

The Berks, Bucks & Oxon Archæological Journal.

WITH this number the sixteenth volume of this Archæological Journal commences. Time flies fast. The account of its initiation and the story of its progress are well known to our readers, and were retold at the commencement of the last volume. We are grateful to all antiquaries in the three counties who have contributed to its pages, especially to the President of the Berks Society, Mr. Keyser, for his admirably illustrated papers on the Ecclesiastical Architecture of the County which have for some time formed an important feature of this Journal. We would again solicit the aid of correspondents in various parts of the three counties, and invite them to send us notes on antiquarian discoveries, on new architectural projects, and on all matters appertaining to the past history of our towns and villages.

We would remind subscribers that many subscriptions are in arrears, and we should be obliged if these could be paid without further delay. A reminder has been sent to all subscribers whose subscriptions are still owing, and we should be glad to receive them at once, as well as from those who are accustomed to forward annually the amount that is due. The names of new subscribers will be thankfully received, and a copy of the Journal will be sent to anyone who desires to make its acquaintance.
