

WARKWORTH, CO. NORTHAMPTON.

From an old water-colour sketch at Hassop.

The Heraldic Stained Glass Hassop Hall, co. Derby.

By A. P. SHAW, B.A., LL.B.

PART I.

WHEN I first set out to decipher the heraldic stained glass in the Hassop Hall windows, I only intended if possible to identify each coat and the family to which each achievement belonged.

This in itself was a more difficult task than at first sight appeared. A casual glance at the windows left one the impression that there would be no more than fifty coats to deal with at the very outside, and probably less. Judge, then, of the astonishment of your Editor and myself when (he writing at a table, and I calling from the top of a patent platform ladder) we took two whole days to blazon no less than three hundred and twenty-nine coats, besides coronets, badges, and ornamental glass. When the owner of Hassop Hall, Mr. Leslie, gave us his kind permission to proceed with the work, he wrote: "It is a serious job for a correct herald to do, I can tell you"—and I now vouch for the truth of his words.

But when I began the actual search for the owners of each coat, I perceived that I should only be giving our readers a series of names, and nothing more, if I proceeded on the lines indicated. And it seemed to me preferable rather to attempt less (in one sense), and to clothe the dry bones of heraldic research with flesh and tissue of history, than to set aside all living interest in order to complete my task more quickly.

I have therefore only taken half of the whole amount to begin with, namely, the bow window in the dining-room, and endeavoured to give a complete account of how each coat came into its respective family. These coats all belonged to makers of English history, and a study of the inter-marriages recorded by them is highly interesting. In a second part I hope to give a similar account of the other window in the dining-room, and the window on the staircase.

I do not for one moment suggest that I have any new facts to offer than are already known. I have merely collected and collated information which centres round these particular windows.

I give in each case the references from which I have obtained my data. I have not gone behind those references, as they are for the greater part well known and reliable, and it would have been an endless work to do so. Those who wish for further information than is here given should consult the authors and MSS. referred to, as only the material sufficient for this particular purpose has been abstracted. A great deal more information may usually be found than is actually quoted.

I may also add that the difficulty of deciphering these coats and finding the pedigrees has been much enhanced by the varied spelling of the names, which, at the dates dealt with, was, of course, phonetic. One or two occur to me, which hardly appear, at first sight, to have the least connection with one another. Criol and Kerriol are the same name. So are Seriaux and Sergeant, Carvile and Curwell (this last marriage, after eluding me for weeks, was found under "De la Carvile"), Irby and Orreby, Othberville and Aureville, Hockley and Oakley. And I could multiply instances.

I have to acknowledge the kindness of Mr. Marples, of Thornbridge, whose help took a very practical form. Our thanks are also due to Mr. Leslie, of Hassop, for his kind permission to carry out the work, and the ungrudging way he offered us every possible facility to do so.

THE heraldic glass in the windows at Hassop Hall came from Warkworth, in Northamptonshire, and in order to understand why it should have been moved from the latter place to the former, it will be necessary to explain the connection between the Eyre and Holman families. This I can best do by quoting as much as is necessary from Baker's History of Northamptonshire, vol. i., pp. 739-741, and facing this page with the pedigrees there given.

He says: "Richard Chetwode, Esq., third son of Roger Chetwode, Esq., of Oakley, in Staffordshire, married Agnes Wodhull. [See letter I. of this article.] She died in 18 Elizabeth, and was succeeded in her inheritance by her son, Sir Richard Chetwode, who, in September of 5 Charles I. (1629), conjointly with his son, Richard Chetwode, and grandson, Knightley Chetwode, in consideration of £14,000, sold the manor of Warkworth, with an estate which he purchased in Grimsbury, to Philip Holman, Esq.

"William Holman, Esq., grandson of the purchaser, died without issue in October, 1740, when his inheritance in various counties passed in moieties to his sister Mary, wife of Thomas Eyre, of Hassop, Derbyshire, Esq., and his nephew, William Mathias, 3rd Earl of Stafford. In April, 1746, the Earl, for £15,656 16s. 2½d., sold his moieties of the manors and estates of Warkworth and Middleton Cheney to his uncle, Thomas Eyre, Esq., who, the same month, in conjunction with Mary, his wife, settled the entirety of the estates thus vested in them, subject to their respective lives, on their only younger son, Francis Eyre, Esq. . . . Francis Eyre, Esq., grandson of the above-mentioned Thomas Eyre, disposed of his manor and estate of Warkworth, containing 1,073 acres, by public auction. . . . On the sale of the Eyre estate in 1805, it was purchased by Thomas Bradford, of Ashdown Park, Sussex, Esq., who, in 1807, sold the manor of Warkworth, with about 340 acres, to James Smith, of Berkhamsted, Hertfordshire, Esq., the present [1822-1830] proprietor. . . . Anthony à Wood, the Oxford antiquary . . . rambled 'to the antient and noble seat of Werkworth, then lately belonging to the Chetwoods; of whom it had then, some years before, been bought by Philip Holman, of London, Scrivener. . . . The mannour house is a stately house, the antient habitation of the Chetwoods of Chetwood, in Bucks.; part of which, viz., the former part, was built by the Chetwoods, the rest by Philip Holman, before mentioned.'

