

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

THE NINETY-FOURTH ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING was held on 28th May, at the Guildhall, Guildford, by kind permission of His Worship the Mayor, and was presided over by Sir Frederic Kenyon, G.B.E., K.C.B., F.S.A., President of the Society. The Minutes of the last Annual General Meeting were read and confirmed, and the Accounts and Report of the Council for the year ended 31st December, 1948, were presented.

Report of the Council

for the year ended 31st December, 1948

THE COUNCIL OF THE SURREY ARCHÆOLOGICAL SOCIETY has much pleasure in presenting its NINETY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT, with the ACCOUNTS FOR THE YEAR 1948.

PUBLICATIONS.—Volume XLIX of the Collections was issued to members during January. Volume L was printed and would have been issued during the year but for difficulties concerning binding. It is to be issued to members during February, 1949.

Research Paper No. 1.—The Council agreed to the initiating of a series of special papers, devoted to items of research concerning the archæology of the county. These were designed to relieve the shortage of space which would be occasioned if they were included in the Collections and also, by producing them in a large (Crown Quarto) "format," to enable them to include larger illustrations than is possible in the annual volume, except by the use of "folders."

The first of this series, entitled "A Study of the Patterns on Roman Flue-Tiles and their Distribution," by the Hon. Secretary, was published in November, and may be obtained by members from the Assistant Secretary, price 2/6 for members, 5/- for non-members. Postage 3d.

The second Research Paper, "A Mesolithic Survey of the West Surrey Greensand," by the Honorary Editor, is in course of preparation.

LOCAL HISTORY.—The Local History Committee was formed to take over the functions of the former Sub-Committee of the G.P.C., in 1948. It is hoped that the Committee's first publication, Blechingley: A Short History, by Mr. Uvedale Lambert, will soon be ready. Other texts are being considered by the Committee for publication in this new series of histories of Surrey parishes.

The Society's transcript of Leatherhead parish registers has been re-typed and indexed by the Society of Genealogists, and an indexed copy is now in the Library; a complete transcript of the Charlwood registers has been made by our members, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Sewill.

Photographic copies of a map of Ashted of 1802 by James Wyburd, the property of Mr. A. R. Cotton, and of Lord Hylton's map of the Tattershall Estate in 1764 (parishes of Gatton, Merstham, Chipstead and Chaldon) have been made, and on the Committee's recommendation the Society has purchased the original map of the Manor of Pendell in Blechingly in 1622, by William Boycot.

The Committee has given advice or assistance to members and others carrying out research in the parishes of Charlwood, Chipstead, Coulsdon, Cuddington, Elstead, Horley, Malden, Merstham, Oxted and Thorpe; and has been instrumental in securing the gift or loan to the Society of documents and transcripts: in particular, two important collections of manorial and estate documents relating to Oxted and neighbouring parishes have been received on loan from the owners, Captain C. E. H. Master and the Barrow Green Estate Co. respectively, and deposited in the Croydon Public Library. A calendar of these documents by the late Mr. F. C. W. Hiley and Mr. Clarence G. Paget, is in progress.

Records of Commissary and Consistory Courts of Surrey.—These records, which relate to the whole of the old geographical county, were transferred entirely to the new Diocese of Guildford in 1927. For many years they had been stored at Southwark Cathedral, and since 1905 in an underground room there. This accommodation was most unsatisfactory, and in 1946 Mr. H. V. H. Everard found the bundles of Parish Register Transcripts only partially sorted and in some cases covered with mildew. At his instance the Society investigated the condition of the records, and was finally able to arrange for their transfer to the Southwark Public Library, which generously provided accommodation. This applies to all classes of records except those relating to Tithe Apportionment, which have been transferred to the County Record Office, Kingston-upon-Thames. Mr. Everard has not only supervised the packing, transfer and unpacking of the documents, but has since completed their sorting and rearrangement. It should be noted that the documents are still technically in the custody of the Guildford Diocesan Registrar, I. The Sanctuary, Westminster, S.W.1., to whom applications should be made for permission to inspect records. The records include marriage bonds, transcripts of parish registers, visitation papers, proceedings before the ecclesiastical courts and licences for various church officials and for meeting houses.

