

THE CHURCHWARDENS' ACCOUNTS OF
WEYBRIDGE, 1622 TO 1701.

BY ELEANOR LLOYD.

THERE are several books of the Weybridge parish accounts; the earliest contains those of the churchwardens for 1622 and 1623, 1653 to 1675, and 1697 to 1701, all which are here printed, and with them an account from the overseers of the poor for 1675, and an assessment paper for 1670. In the same volume are the vestry minutes from 1622 to 1709. These give the names of persons present at the meetings, and of the churchwardens, overseers of the poor, and road surveyors elected; with occasional notes of collections and other parish matters. The other volumes, one of which is in a tattered condition, contain churchwardens' accounts from 1770, vestry minutes from 1709, and overseers' accounts from 1688.

The distribution to the poor of money left by Mr. Henry Smith, of Wandsworth, is noted every year. "Smith's Charities" were well known in Surrey and Sussex. The amount received by Weybridge in the seventeenth century appears to have been about £3 : 14*s.* a year—and was either given in money or in clothes, or spent in apprenticing a child. In 1813 it had risen to £9 : 0*s.* 2*d.*, and was divided amongst fifty persons.

The overseers' accounts, of which a specimen page is given, consist chiefly of money spent in relief of the poor. The pensions seem to have averaged 1*s.* 6*d.* a week, sometimes rising to 2*s.* Loads of turves are also given, at 1s. per load, and a 1*d.* for carrying. The full sum spent in 1688 is £45 : 8s. There are also notes of children clothed and apprenticed; Margaret White, otherwise "Peg Whit," who was probably the parish idiot, is clothed from time to time and requires many pairs of shoes. "Nine ells of cloth, for shifting," costs 8s. 3*d.*, shoes are 3s., and the "poors Ratt," in 1690, is 3*d.* in the pound. In 1698 "bes Drew" has a "brest of moton" at 1s. 2*d.*; Th^o Stiles' "bering" is 4s., but "drinke at bering Th^o Stiles" is 5s.; and when, in 1712, Margaret White dies, the parish pays 4s. for a shroud, 5s. for fetching her to Weybridge to bury, and "a man to help and for ferriage; and for drinke at the funeral," 6s. 6*d.*

It will be noticed that payments for bread and beer after the "preambulations" are of almost yearly occurrence, and the amount varies considerably. In May, 1699, the large sum of £3 : 1s. 2*d.* is spent "in all charges when we went a poseshioning," and the vestry records in a minute of May 30th, that the parish resolves to maintain its rights, privileges and customs, against the parish of Walton, in reference to the bounds or marks of the parish made at the going of the bounds that same day. It had evidently been a day of importance.

There is an interesting note in Archbishop Grindal's injunctions with regard to the beating of the bounds of parishes in the diocese of York, in Elizabethan times. He desires "that for the retaining of the perambulation of the circuit of every parish yearly, the parson Vicar or Curate and churchwardens with certain of the substantial men of every parish . . . shall in the days of the rogations, commonly called Cross week, or Gang days, walk the accustomed bounds of every parish, and in the same perambulations or going about, the Minister shall use none other ceremony than to say in English the 103rd and 104th psalms and such sentences of Scripture as be appointed by the Queen's Majesty's injunctions . . . (as 'Cursed be he which translateth the bounds or doles of his neighbour') with the Litany and suffrages, and reading one homily . . . without wearing any surplices, carrying of banners or handbells, or staying at crosses, and such like popish ceremonies."

The churchwardens' accounts at the end of the eighteenth century show little change from the seventeenth. There are constant entries of small sums paid for destroying "hedgehogs and other vermin," for sparrows' heads, and occasionally a polecat or a weasel. A bottle of wine seems to be a necessary indulgence when taking the money for the church grass, and the ringers are paid for ringing the bells on occasions of national rejoicing or those connected with the royal family. Mr. Smith's charity amounts in 1807 to £10:4s., and is spent in bread, flesh, and calico; but the general character of the entries is the same as in the years here printed. It should be said that these same years are covered by the lives of three Rectors, the Rev. Humphrey Browne, who held the living until the sequestration in 1642, and is named as "Goodman Browne" in the accounts; Mr. Kinde, appointed in 1653 by "the Lords" and re-appointed by the King in 1660; and Mr. Herbert Davies, instituted in 1690 on the death of Mr. Kinde.
