

F. Madan, M.A., Brasenose College; as Members of Committee, J. L. Myres, H. G. de Watteville, James Parker, F. à C. Bergne; as Auditors, M. H. Green and C. M. Laing. The old rule (xxii. of the old set) constituting Corresponding Secretaries was re-enacted, and is reprinted in the List of Members, &c., for 1900. The Secretaries read their Annual Report on the past year. The private business thus concluded, Mr. O. J. R. Howarth exhibited lantern slides of Romanesque details in churches near Honover, on which he and Mr. De Watteville made some remarks.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18TH.

A Visit (No. cclxxv.) was made to Oriel College, at 5.15 p.m., in the Hall of which Dr. Shadwell gave an address on the history of the College, and then conducted the members to the Chapel and Library. At 3.45 the party moved to All Saints' Church, now the City Church, where the Rector, the Rev. A. J. Carlyle, gave a sketch of the vicissitudes both of the position which he held as head of the parish and of the fabric in which they were assembled.

Reviews.

POPULAR STUDIES IN MYTHOLOGY, ROMANCE AND FOLKLORE. (David Nutt, London.) We have received two volumes (Nos. 3 and 4) from the publisher of this charming series which will be heartily welcomed by all lovers of Folklore and the students of historical romance. The books are small and published at a small cost, but on account of the clearness of the style of the writing and the admirable Bibliographical appendices they will be found extremely useful. These volumes are "Ossian and Ossianic Literature," by Alfred Nutt, and "King Arthur and his Knights, a Survey of Arthurian Romance," by Jessie L. Weston. We most heartily commend them.