The Council draws the attention of members to the classified bibliography: Local History Handlist, published by the Historical Association (21, Bedford Square, London, W.C.1; price 1/1; interleaved, in stiff boards, 2/- post free). The first edition is still available, but revision is in progress: corrections and suggestions will be welcomed by Dr. J. F. Nichols, F.S.A., 15, Minster Road, Godalming.

VISITS AND LECTURES, 1948.—The following were held during the year:—

Visits

13th April. To Chertsey Church and the remains of Chertsey Abbey, followed by a visit to Thorpe Church, all of which were described by Mr. E. A. Freeman. At the end of the day some of the members walked over to see the Elizabethan House, "Great Fosters," at Egham.

15th May. Ewell Church and village, conducted by Mr. Cloudesley S. Willis, F.S.A. The members visited the site of Nonsuch Palace, which was described by Mr. S. R. Turner, F.R.I.B.A., on the site of the Banqueting Hall. An old cottage in Cheam and the 16th century houses in Park Lane were also noted. The memorials and brasses in the Lumley Chapel, Cheam, were described by Miss Müller.

22nd June. By permission of Lord Ennisdale, the members visited the 16th century house at Baynards Park, near Cranleigh, where a most interesting account was given by Mrs. Montagu Skinner. From there to New Park Farm, where Mr. A. B. Johnston showed the 15th and 16th century parts of the house. Thence to St. Nicholas Church, Cranleigh, which was described by the Rector, the Rev. H. R. L. Johnston.

10th July. Annual "out of the County" visit to Chichester. The Rev. C. Gordon conducted the party round the Cathedral. Other buildings seen were Pallant House (1712), the Greyfriars Church (here Dr. Wilson, F.S.A., met the party and lectured on the antiquities kept there), St. Mary's Hospital, where again Dr. Wilson was the guide, and No. 20, St. Martin's Square, described by Miss H. Johnstone, Litt.D. The "Pudens Stone," one of the most important Roman inscriptions in the country, was also inspected.

17th August. The Churches at Stoke D'Abernon and Fetcham were described by Mr. R. Morrish, F.S.A. Slyfield Manor House was visited, where the members were conducted by Mrs. Hitchin. The arrangements for later in the day, viz., a visit to the excavations at "The Mounds," Leatherhead, had to be cancelled at the last minute owing to a sudden change in the weather.

11th September. Warlingham and Farleigh Churches were described by Mr. H. Everard, and at Addington the Church and Churchyard were described by Mr. K. A. Ryde, A.L.A.

Lectures

28th February. At the Technical College, Stoke Park, Guildford. In the morning, Miss M. E. Wood, M.A., F.S.A., lectured on Norman Domestic Architecture. In the afternoon, Mr. E. Yates, F.S.A., on Wealden Iron-Working.

9th October. Also at the Technical College, Mr. C. D. Hawley, F.R.I.B.A., gave a lecture in the morning on the appreciation of beauty in old buildings, and at 2.30 p.m. Mr. J. H. Harvey, F.S.A., lectured on Gothic Builders and the County of Surrey. All these lectures were illustrated by lantern slides.

The "Register of Interests" meetings also took the form of lectures with slides, as follows:—

3rd January. Flint and Flint Implements by Mr. W. F. Rankine, F.S.A., Scot.

7th February. Monumental Brasses by Mr. R. H. Pearson, Secretary of the Monumental Brasses Society.

13th November. Flint Working by Mr. A. D. Lacaille; this had the added interest of a film to illustrate how flint implements were fashioned.

These three lectures were held at The Centenary Hall, Chapel Street, Guildford.

