather, like gulls, for pickings from monastic bones. A sturdy Border fighter sees the great Elizabeth at her court. Cromwell's soldiers pass this way. In a great house an old widow sleeps away her century of years, while in the rough world outside all her lord's folk die and a young henchman becomes 'the servant when he reigneth.' A fatherless small boy, by way of the fell road to Cumberland, makes his way, through Oxford, to an archbishop's throne. One last fight, and a losing one, by dint of marriage and cross-marriage, by last will and testament, to keep Land and Name together.

What's in a Name? Nothing much more now, perhaps, than a faint, pleasant scent, imprisoned in the pages of the antiquary like last year's rose-leaves in a bowl.

APPENDIX 24.

ABSTRACT OF THE WILL OF LEONARD LAMPLUGH, OF BARNARDS INN, IN THE COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX, GENT.

3rd November, 1586.

I ordain my mother and Joseph Thwaites executors of my will.
To my sister Penruddock to the use of her children £10-£16- I had of Mr. William Labourn I delivered to one Dotshon for plate, which said Dodshon pawned for said William Labourne, said £16, being Willm. Labournes, now in custody of said Dodshon. I forgive my said cousin Willm. Labourne all debts owing to me, referring to his conscience to have consideration of the brothers and sisters of young Mr. Thwaites in respect thereof, and to discharge me from Mr. Foxe. To Mr. Robert Shawe £3-6-8. To Mr. Kerke £3-6-8. To the Nurse 10s. beyond what I promised to pay her for watching with me. I forgive my servant John Dobson £4. he owes me, and give him the wages due to him, on condition that he serves the house of "unerigge" before any other. To John Jaxon 10s. To my brother Francis Lampleighe 40s. for a ring. To my cousin Mr. Thomas Lamplugh 13s. 4d. for a ring. To my uncle John and my uncle Thomas 13s. 4d. a piece for rings. To my sister Penruddock and my sister Orpher 40s. each for rings. I make my cousin Thomas Preston Esquire, my brother John Penruddock Esquire, William Laborne Esquire, and Robert Shawe, Gent, my overseers. I forgive said Thomas Preston £3-6-8 of debt he owes me. To John Hodson 10s. Witnesses, John Penruddock Esquire—William Laborne Esquire—Robert Shawe, Gent, and Thomas Lampleigh, Gent.

Proved 30th June, 1587 by Thomas Warde, notary public, acting for Jane Tolsen, mother of deceased, and Joseph Thwaites, executors.

Perogative Court of Canterbury. Registered 34 Spencer.

APPENDIX 25.

WILL OF JANE LAMPLUGHE OF DOVENBY WIDOW.

1606. 5th January.

I Desire to be buried in Bridekirk Church.

I give to Thomas Lamplughe my sonne my silver set and silver spoones.

I give to the said Thomas all my land in Newby and one tene-ment in Tallentire for himself and his heirs to be lawfully begotten.

To my daughter Agnes Lamplughe my sonne Thomas his wife one velvet kirtle.

To my daughter Helen Tolson £10.

To Mary Tolson £10.

To Anthony Tolson my sonne £20.

To my sonne William £20.

To my sonne Cuthbert Lamplughe the £60 now owing me by my sonne Thomas.

JANE LAMPLUGHE.

H

APPENDIX 26.

ABSTRACT OF THE WILL OF SIR THOMAS LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY
IN THE COUNTY OF CUMBERLAND, KNIGHT.