. . . The house . . . was taken down in 1806, and in the advertisement for the sale of the materials, is called 'Warkworth Castle.' On a stone, dated 1595, formerly over the entrance to the mansion, and now placed in Mr. Taylor's garden, are the arms and quarterings of Chetwode, between two lions rampant for supporters. 1.—Chetwode. 2.—(Az.) a lion rampant (Ar.), Crewe. 3.—(Purp.) a lion rampant (O.), Sounden. 4.—(Az.) a plate between 3 crescents (O.), Rey or Reys. 5.—(O.) on a bend cotised (G.) 3 crescents (Ar.), Rowley. 6.—Quarterly (Ar. and Sa.), in the second and third quarters a stag's head caboshed (O.) on a bend (G.), Henhull. 7.—Wodhull. 8.—(O.) a fess between 3 mascles (G.), Oakley. 9.—Chetwode. 10.—Fretty (O. and S.), a fess (Erm.) in chief, 3 leopards' heads, . . . 11.—Lyons. 12.—(Ar.) a cross (G.), debruised by a bend (Az.), Newnham."

Thus far Baker, quoting Anthony à Wood.

If further information regarding the Eyre family is desired, I refer the reader to the following MSS. at the British Museum, from which I have copied the portions referring to it:—

Harleian MSS., 1093, fos. 72b, 73a, 73b, 74b, 78a, 78b, 108b, 114a; 1420, fo. 211b; 1486, fos. 30b, 31a, 31b; 1537; 4670, fo. 162; 6104, fos. 82-84.

Egerton MSS., 996, fos. 27b, 28a, 28b.

Coll. Hunteriana MSS., 24436, fos. 116, 117, 65.

The reader now understands how the Eyre and Holman families are connected, and how the Hassop glass would no doubt be brought from Warkworth when that residence was pulled down.

I now propose to take the panes of the dining-room bow window seriatim. The capital letter refers to the plan below the photograph of the window. In every case I give, first, the authorities consulted; next, a description of the pane as it actually is; and, finally, tabular pedigrees, with the names of the heraldic heirs conspicuously printed, clearly showing the various families concerned and their inter-mariages. This last shows, of course, how the quarterings were brought in; and I ask the reader to bear in mind that my business has not been to correct the marshalling (which, indeed, may have suffered during the removal of the windows), but to account for the quarterings as shown.

 - 15.—Az. fretty arg. a chief gules. (St. Leger.)
 - 16.—Arg. 2 bends wavy sa. (Hankford.)

Remarks ... These are the arms of Cary, Barons Hunsdon. No. 1 is a Chetwode coat put in wrong side about, and would be right if viewed from outside. The correct coat is : Arg. on a bend sa. 3 roses of the field barbed and seeded ppr. (Cary.) No doubt this would be done when the glass was moved from Warkworth. The space where the Chetwode coat really belongs will be found at letter C 1, part ii. No. 4 in the window gives the bordure gobony az. and erm., whereas az. and arg. appears to be correct.

No. 9 is reversed in the window.

As regards No. 11, I am inclined to think Rocheford is meant for Stapleton. The arms of Stapleton are: Arg. a lion ramp. sa. armed and langued gules, i.e., the same as Rocheford with the exception of the crown. Now Ann Hankford was youngest daughter and co-heir of Sir Richard Hankford, Knight, by his second wife, Anne, eldest daughter of John de Montacute, Earl of Salisbury; and this Sir Richard Hankford's father was Sir William Hankford, Knight, who married Thomasia, daughter and heir of Sir Richard Stapleton, Knight; so that Margaret Butler undoubtedly brings in a Stapleton coat through her mother, Ann Hankford. Sir Thomas Bullen was created Viscount Rocheford in 1528, and Henry Cary, Baron Hunsdon, was raised to the same dignity in 1621; but there is no trace of any Rocheford marriage. I conclude, therefore, that the Stapleton coat has been carelessly blazoned Rocheford, and then drawn as such.