11th December. At the New Bull Hotel, Leatherhead, Mr. A. W. G. Lowther, F.S.A., A.R.I.B.A., gave a talk on the Excavations at "The Mounds," Patchesham, near Leatherhead, in collaboration with the Leatherhead and District Local History Society. The talk was illustrated by an exhibition of finds from the site, plans and maps. The lecturer was followed by Mr. G. C. Dunning, F.S.A., who described the pottery found and its importance, and by Mr. J. H. Harvey, F.S.A., who spoke about the history of the site and its discovery, from early documents at the Public Record Office.

EXCAVATIONS.—Farthing Down, Coulsdon, in 1948. Generous financial support given by the Corporation of the City of London, the owners of Farthing Down, made it possible for Mr. Hope-Taylor to plan extensive excavations on this site, which were carried out on behalf of this Society during the month of June.

The chief objects of the excavations were:—

- (1) To test the theory that a flat-grave Saxon cemetery lay on the Down, in addition to the burial mounds of that period which were excavated in 1871.
- (2) To re-excavate certain of the barrows to obtain more information concerning their structure, and to find out how far the report on the 1871 digging (S.A.C. VI, pp. 109-117) was accurate and reliable, careful examination having disclosed strange discrepancies in it.

Both objects were achieved. A flat-grave cemetery was located, and six sample graves excavated (one of them disturbed). Finds included a small decorated pot (containing a small unworked piece of amber), two iron knives, an iron spear, beads and the wing bones of a goose, the last beside the left leg of an adult male Saxon. All the graves were orientated south-north. In one case there were slots in the grave-floor which had evidently housed wooden head-and-foot boards.

The other investigations proved that the 1871 excavations were carried out in a barbarous fashion and that the report is even more unreliable than superficial examination had indicated.

In addition a small mound of doubtful character (No. 13 on Grinsell's map, S.A.C. XLII, p. 46) was totally excavated. It proved to be a barrow and a grave-pit was located, but it would appear that no interment had ever taken place—the grave was empty and there was no indication that it had ever been disturbed.

It is hoped to continue the exploration of the flat-grave cemetery during 1949.

Trial Excavations at Hambledon.—In his "County Book" on Surrey, Mr. Eric Parker describes the discovery of a large quantity of ancient pottery in his grounds, some thirty years ago. He expressed the wish that the site (on the "Tolt" near Hambledon) could be properly investigated, and showed the greatest courtesy to Mr. Hope-Taylor when the latter undertook trial investigations on the site (assisted by Mr. T. K. Walls).

Unfortunately the site proved to have been exhausted by the earlier unsystematic excavations, and the one undisturbed section that was located was only a few feet across—and that evidently not at the focus of the site. Nevertheless, sufficient evidence was found, in the shape of charcoal, stake-holes and pottery sherds, to suggest that this was a mediæval living site—probably no more than a hovel. The pottery previously found on the site (and now in Mr. Parker's collection at Feathercombe, Hambledon) was dated by Mr. Hope-Taylor to the 12th and 13th centuries: he intends, with Mr. Parker's permission, to make a fuller study of the collection and publish a note on it in a future volume of the Collections.

Old Malden.—Mr. L. W. Carpenter, Hon. Local Secretary for the area, is continuing the investigations of the interesting pre-Roman, Roman and Early Mediæval occupation site, first mentioned in the Annual Report for 1947. The discovery of some ditches of Early Roman date (the finds from them include Samian Ware of the late 1st century A.D., as well as coarse ware and a lead "plummet"—possibly from a surveyor's groma) is a new feature of the site. The mediæval period is represented by further rubbish pits and much late 12th and 13th century pottery, including a fine series of dishes and flagons. (A full account of the work is to appear in a future Research Paper. A preliminary note on some of the mediæval pottery is included in Volume L.)

"The Mounts," Pachesham, near Leatherhead.—The second season's work on the site of the Royal Manor of Pachesham Magna was continued, jointly with the Leatherhead and District Local History Society, for a month during part of July and August.

