Journal of the Ancient Chronology Forum

*A Visually Stimulating and Thought-Provoking
New Approach to the Ancient World*

JACF is the journal of the Institute for the Study of Interdisciplinary Sciences. It offers to readers and contributors an open forum for the presentation of current research in the fields of ancient history and culture, archaeology, and chronology. The topics covered should be of interest to all students of the Old World since the editorial perspective is neither regionally orientated nor specific to the study of any one ancient society. Each discussion is enhanced by extensive use of supporting photographs, drawings, maps, diagrams and tables.

Exhibitions

Poverty and Pleasure - life in Victorian Southwark, at the Cuming Museum, 155 Walworth Road, SE17 until 20 April 1991. Open Tuesday - Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission free.

Images of the London Blitz, a temporary photographic exhibition at the Museum of London, to mark the 50th anniversary of the London Blitz, until 6 May 1991.

Archaeology and the Bible, at the British Museum, 19 October to 24 March. Using objects drawn mainly from the Museum's own collections, it will illustrate the cultural and political history of the Holy Land from the time of the Patriarchs to the domination by Assyrians, Babylonians, Persians, Greeks and Romans. On display will be one of the Dead Sea Scrolls and two of the recently-excavated lime-plaster statues from 'Ain Ghazal in Jordan. Admission £2.

The Tale of London Past - Beatrix Potter's archaeological paintings, at the Museum of London, 23 October to 27 January. These little-known watercolours comprise a formal archaeological record of everyday Roman objects such as shoes, pots, nails and tools, painted in 1894-5. The objects were discovered in the silty deposits of the Walbrook stream on the site of the National Safe Deposit Company's premises to the west of Mansion House in 1872-3. Although some of the finds went to the Guildhall Museum, those illustrated here went to a private collector and were lost.

Living memories - the social history of the Borough of Croydon, in the Rothschild Gallery, Whitgift Centre, Croydon, from 5 to 24 November. The exhibition will cover the period from the 1920s to the present, and will be centred around pictures and objects, gathered in groups or placed in recreated room settings. For further information contact Sally MacDonald, Museum Development Officer, Croydon Central Library (tel. 081-760 5400 ext. 2979).