7 June, 1631.

I bequeath my soul to God and my body to be buried in the parish church of Birdchurch as near to my father and mother as possible. I desire that my mortuary and all other duties to the church be paid. Whereas I suffered recovery in Court of Common Pleas in the Easter Term 9 year James 1 of manor and lands and tenements in Dovenbigh and Grenrige with appurtenances, to uses and with limitations specified in Indenture between myself and Sir Richard Hutton, Kt., Serjeant at Law and a Justice of said Court, dated 13 March 11 year James 1, by which I am able to bequeath said manor or part thereof to any person or persons for one, two, or three lives or for any number of years determinable by death or for 21 years. And whereas I am also able to charge said manor or its issues if said charge do not exceed £100, per annum or be of larger estate than for three lives or 21 years and under, immediately after such appointment said Sir Richard and his heirs and other persons appointed by me will be seized as aforesaid. Now therefore I give to my wife Agnes Lamplugh capital messuage and tenement called Grenerig with appurtenances with the Milne Close and all houses and chambers being part of house called Dovenby Hall, viz. the Crosse Chamber with 2 chambers about it, gallery, dining chamber adjoining to it, kitchen and houses adjoining to it built by my father (Dowercoate excepted) chamber called Cuddy Chamber, East barn without the gate called the Tithe barne, mill house, stable, new garden, little calf close, Morden Calf Close, Brewhouse and rooms therein built by myself, little closet adjoining, Crosse Chamber, one half fruits growing yearly in the orchard, one half of the pigeons yearly taken in the Dowercoate, and all and singular the tenements, cottages, lands and messuages with appurtenances lying in Dovenby now or late in several tenures, possessions or occupations of Michael Johnson, Robert Pennington, William Dodgshon, Thomas Steele, Thomas Willsonn als tenant Tom, John Richmond, William Palmer, Cuthbert Pennington, Agnes Foddle, John Steele, Michael Dodgshon, Rowland Bridge, William Smithson, and William Harryman, or their assigns. I also leave to my wife tithes of corn and grain yearly arising from all my grounds in Dovenby and Grenerig occupied by her and by her tenants and farmers. I desire that she shall enjoy all the foresaid during her life if she remains a widow as augmentation of her jointure. All which said premises I have appointed to my said wife by my deed made to Richard Brathwaite and Gawen Brathwaite Esq. dated 29 January 1624. To said Agnes my wife tithe of corn and grain arising with manor of Papcastle and my water corn mill there, and my tithe barn there and all my lands, tenements and hereditaments in the two Goulfyfts, Gandeyer?, the heades field and all my other property in Papcastle not heretofore assured to her as part of her jointure, for her life. I also give her my house and garth in Cockermouth with appurtenances, which I purchased of Lancelott Fletcher, parson of Deane, for her life. I give to her all that property in Dovenby and Papcastle assured to her by said deed. To my brother George Lamplugh residue of my lands, tenements and hereditaments in Dovenby, Tallentire, Broughton, Cockermouth, Clifton, Dundracot and Ireby not already appointed to my said wife, with reversion of all lands, etc. bequeathed to her after determination of her estate. To hold all the premises not bequeathed to my wife to hold to him and his lawful heirs males so long as they permit my said wife to enjoy her jointure. In default of his issue to my brother Anthony Lamplugh and his lawful heirs males with said proviso. In default of his issue to my brother William Lamplugh and his lawful heirs males with said proviso. In default of his issue to my brother Cuthbert Lamplugh and his lawful heirs males with said proviso. In default of his issue to my kinsman and servant George Lamplugh and his lawful heirs males with said proviso. In default of his issue to my kinsman and servant John Lamplugh and his lawful heirs males with said proviso. In default of his issue to my right heirs for ever. Provided that if my said brothers and other heirs do not fulfil condition to my said wife, the next heirs shall enter into the premises in succession. My wife and my brother George shall not demand any fine from my tenants after my death for 7 years, from time of their last fining. To my brother George all rings and other heirlooms left to me by my father and mother which I desire may continue to go with house at Dovenby. To said George and his heirs males bason and ewer of silver gilt after death of my wife. To said George my interest in lease of my house and garth at Carleile, also use of my brewhouse and bakehouse at Dovenby. I also give to him £10. To Elizabeth his wife £5. To my nephew Anthony Lamplugh son of my brother William, lately deceased, tenements and hereditaments in Lordship of Holmewithame which I lately purchased of the Londoners who were Patentees thereof to the King, to said Anthony and his lawful heirs males. In default of his issue to my right heirs forever. To my brother Anthony Lamplugh £40. To Elizabeth his wife £3. To my brother Cuthbert £30 at time of his marriage or two years after my death. To my nephew Henry Tolson £6-13s-4d. and to his wife 40s. To my niece Mary Osmotherley £3-6s-8d. To my niece Jane Fairefax £3-6s-8d. To my niece Francis Tolson £3-6s-8d. To my nephew Launcelott Tolson when he shall become freeman in London £20. To my niece Frances Lamplugh daughter of my brother William Lamplugh £40. at her marriage. To my niece Dorothy Lamplugh her sister £20. at time of marriage or age of 21 years. I bequeath to John Lamplugh, son of my cousin Innocent Lamplugh yearly rent of £3. per annum out of my property in Dovenby for his life, payable at Pentecost and St. Martin the Bishop in winter, by even payments, he being able to distrain on my said property in case of non-payment, except on parts thereof bequeathed to my said wife, and to take said rent of £3. with arrears thereof. To Richard Tolson my godson 1 little gilt bowl. To John Lamplugh my godson the other gilt bowl. To Thomas Egelsfield my godson 40s. of debt his father owes me which is £5. To my cousin George Lamplugh son of Innocent £5. To Ellen Wilkinson his sister 40s. To Elizabeth Lamplugh his sister £5. To Jane Williamson 20s. To Thomas Wilson £3-6s-8d. To Mary Hunterhone £3-6s-8d. To Henry Bramfelds children 20s. To Cuthbert Pennington 40s. To Mary Orfeur 40s. To James Warwick 40s. To wife of James Thompson deceased 20s. and to her children 20s. To poor of Bridkerke parish £3-6s-8d. To poor of Cockermouth parish £3-6s-8d. I desire that each of my servants who serve at time of my death shall have their wages doubled. Residue of my goods I give to my wife Agnes Lamplugh and my kinsman George Lamplugh, whom I make joint executors of my will. I appoint as Supervisors Sir Edward Musgrave Kt., John Lamplugh, Richard Braythwaite and Gawen Braythwaite Esq. and give them each 20s. in gold a piece for their pains. If any question or controversy arises between my wife or my brothers or any other person about my will my supervisors shall endeavour to order and determine the same and their ordering shall be followed.