The work was confined to the western third of the area contained by the moat, the latter having been investigated (at this western end of the site) during the previous season.

The trench dug across the site, from north to south, revealed a circular rubbish pit, 12 feet wide at the top and 6 feet 6 inches deep, and which proved to have been in use from about A.D. 1200 until about A.D. 1290 (as dated from the pottery thrown into it with bones and other refuse). About 1290 it was filled with building debris, including broken roof-tiles of the same type as those found in the lowest level in the moat, and proving conclusively that 1290 (not 1250 as suggested in the Interim Report¹) was the approximate date both of the construction of the moat and of the first roofing of the buildings with tiles, both of which must have been carried out for Eustace de Haache (or de "Hatch"), who is known to have been doing work to his Manor (which he held as tenant of Walter de Thorp) in 1292/3.

The earlier pottery forms a most important series, and some of the fragments are of types of ware of especial interest.

In addition to the rubbish pit, two walls and a rectangular pier of flint construction were found, and the following-up and planning of these structures will constitute the main work during the 1949 season.

The finds include: a piece of an applied ornament of bronze; several iron objects, including a complete three-pronged (agricultural) fork dating (from the level in which it was found) from the latter part of the fourteenth century; a spindle-whorl made of chalk; pieces of a "mortar" made of Purbeck marble. Also (from the buildings) dressed blocks of sandstone (some with remains of carved mouldings) and a quantity of Roman tiles (brought to the site for use in the earlier walls). Pieces of an oven, apparently of Norman date, include some interesting "voussoir-shaped" bricks. A piece of a large, moulded, block of Purbeck marble must have been used in part of the structure—possibly the Chapel which is specifically mentioned as having been destroyed by William de Wymeldon.

The latest pottery found (from the uppermost level) is of about A.D. 1350-80, and includes pieces of highly ornamental glazed ware jugs and platters. With this pottery was much debris from the final (14th century) destruction of the buildings, including roof-tiles, nails and pieces of a green-glazed roof-finial, which appears to have consisted of a figure holding a (?hunting) horn, reminiscent of the two figures of "mounted knights" ("milites

Finally, it seems clear that there was no Roman or pre-Roman occupation at this site (as conjectured in the Interim Report) and that the "calcined flints," of which many more were found this season in the rubbish-pit, are from hearths of late Norman date.

Tayles Hill, Ewell.—This site was selected to be the first of those explored with the aid of the Ewell Excavation Fund. Owing to its being found impossible to obtain any paid labour, work for this season was only carried out intermittently, and with a few voluntary helpers. On the northern side of the site a well-preserved Roman road, similar in construction to that found on the nearby Purberry Shot site, but running almost at right-angles to it, was encountered. Two trenches, about 20 feet apart, were dug across it, and it was found to be 21 feet wide between two small side ditches. The latter (as was the case with the road on the Purberry Shot site) had clearly served mainly as "setting-out" ditches when the road was constructed, and the gravel metalling, 1 foot in thickness at the crown of the road, had been allowed to spread into, and partially fill, them when deposited to form the road. Apart from some mesolithic flint implements from beneath the road, and a few scraps of Roman pottery on its surface, there were no "finds" from this work. Despite the absence of any dating evidence, the construction of the road can be presumed to be of late 2nd century date from its being of identical construction with that on the Purberry Shot site, and for which there was ample evidence as to its date (S.A.C. Vol. L, Purberry Shot Report). It seems probable that these roads formed part of a planned "grid" of roads (a suggestion which is supported by finds of pieces of roads and of ditches on other sites at Ewell), but they do not appear to have been in use for any great length of time.

The sections were measured up and photographs taken, and it is intended that further work be carried out at this site during 1949 as and when possible.

MUSEUM AND MUNIMENT ROOM.—Library, Museum and Arts Committee of the Guildford Borough Council. The Society's representative on this Committee continued to be Mr. Bernard Rackham C.B., F.S.A. On the Museum Sub-Committee, Mr. Rackham and Dr. W. B. Billinghamurst. Sir Ralph Oakden and Miss Sumner were empowered to act as substitutes if one or both were unable to attend.