Additional MSS., 5504, fo. 92, under the heading, "Carie D^{ns} Hunsdon," gives the quarterings as follows: 1, Cary; 2, Spencer; 3, Somerset; 4, Beauchamp; 5, Warwick; 6, Barkley; 7, Lisley; 8, Bullen; 9, Hoo; 10, Butler; 11, Rochford; 12, St. Omer; 13, Malmain; 14, Wichingham; 15, St. Leger; 16, Stapleton; and Stapleton is given: Arg. two bendlets wavy sa., which is really Hankford.

 - 5.—Gules 2 lions in pale arg. langued and armed az. (Strange.)
 - 6.—Per fess arg. and gules a canton sinister az. (Widvile.)
 - 7.—Or a cross engr. sa. (Mohun.)
 - 8.—Az. a lion ramp. arg. (Monhault.)
- The whole charged with an escutcheon of pretence :
- 1 and 4, Barry of 10 arg. and gules over all a lion ramp. or. (Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk.)

2 and 3, Quarterly. 1 and 4, Az. a cross
flory or. (Bruyn.) 2 and 3,
Lozengy erm. and gules. (Rockley.)

Remarks ... These are the arms of Henry Stanley, Earl of Derby, in and after 1555, as the inescutcheon must be his wife's coat, thus identifying him.

Note the connection with Warkworth through the Widviles of Grafton.

No. 2 ought to be Lathom: Or on a chief indented az. 3 bezants.

In Additional MSS. before referred to, the exact coat is given with a label of three points.

No. 8 is borne as an inescutcheon on the arms of Thos. Stanley, 2nd Earl of Derby, and also Edward Stanley, 3rd Earl of Derby, father and grandfather respectively of the bearer of these arms. I am unable to discover the reason of this. I do not trace any Monhault heiress. Perhaps some reader will kindly enlighten me. It seems extraordinary that I should have been able to consult so many authorities on a well-known pedigree such as this, and find no explanation of this coat.

There is an Eyre connection with the Stanleys.

See Seacombe, before referred to. He says:

“William, his first son, succeeded him by the title of Sir William Stanley of Hooton, son of Sir Rowland Stanley, and the nineteenth heir male of his family. He was married to Catherine, the daughter of Rowland Ayres, of Hassop, or Arsop, in the county of Derby, Esq., by whom he had issue, Rowland . . . twentieth heir male . . .”

- 7.—Gules 3 leopards' heads jessant-de-lis or. (Cantilupe.)
- 8.—Arg. 2 bars az., a bordure engrailed sa. (Parr.)
- 9.—Or 3 water bougets sa. (Ros.)
- 10.—Az. 3 chevronels in base interlaced or, a chief of the last. (Fitz-Hugh.)
- 11.—Barry of 8 arg. and gules, over all a fleur-de-lis sa. (Staveley.)
- 12.—Gules a bend betw. 6 cross crosslets or. (Fourneys.)
- 13.—Barry of 6 arg. and az. on a bend gules 3 martlets or. (Gray.)
- 14.—Vair a fess gules. (Marmion.)
- 15.—Barruly, arg. and az. an eagle displayed gules. (Jernegan or Garnegan.)
- 16.—Or 3 chevrons gules, a chief vair. (St. Quentin.)
- 17.—Az. 3 bucks trippant or. (Green.)
- 18.—Gules a chevron betw. 3 cross crosslets or, in chief a lion pass. guard. of the last. (Mablethorp.)

Remarks ... No. 1.—“G. E. C.,” in his Baronage of England, vol. vi., p. 216, note (d), says: “The arms borne by the first and second earls of the second creation are generally given as being surrounded by a bordure (for illegitimacy) gobony or and gu., on each pane of the last a bezant. The arms of the first earl (d. 1596), as engraved in Dugdale’s St. Paul’s, shows this (gobony) bordure; but in his Garter plate, the bordure is ‘argent.’ In the Garter plate of the second earl there is no bordure at all, and in the blazon thereof in Leake's Garter Plates (Coll. of Arms) is the note that from this time the arms were borne 'per pale azure and gules' (the former coat being 'gules and azure'), and without the bordure. Most certainly this bordure disappears with the third earl, who, and whose successors, bore the coat without any difference. . . ."

It will be seen from the above that the second Earl of Pembroke of the second creation is the only person who could have borne this coat and quarterings.