(Signed) Thomas Lamplugh.

Witnesses. Richard Wheelwright, George Lamplugh, John Lamplugh, Thomas Laurence, William Briggs, Thomas Wilson.

Proved 17 February, 1634 by Dame Agnes Lamplugh the relict, one of the executors. Letters of administration of intestacy granted to Anthony Lamplugh, Esq., brother of deceased, February 1632, being revoked.

Prerogative Court of Canterbury. Registered 22 Sadler.

APPENDIX 27.

WILL OF AGNES LAMPLUGH OF DOVENBY.

1658. 2nd March.

I give to my deer sister Barton my best Jewell and Ring.

I give to my sister Askeugh my silk Gullo manea gown.

I give to my brother Richard Braithwaite of Burneshead a little velvet trunk.

I give to my sister wife of the said Richard Braithwaite a silver can.

I give to my brother Askeugh a 20 shilling piece.

I give to nephews William Brisco of Crofton and Francis Salkeld of Whitehall whom I hereby appoint and constitute upervisors of this my last Will either of them a 20 shilling piece to buy them a Ring for my remembrance.

To my neece Salkeld of Whitehall a velvet Petticote.

To my neece Phillipson of Crook what is due unto me upon Bond by her husband.

To my cousin Francis Salkeld his little son a Bout sugar dish of Silver with a spoon of Mother of Perle.

To Miss Jane Rendick a Bedstead a featherbed and other Furniture to the value of 20 shillings over and besides the 20 shillings which I had formerly given her by will.

To Thomas Lamplugh son of George Lamplugh of Papcastle and his wife a Bason and Ure of Silver.

To my nephew Tolson of Wood Hall a silver lugged Cup.

To my cousin Catherine Musgrave one of my Jewells.

All the residue to my deer neece and Goddaughter Agnes Salkeld, whom I make sole Executrix.

Philip Wilson his wife and other friends I recommend to be remembered at the discretion of my Executrix and I give to Robert Pennington a Heifer.

AGNES LAMPLUGH.

In the presence of Peter Mawson.

APPENDIX 28.

ORIGINAL WILL.

