

IRISH EARLY MEDIEVAL HOUSES AND LATER WELSH.....DRAINS

July 29, 2011 ijones Day of Archaeology, Day of Archaeology 2011 Ireland

I'm in the process of writing up three articles, hopefully for publication, that sum up my recent PhD thesis about early medieval houses in Ireland. Last week I was excavating some probable 19th century drains at Blaenavon, South Wales. Today I shall be completing some of the drawings associated with this work. Still waiting to hear whether I shall have to revisit the drains! I shall also have to keep my two children entertained...school holidays. All work but very little money.