Nos. 2, 3, and 4.—I have had endless trouble with these coats. In a letter written by Gregory King, Lancaster Herald, to the Earl of Clarendon on 3rd December, 1692 (British Museum, Stowe MSS., 747, fo. 12—the original letter), it is stated officially from the College of Arms that "The Coat quartered by the Earl of Pembroke upon his monument, described in the History of St. Paul's Cathedral, page 88, next to Ye Paternal Coat, should be a Cheveron between 3 Spearheads Imbrued, and not a Cheveron between 3 Lozenges, being the known Coat of Morgan of Wales, and is found in several of Our Books amongst the antient quarterings of the Herberts, and always placed next to the Paternal Coat."

There is, however, no trace of any connection with Morgan in this pedigree. The whole matter is most carefully set out in British Museum Harleian MSS., 1196, fos. 87, 88, though there is no clue to the author's name.

No. 4 is generally stated to be Morley; and it is usually said that the first Earl of Pembroke of the first creation married Maud (or Matilda), daughter of Sir John Morley, from whom he inherited the Castle of Raglan. For this statement see, inter alia, Coxe's Historical Tour Through Monmouthshire, p. 172. But "G. E. C.," in his Peerage of England, quotes Mr. Wakeman (who gives ample reasons for his statements) thus: "The often repeated assertion that the Herberts acquired the estate of Raglan by the marriage of the father of Sir William ap Thomas with the heiress of Sir John Morley is totally erroneous." Further than this, the bastardy of Richard Herbert precludes any such quartering. In one book (British Museum Additional MSS., 5504), No. 3 is given as Astiley. I find no such name anywhere connected with this branch of the Herberts.

I can only conclude that William Herbert, first Earl of Pembroke of the second creation, claimed these three quarterings through his mother, Margaret Cradock, in right of her grandfather, supposed, in some misty fashion, to be descended from Bleddyn ap Maenarch. The first of these three coats is the one he bore, and the next is that of his descendant, Einion Sais. The third is probably that of Rhys Grüg (arg. a lion ramp. sa. crowned gules), often erroneously given as a quartering of Einion Sais, instead of the real quartering, Rhys Goch. (See Jones's History of Brecknock, p. 358.) I think it has afterwards been blazoned as Morley by a further error (crowned or instead of gules).

The real pedigree of Margaret Cradock's grandfather, Sir Matthew Cradock's father, is given in Clark's Limbus Patrum Morganiæ, p. 131. This Richard was son of Gwilim, ap. Evan, ap. Cradoc, ap. Ynyr, ap. Ivor, ap. Richard, ap. Einion, ap. Collwyn.

Note the connection with Warkworth. Sir Thos. Green's sister, Amabilia, married Sir John Chetwode, of Warkworth, who died in 1413.

No. 6 should be: Arg. 3 bendlets engrailed gules a canton or. (Horton.)

No. 16 should be: Or a chevron gules, a chief vair.

No. 18 should be (according to Burke's Armory): Gules a chevron or betw. a lion pass. in chief of the last, and 3 cross crosslets in base arg. 2 and 1.

H

Authority ... Burke's Armory.

Description ... An ornamental oval; in the fess point the red rose of Lancaster, stalked and leaved proper, ensigned by a crown, within a crimson cap, composed of a circle of gold richly jewelled; on the edge, 4 crosses patées, between as many fleurs-de-lis, each separated by a strawberry leaf. From the two centre crosses an arch, surmounted by a ball and cross or, the whole adorned with pearls.

Remarks ... See note on K.

- Description ...*
- 1.—Quarterly arg. and gules 4 crosses patées counterchanged. (Chetwode.)
 - 2.—Az. a lion ramp. arg. in base a crescent or. (Crew.)
 - 3.—Purpure a lion ramp. or. (Sounde.)
 - 4.—Or 3 crescents gules. (Wodhull.)
 - 5.—Or a fess betw. 3 mascles gules. (Hockley, Hokeley, Hookley.)
 - 6.—Same as 1.
 - 7.—Az. a plate betw. 3 crescents or. (Ree.)
 - 8.—Arg. on a bend cotised gules, 3 crescents or. (Rowley.)
 - 9.—Quarterly arg. and sa., 2 and 3 charged with a stag's head cabossed or, over all a bendlet of the last. (Henhull.)
 - 10.—Fretty or and sa. a fess erm. on a chief arg. 3 leopards' heads gules. (Okeley.)
 - 11.—Arg. a lion ramp. gules armed and langued az. (Lyons.)
 - 12.—Arg. a cross gules, over all a bendlet az. (Newnham.)

Remarks ... As the first person able to quarter Wodhull was Sir Richard Chetwode, who also sold Warkworth, I identify the coat as his; and he must have had the coat placed over his door in 1575.