Loans to the Museum.—12th century pottery from Old Malden, on loan from Mr. L. W. Carpenter. Two pieces of Romano-British pottery from Old Malden, also on loan from Mr. Carpenter. 13th century tiles from Waverley Abbey, given by Mr. Chandler. Early Bronze Age beaker from Kew Gardens, given by Mrs. Wilkinson.

Deposits in the Muniment Room.—Four Pyrford Manorial documents, on loan from Lord Onslow. One Court Book, 1811-1923. One Rental and Customary, 13 Edward IV. One Rent Roll, 1666. One Abstract of Rolls 16th and 17th centuries. Documents relating to the parish of Cranleigh (16th to 19th centuries), given by Lady Bingley. Draft Court Book of the Manor of Woking, 1770-1871, given by Mrs. Lampson. In addition, two maps, one of Woking Manor, 1719, and one of Frensham Beale, 1705, formerly in the stockroom of the Society, have been placed in the Muniment Room.

Conditions and Hours of Opening.—The Museum has been open free from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. every week-day since September. Special arrangements for parties will be made on request to the Curator.

Recent Excavations Case.—During the past year this case has contained objects from the Crohamhurst Romano-British occupation site; from Old Malden; from Romano-British kilns at Overwey, Tilford; Romano-British and Mediæval sherds from Hascombe; and Mediæval and 16th century pottery from Southwark.

Attendance at the Museum.—There were 11,340 visitors.

Museum Store.—At the instance of the Society, the Corporation had also rented and reconditioned the Old Mortuary, Mill Lane, for use as a Museum store; this building is provided with heating and a sink, and can be used as a workroom if required.

Library.—Gifts to the Library include the following: TS. copy of the Egham Enclosure Act, 1814, given by T. A. Bryan; Some Surrey Manor Houses, illustrated by Lord Hylton, given by Hon. Perdita Hylton; Rambles Round Guildford, 1928, given by Miss Farewell Jones; Leaves of Southwell, 1945, given by Miss Farewell Jones; London Illustrated, no date, given by R. G. Adams; History of Busbridge, by the Rev. H. M. Larnier, 1947, given by the author; Ogilby's Road Map, 1791, give by Mrs. Lloyd; History of Thorpe, by Frederick Turner, 1924, given by Miss E. M. Turner; History of St. Mary's Church, Thorpe, by E. A. Freeman, 1947, given by the author; Ewell and its Church, by H. Veall, 1948, given by the author; Who's Who in Surrey, 1936, given by Dr. Wilfrid Hooper, LL.D., F.S.A.; History of Edward Latymer and His Foundations, by William Wheatley, M.A., 1936, given by the author; Short History of Ewell and Nonsuch, by Cloudesley S. Willis, F.S.A., 1948, given by the author; Roman Ways in the Weald, by I. D. Margary, F.S.A., 1948, given by the author; List of Rectors of Nutfield from 1291, with notes compiled by the Rector, the Rev. E. C. Hyde, and given by him.

In addition to the above, volumes have been received from other Societies, in exchange. Archæological News Letter is received every month.

Maps.—C. Smith's Map of Surrey, dated 1804; Travelling

Chart; The London-Brighton Railway, dated about 1860, given by Dr. Eric Gardner; Map of Tooting (1856), given by E. R. Burder; Seven Ordnance Maps of Surrey, 6 in., 1870 Survey, given by G. Mackenzie Trench; Thirty Ordnance Maps of West Surrey, 25 in., 1870 Survey, given by Messrs. Messenger, Morgan and May, of Quarry Street, Guildford.

