Editor's Report. Volume 100 of the Proceedings, the first issue to appear in the new format, is in an advanced state of preparation. A considerable amount of material is on hand for inclusion in volume 101. The Society gratefully acknowledges the financial aid it has received from H.M. Treasury in respect of papers submitted for publication by members of staff in the Ministry of Public Building and Works, the National Museum of Antiquities and the Royal Commission on the Ancient and Historical Monuments of Scotland. Mr G. S. Maxwell has decided, with much regret, to resign from the Editorship; he gratefully acknowledges the help and support of the Editorial Committee during his term of office, and pays particular tribute to the work of the Assistant Secretary and Mr I. G. Scott.

The Society is most grateful to Mr Maxwell for his valuable work as Editor. It has been fortunate in securing the services of Dr J. X. W. P. Corcoran as the new Editor.

The Report was unanimously approved on the motion of Mr R. B. K. Stevenson, seconded by Dr K. A. Steer.

The Treasurer then made his report regarding the funds of the Society for 1968-9 and read the Auditor's docquet.

Treasurer's Report

The Accounts for the past year again show that the Society continues to prosper financially, and with the same measure of support from the Fellowship it should be possible to meet the increased expenses which may be anticipated over the coming years.

It will be seen from the Abstract of Accounts that the General Fund of the Society, which takes care of day-to-day expenditure and income, shows an excess of Income over Expenditure for the year of £1,197 – a further sum of £314, recovery of tax on subscriptions paid under Deed of Covenant, has since been received and refund of S.E.T. payments – some £130 – is still to be recovered. When this has been received the Income for the year will be approximately £300 higher than last year.

This figure, however, includes £63 surplus received on the sale of the new Index to volumes 25–48 of the Proceedings, so perhaps a fairer average increase for the year would be between £200 and £250.

Ninety-two new Fellows elected and paid-up joined during the year and it is pleasing to note that over a one-third of these were under 30 years of age – a very healthy sign – and it is hoped they will make the fullest use of all the facilities the Society can offer.

Interest and dividends received show a good rise largely due to increased Savings Bank interest on a somewhat heavier balance maintained. The drop in the amount received from Subscribing Libraries should right itself in the present year when arrears due from Libraries have been recovered.

Turning to Expenditure, economies effected in the Treasurer's section are reflected in the Accounts and the cost of volume 99 of the Proceedings is much down on the previous year's double volume – it must be noticed here that nearly the whole of the cost of the blocks for volume 99 has been charged in the previous year, so the surplus of £1,197 is swollen to that extent.

It is to be expected that higher costs will have to be met in connection with the Society's productions, and while it should be possible to maintain the present high standard of presentation, it will have to be paid for – at present this is possible.

Turning to the specially earmarked funds – the Excavation Fund, after a transfer of £265 provided from the General Fund, shows an excess of Income over Expenditure of £315. Grants voted totalling £182, however, were not applied for until after the close of the financial year and two Grants have so far not been claimed at all. In all 10 excavations were assisted.

The Chalmers-Jervise Fund has an annual income of about £70–£140 every two years, and the expenditure biennially is about £18 on advertising and administration. The prize offered of £50 every other year has not been attracting entrants, and the Council have proposed to increase the amount of the prize to £100 – if this can be done legally.

During the year the Society's Investments were reviewed by its Brokers who recommended the sale of Rank Organisation shares held in General, Excavation, Rhind and Bannerman Funds, and the purchase of British American Tobacco, Imperial Chemical Industries, Sears Holdings 'A' and Carrington and Dewhurst shares. The Finance Committee considered the proposals and decided to follow the Broker's advice. The switch has not turned out well as the Brokers freely admit, for the shares sold have actually gone up, whereas of those purchased three have dropped, and one has shown a slight improvement. Whilst taking into account the profit made on the sale, the Society overall has not lost anything in the sequel, yet it has not profited as it might have done from the gain in value of the Rank shares.

The results were, however, disappointing and the Brokers were asked to explain their reasons for advising a switch which has turned out so much to the Society's detriment. They have replied giving what appear to be sound reasons, and adding that despite appearances the Stocks now held were, in fact, all market leaders, which in time will fully recover lost ground.

The Bequests of Dr A. O. Curle and Dr William Angus show no interest added this year. The funds in both cases are held on Deposit Receipt where interest will be accruing until such time as we need to uplift them.

The Society received during the year a legacy of £250 from the late Mr J. M. Davidson of Glasgow – it has not yet been decided how to employ this money.

The Society also received from an American Fellow, Mr Sheldon P. Fay, a gift of £50 to be applied in furthering the excavation at Birrens.

The Accounts were then approved on the motion of Mr B. P. Lenman, seconded by Mr G. H. Collins.

The President thanked the Treasurer on behalf of the Society.

The Ballot having been concluded the Scrutineers found and declared the list of the Council for the ensuing year to be as follows:

* Life Fellow.

The following have intimated their resignation during the year:

Shena, Lady Aitchison; James Edward Barlow, A.R.I.B.A., M.T.P.I.; C. Carter, M.Sc.; R. J. Macdonald; George G. McWhannell; E. J. Redshaw.

The President drew the attention of the meeting to the proposed alteration of Laws, a copy of which had been circulated to all Fellows. He explained that the purpose of the change was to ease the task of future Presidents, although he himself would complete his full term of five years of office. Most similar Societies had reduced the period of office of their Presidents to one of three years and this would bring the Society into line with current practice. It should also make the finding of future Presidents easier. He then put the proposed alteration to the vote and the alteration was carried unanimously.

Law 12 is therefore altered as follows:

For the words 'The President shall be elected for a period of five years' are substituted the words 'The President shall be elected for a period of THREE YEARS'.

The President then announced that there would be five speakers, presenting items of news briefly.

They were:
