Exhibitions

The Work of Angels, masterpieces of Celtic metalwork 6th-9th centuries AD. At The British Museum until 29 April. The nucleus of the exhibition is the Derrynaflan Hoard, never seen before outside Ireland. The National Museums of Scotland have contributed the Monymusk Reliquary and much of the St. Ninian's Isle Hoard. Many other outstanding pieces have been borrowed from Continental collections. A section of the exhibition demonstrates the technical processes involved. Admission £2, usual concessions £1. The exhibition book The Work of Angels: Masterpieces of Celtic Metalwork 6th-9th centuries AD is available from the Museum bookshop price £9.95 (£12.95 from other bookshops).

Pewter 1200-1700, at the Museum of London until May 1990. Admission free.

A Better World Tomorrow?, photographs by Henry Grant. At the Museum of London until 25 February 1990. An exhibition depicting aspects of everyday life and social change in London during the 30 years following the end of the Second World War. Admission free.

Lectures