Paintings.—Portrait of John Evelyn after Kneller, dated 1687, by Cecil Parker. This has been lent to the Society by C. J. A. Evelyn, a Vice-President. Thirty Oil Paintings of Surrey Houses and Cottages, both exterior and interior, by Ernest Christie and given by Miss M. Christie. Drawings and water-colour drawings of Chipstead by Hassell, dated 1824-1831, given by Dr. Wilfrid Hooper. Two water-colours: Windmill near Croydon and Church at Barnes, painted by A.R.D., 1898, and given by Warren Dawson. Three photographs of Western Green Church, given by Mrs. Davey, of Esher.

Other Gifts.—Two prints of Richmond Palace, given by W. J. Pickering; print of Old Merstam, given by Colonel C. E. Morris; specification of Works Account of Fetcham, 1710, given by R. B. Benger; deeds of Limpsfield, given by B. Crewdson; antique alms box, given by G. V. Bridgewater.

COUNCIL.—The following members retire under Rule IV and are ineligible for re-election for one year: R. L. Atkinson, C.B.E., F.S.A., W. C. Berwick Sayers, W. J. Pickering, T. Gatton Swayne, C. E. Sexton. To fill these vacancies and that created by the resignation of Mr. C. D. Hawley, the following are the names of candidates in respect of whom a ballot will be held at the Annual General Meeting:—

Dr. Billingham: Nominated by Council.

F. E. Bray: Nominated by Council.

Philip Corder: Nominated by Council.

W. H. C. Frend: Nominated by J. Wilson-Haffenden; seconded by W. G. D. Evans.

J. A. Frere (Bluemantle Pursuivant of Arms): Nominated by L. R. Stevens; seconded by Philip Corder.

Mrs. Gibson: Nominated by Council.

Arthur R. Laird: Nominated by J. Wilson-Haffenden; seconded by Cloudesley S. Willis.

Mrs. Doris May, J.P.: Nominated by J. Wilson-Haffenden; seconded by W. G. D. Evans.

Commander R. D. Merriman, R.I.N. (Retd.): Nominated by Major A. Talbot Smith; seconded by Colonel C. E. Morris.

Major H. Patrick: Nominated by Council.

G. F. Sanger: Nominated by L. R. Stevens; seconded by Mrs. A. Stevens.

Colonel H. W. Wagstaffe, C.S.I., M.C. : Nominated by L. R. Stevens, seconded by Mrs. A. Stevens.

Miss D. Weeding : Nominated by Council.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.—Lord Greene the Master of the Rolls has been elected a Vice-President of the Society, also I. D. Margary, F.S.A., author of the recent book Roman Ways in the Weald.

DEATHS.—The Council regrets to announce the death of the following members of the Society during 1948 : Edwin Frost, Major T. Lethaby, Miss E. M. Murray, Colonel W. A. Quennell, Miss A. M. Rosier, Duncan Tovey, Mrs. Prynne, E. J. Lake, Lord Farrer, Lionel Sproule, Major H. R. E. Rudkin, Miss J. B. Littlejohn, R. S. Morrish, Edwin Davies, Lieut.-Colonel J. S. Wilson, O.B.E., Charles Leveson-Gower, F. C. W. Hiley.

FINANCE.—The expenditure for the year exceeded the income by over £400, chiefly in consequence of the large outlay on publications. The sale of surplus stock of back volumes continues to be a most useful source of income and profit is still being derived from the "Reigate" volume.

Two generous contributions have been received for excavations, £200 from the Corporation of London for Farthing Down, and £100 from Mr. R. C. Sherriff, F.S.A., for exploration of Roman sites at Ewell.

More income is needed to enable the growing activities of the Society to be provided for and it would assist to this end if more members would enter into covenants for payment of their subscriptions.

There are still more than 300 members who have not yet complied with repeated requests that they pay their subscriptions by Banker's Order. It is apparently not sufficiently realized how much unnecessary labour and also expense in stationery and postage can be saved if this method is adopted.

MEMBERSHIP.—The increase continues, the total number of members at the end of the year having risen to 941. The Council have decided to discontinue Membership Cards in 1950, the advantages of their use not sufficiently justifying the additional labour and expense entailed by their issue.