Note the marriage of Elizabeth Lyons with Richard de Wydeville as her second husband, and see letter D.

No. 2.—In Harleian MSS. above quoted, the arms of Crew are given: Gules fretty or in each pane a cinquefoil arg.

No. 5.—It is possible this is the coat of Lucia, Lady of Hoccliffe, and not that of Margery de Oakley. I have no evidence either way.

 (Port.)
 12.—Arg. on a chief gules 2 mullets pierced or. (St. John.)
 13.—Gules 3 water bougets erm. 2 and 1.
 (Ros.)
 14.—Azure a fess betw. 3 fleurs-de-lis or.
 (Skelton.)
 15.—Arg. fretty sa. a canton gules. (Irby or Orreby.)
 16.—Sa. 6 martlets arg. 3, 2, and 1.
 (Delamere.)

Remarks ... This is the coat of Charles Paulet, first Duke of Bolton.

No. 4 should be : Barry of 6 gules and erm.
 (Hussey.)

No. 5 should be : Or two chev. gules a canton of the last. (Criol.)

I can find but little trace of Robert Roos, of Gedney, and none at all of his quarterings, Irby and Skelton. The whole of this portion of the pedigree requires more leisure to work out than I can afford. I can only refer the reader to the following (out of some dozens of references consulted) :
Additional MSS., 5530, fo. 155 ; Additional
MSS., 5937, fos. 8 and 12 ; Harleian MSS.,

891, fo. 35; Hoare's History of Wiltshire, I., ii., 256; Harleian MSS., 1052, fo. 37b; "G. E. C.'s" Peerage, under "Wiltshire"; Halstead's Succinct Genealogy of the House of Greene.

No doubt the Skelton and Irby coats come in with Eleanor Roos, and it would appear, from Morant's Essex, as quoted, that the Delamere coat came in with the Irby, or Orby, Orreby, Erbi, as it is also spelt.

- Authorities* ... Burke's Dormant and Extinct Peerage.
 Burke's Armory.
 Papworth's Ordinary.
 Pishey Thompson's History of Boston, 506.
 "G. E. C.'s" Peerage, vi., 401.
 Baker's Northampton, i., 269.
Harleian MSS., 1593, fo. 24a.
- Description* ... 1.—Gules a lion ramp. arg. langued az. (Mowbray.)
 2.—Gules 3 water bougets arg. 2 and 1. (Ros.)
 3.—Gules 3 cart-wheels arg. 2 and 1. (Espec.)
 4.—Az. a catherine wheel or. (Trusbut.)
 5.—Or a fesse betw. 2 chevrons sa. (Warine de Lisle.)
 6.—Gules a chevron betw. 10 crosses patées 4, 2, 1, 2, 1. (Berkeley.)
 7.—Chequy or and az. a chev. erm. (Warwick.)

N.B.—The bottom row of lozenges is omitted, and filled with plain glass.

- 8.—Gules a fess betw. 6 cross crosslets or, 3 and 3. (Beauchamp.)
 9.—Or a lion ramp. gules langued az. (Cherlton.)
 10.—Arg. a saltire engrailed gules. (Tiptoft.)
 11.—England within a bordure arg. (Holland.)
 12.—Gules, a lion pass. guard. arg: crowned or. (Gerard de Lisle.)
 13.—Arg. a bend sinister az.
 14.—Arg. a chevron gu. (Tyes.)
 15.—Or on a chief sa. 3 martlets of the field. (Owgan or Pakeman.)
 16.—Or on a bend gu. cotised az. betw. 6 martlets of the 2nd, 3 wings arg. (Walden.)

Remarks ... These are apparently the arms of Sir George Manners. See Additional MSS., 5504, fo. 89.

No. 1 should be Manners: Or, two bars az., a chief quarterly az. and gules on 1 and 4 two fleurs-de-lis or, on 2 and 3 a lion of England. The chief was formerly gules, but altered by way of an honourable augmentation in the time of Henry VIII.

Nos. 13 and 14 appear not to be part of the original achievement, and Nos. 15 and 16, though like the other glass, do not square with the coats given in Additional MSS. quoted above.

They are as follows (and the pedigree bears them out):

- 13.—Arg. a fess double cotised gules. (Badlesmere.)
 14.—Chequy arg. and gules. (Vaux.)
 15.—Gules an eagle displayed within a bordure arg. (D'Albini of Belvoir.)

16.—Or two chevrons within a bordure
gules. (D'Albini.)

I add the portion of the pedigree referring to Dorothy Vernon's marriage as being of general interest to Derbyshire readers.