ABSTRACT OF THE WILL OF ELIZABETH LAMPLUGH, RELICT OF
GEORGE LAMPLUGH, LATE LORD OF DOVENBIE.

Date—28 Aug. 1645.

To be buried in the sepulchre which belonged to my husband in Bridekirk Chancel.

To Sir Patrick Curwn, Bt., a 22/- piece, and to his virtuous lady one new silver pottinger and one spurroyal.

To Lady Margaret Selby one half spurroyal.

To Lady D'Arcie one half Spurroyal.

To Mistress Dallinell one angel of gold.

To my sister Vavezour one old spurroyal.

To Mrs. Dorothy Dallinell and her sister Isabel five shillings.

To Mrs. Raneson and Mrs. Mustians ten shillings.

To my cousin Grace Curwn five shillings.

To the servants in the house in Workington ten shillings.

To the poor twenty shillings.

To my dear sister, Lady Lamplough, one jewel with a chrystal in it, and a gold ring.

To my brother Tolson one twentyshillng piece.

To my nephew Henry Tolson twenty shillings, and to his wife ten shillings.

To my nephew Richard Tolson twenty shillings.

To my niece Frances Tolson twenty shillings.

To my nephew Lancelot Tolson twenty shillings, and to his wife ten shillings, and to my goddaughter, their daughter, twenty shillings.

To my nephew William Fairfax those books of mine he hath and one angel of gold, and to his wife one jewel with a death's head in it, and one loose gown of wrought black satin with a silk petticoat.

To my godsons, Elred and Christopher Curwn, either of them an angel.

To the two Mistresses Curwn of Camerton five shillings.

My nephew, Richard Eaglesfield, is indebted unto me forty shillings. I give twenty shillings, part thereof, to his son Thomas, and the other twenty shillings to his son, my godson.

To my cousin Osmotherley's children every of them five shillings.

To my cousin, Thomas Lamplough of Ribton, a twentytwo shilling piece, and to his son, my godson Richard, ten pounds to buy books to go to the University, and to my cousin Frances, his sister, a twenty shilling piece.

To my cousin Grace my best riding suit.

To the enlarging of the quire of Broughton Chapel £5.

To the poor of Ribton twelve shillings.

To Mr. Bibie one black cloak, and to his son my godson twenty shillings.

To the poor of Bridekirk twenty shillings.

To the poor widows in the Hospital twenty shillings.

To Gawen Eaglesfield my godson, one black suit.

To my goddaughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Fairfax of Menston, forty shillings, hoping her mother will take my niece Elizabeth Furnasse according to her promise, and I have entreated my nephew Lamplough to take care she be sent according to my desire.

To my godson, John Hudson, of Kirkby Lonsdale twenty shillings.

Whereas Francis Curwn of Cammerton oweth me forty shillings, I give same to the poor of Cammerton and Seaton.

Whereas I left five pounds at Westod last time I was there, my will is that my sister Vavezour dispose of it as followeth.

To my brother Vavezour twenty shillings.

To my nephew Thompson forty shillings.

To my niece, his wife, and my godson, their son, and to Mr. Bellwood and his wife, either of them five shillings.

To old Mrs. Furnasse and Mrs. Williamson five shillings.

To each godchild five shillings.

To my cousin Thomas Lamplough forty shillings and to his brother Josiah twenty shillings.

To my cousin John Kirkby five shillings, and to his niece Ellinor Kirkby five shillings.

To Mrs. Cleator ten shillings.

To my sister Lamplough my best black satin gown and twenty shillings, and to her daughter Anne a lace black hood, and to her four younger brothers five pounds.

To my nephew William Furnasse twenty pounds.

To my niece Elizabeth Furnasse, his sister, thirty pounds when she comes to twenty-two years, and my will is that my nephew John Lamplough give her ten pounds more if her Mistress thinks she deserves well.

To Pickering Hewer a black serge suit.

To Elizabeth Winnyat and Catherine Mirehouse five shillings each.

To my goddaughter Elizabeth Braithwate ten shillings.

To John Lamplough of Cockermouth five shillings.

To Henry Fisher ten shillings.

To Margaret Askew five shillings.

To the rest of the servants in Lamplough House fifteen shillings amongst them.

