N. p. 128, Hawis de Dinant has £22 10s. od. of land by a fine which Fulk Warin her late husband made with King Richard. This land was held by her father Joc' de Dinan of the gift of Henry the former King, 'sine servicio nominato.' T. N. pp. 110, 122, 126, William de Plugenev has half a fee of the King in chief. p. 128, the Abbot and Monks of Stanlegh (Hundred of Chippenham?) hold in alms one hide of the gift of Hugo de Plugenev by the confirmation of Henry the former King. p. 133, there is paid by the tenants of the Abbot of Gloucester for one car. 2s. T. N. p. 124, Hugo de Plugenev holds in Up-Lamburn the land which belonged to John de Gyse, viz. £10 of land, and pays into the Exchequer 40s. a year rent. ³ East Garston (Hundred of Lamborne). The name East Garston seems to be corrupted from Esgarston, so called from Esgar the Staller who held the Manor T.R.E. The village is now popularly called Argoson: and there is no West Garston. T. N. p. 107, Eva de Tracy is in the King's gift and is not married, and her land in Esgareston which she holds from the King is worth £20. p. 124, Eva de Tracy holds the Manor of Esegareston in dower of the inheritance of Hawis of London, and it belongs to the Manor of Kidwelly; the service by which the said Hawis holds is that if the King or his chief justice comes into the parts of Kidwelly with an army, the said Hawis shall conduct the said army with her banner and all her people through the midst of the parish of Neath to Lagern. p. 131, she pays for 29½ car. 59s. 4d. ⁴ Lamborne. T. N. p. 111, 122, among the fees held of the King's bailiff by Geoffrey le Despenser by reason of his having the son and heir of Robert Musard in ward, is one fee in Sparsholt and Lamborne. p. 119, for this is paid one mark. ⁵ Leckchampsstead (Hundred of Faircross). T. From the Abingdon Chronicle (A. C. i. 457) it appears that in the time of King Cnut Brihtmund the father of Brihtwin, the tenant T.R.E. held this land under Abingdon Abbey on a lease for three lives. Brihtwin, who was only the tenant, seems to have set up an unjust claim to ownership. ⁶ Letcombe Basset. Possibly Robert d'Oily may have been so named from Ouillie-la-Basset near Falaise. See Ordericus Vitalis (ed. A. le Prevost: vol. iv. p. 165 n.) ⁷ Letcombe Regis (Hundred of Kintbury Eagle). T. N. p. 128, the Abbot and Monks of Cluny hold this in alms of the gift Henrici regis avi. p. 125, the Prior of Tifford holds Letcombe in demesne with Chaulawe Wodhull of the Abbot of Cluny paying yearly 100 marks, and the said Abbot holds in demesne.—See Ceveslane.