To the poor of the parish of Lamplough twenty shillings.

To my nephew John Lamplough and my cousin John Braithwate, now Rector of Lamplough, all books which were my husband's.

The residue of my goods I give unto John Lamplough of Lamplough, whom I make Executor.

Supervisors:—

Sir Patricius Curwn, Bt.

Thomas Lamplough of Ribton, Esquire.

Lady Isabel Curwn.

My sister Ann Vavezour.

Witnesses:—

John Hynde.

John Dixon.

Pickering Hewer.

Proved 20th September, 1646.

APPENDIX 29.

On the 9th day of September, 1633 administration of the goods of Elizabeth Lamplough als Hudleston late of St. Margaret's, Westminster, London, was granted to Anthony Lamplough, Esquire, her husband.

PREROGATIVE ACT BOOK.

On the 30th day of July, 1638, Administration of the goods of Elizabeth Hudleston, als Lamplough, late of St. Margaret's, Westminster, not administered by Anthony Lamplough, her late husband, was granted to Elizabeth Knipe, wife of Samuel Knipe, her natural and lawful ———.

PREROGATIVE ACT BOOK.

APPENDIX 30.

Caveat entered against probate of the will of Anthony Lamplough, late of Dovenby Hall, in the County of Cumberland and Diocese of Carlisle, that same be not granted before the 30th day of October next ensuing unless first be heard Agnes Lamplough, widow and George Lamplough, gentleman.

Caveat entered the 8th day of September,, 1638 by Thomas Squire, Notary Public.

PREROGATIVE ACT BOOK.

APPENDIX 31.

ABSTRACT OF THE WILL OF FRANCIS LAMPLEIGH, CITIZEN AND CLOTHWORKER OF LONDON.

27 March, 1605.

I commend my soul to God. I desire that my body shall be buried in the parish church of St. Faith, under Pauls Church, London. I desire that all my debts shall be paid immediately after my decease. I give the residue of all my goods, chattles, cattle, mares, plate, jewels, ready money, household stuff, moveables, debts and other things in manner following. To my mother Jane Lamplughe and my brother Cuthberte Lamplughe 100 marks equally between them. To my brother Thomas Lamplughe Esq. £10. To my brother-in-law Richarde Tollson Esq. 40s. for a ring. To my brother George Lamplughe 20 marks. To my uncle John Lamplughe 30s. for a ring. To my brother Anthony Lamplughe 100 marks. To my brother Willm. Lamplughe 100 marks. To every of the children living at my deafh of my said brother-in-law Richarde Tollson 20 marks a piece to be paid to them at age of of 21 years or day of marriage. I will that said Richarde Tollson shall have their legacies delivered to him for their use within 9 months after my decease, and he shall give an acquittance to my executrix for the same. If any of the said children shall die under age or unmarried and portion of such child shall be distributed among the other of them surviving in equal parts. I desire that said Richarde Tollson shall give sufficient security to my brothers Thomas Lamplughe and George Lamplughe for payment of said childrens legacies to them under the terms of my will. To said Thomas Lamplughe and John Whelewright Vicar £50 for the poore of the parish of Bridechurche in the county of Cumberland, or to the use of the Schoolmaster for the time being of the said parish, to be given at the discretion of said Thomas Lamplughe, Richarde Tollson, Anthony Lamplughe and John Whelewright or the survivor of them. After their decease the trust shall be vested in the Vicar and Churchwardens of said parish for the time being, and in the lords and owners of Dovenbie Hall and Bridechurche Hall in the county of Cumberland for the time being. I will that said sum of £50 shall be lent forth upon good security at discretion of the trustees and the profits distributed as aforesaid. To the use of the poor of the parish of St. Faith aforesaid £10 to be employed at discretion of the churchwardens of said parish for the time being. To Henry Goodman and Ellen his wife £10. To Elizabeth Goodman one of their daughters £20. To Susan Goodman another of their daughters £20. To my son-in-law Richarde Procter £100 at age of 21 years or day of marriage. To James Shawe 40s. for a ring. To the poor children of Christs Hospital in London £3, if they go with my body to my burial. To my servant Willyam Tyffin £10. I release my apprentice Ambrose Jones the last years of his term of apprenticeship which he has to serve with me, or £10, in money at his choice. To my servant Raphe Oleranshawe £10. To my servant Agnes Cotney £5. To John Tyffin the elder 20s. To John Tyffin the younger his son 10s. To Jane Tyffin, wife of said John Tyffin the elder 10s. To Willym Peirson, servant to Mistress Goldinge £5. To Ellen Hartnes, servant with Mistress Watson, £5. To Innocente Lamplughe 13s. 4d. for a ring. I release Willym Barker all such debts as he owes me at time of my decease. I release Thomas Sands all such debts as he shall owe me at my death. I will that my executrix shall expend £100 upon black for mourning and other things fitting for my funeral, she taking the advice of my overseers in the bestowing thereof. The rest of my aforesaid goods remaining unbequeathed I give to my wife Anne Lamplughe and make her my sole executrix. I appoint as overseers of my will my friends John Lawe, Humfrey Wallcotte, Henry Kinnarsley and Willm. Lamplughe my brother and give them 40s. a piece for their pains.

per me Francis Lamplughe—Sealed, published and delivered in presence of Tho. Sparcke scr.—Tho. Parratt and of me Humfrey Bowden, servant to said scr.—Henry Kinnarsley.

Proved at London 9 April 1605, by Anne, relict and executrix.

Prerogative Court of Canterbury.

Registered 25 Hayes.

APPENDIX 32.

WILL OF RICHARD LAMPLUGH OF DOVENBY, GENTLEMAN.
1763. 26th December.

To Mary Gordon my house servant £100.

To John Bell Vicar of Bridekirk £20.

To the said John Bell £20 to divide among the poor.

To William Brown schoolmaster of Dovenby £20.

To Henry Curwen of Workington (of whose honour and sincerity I have the highest opinion) £20.

I devise all the residue to the said Henry Curwen in trust for my niece Elizabeth Falconer.

I appoint the said Henry Curwen and Phoebe Robertson executors of this my last will.

RICHARD LAMPLUGH.

Witnesses

William Brownriggs.

Richard Dixon.

Thomas Walker.

Note. Probate granted to Henry Curwen on the 9th of February, 1765.

APPENDIX 33.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE ESTATE OF PETER* LAMPLUGH, OF DOVENBY.

1791. 12th September.

Thomas Dykes and Lawson Dykes Ballantine were elected and appointed Guardians of Mary Dykes his niece a minor of sixteen years.

Effects sworn under £600.

W. Paley.

Surrogate.

APPENDIX 34.

A LIST OF THE LAMPLUGH HIGH SHERIFFS.

1421 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh III of Lamplugh)
Section II.

1433 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh IV of Lamplugh)
Section II.

1476 Thomas Lamplugh (Thomas Lamplugh II of Lamplugh)
Section II.

1537 John Lamplugh (Sir John Lamplugh VI of Lamplugh)
Section II.

1550 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh VII of Lamplugh)
Section II.

1557 Robert Lamplugh (Robert Lamplugh of Dovenby)
Section IV.

1561 Thomas Lamplugh (? Thomas Lamplugh of Skelsmere)
Section III.

* Peter Lamplugh, formerly, before he took the name of Lamplugh, Peter Brougham.

- 1572 George Lamplugh (Lieutenant of Cockermonth) Section II.
1573 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh VIII of Lamplugh)
Section II.
1580 Francis Lamplugh (Francis Lamplugh of Dovenby)
Section IV.
1581 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh VIII of Lamplugh)
Section II.
1615 Thomas Lamplugh (Sir Thomas Lamplugh of Dovenby)
Section IV.
1622 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh IX of Lamplugh)
Section II.
1644 Thomas Lamplugh (Thomas Lamplugh of Ribton)
Section V.
1678 John Lamplugh (John Lamplugh X of Lamplugh) Section
II.
1692 Richard Lamplugh (Richard Lamplugh of Ribton)
Section V.
1709 Richard Lamplugh (Richard Lamplugh of Dovenby)
Section V.
1718 Robert Lamplugh (Robert Lamplugh of Dovenby)
Section V.