The authors wish to thank the staff of Atlas Aggregates Ltd for all their help and encouragement, and to the parent company, Ready Mixed Concrete (United Kingdom) Ltd, for permission to excavate without warning, for the permanent loan of the finds to Norfolk Museums Service (Norwich Castle Museum Accession No. L1976.3), and for the generous donation of grants towards the cost of preparing this report for publication. Particular thanks are also due to Mr John Rayner of Atlas Aggregates Ltd who made the initial discovery of Early Saxon pots.

We are also grateful to Christopher Sparey Green and Tony Gregory who assisted in the direction of the 1974 season; to the 1975 team of Bruce Induni, planner, and excavator/grave planners Nick Adams, Andrew K.G. Jones and Judith Plouviez; to all the members of the Norfolk Museums Service, Norfolk Research Committee and Norfolk Archaeological Rescue Group who helped to excavate, particularly in the frantic conditions of late Autumn 1974; to Bill Milligan of the Archaeology Dept, Norwich Castle Museum, who did so much in the recording, ordering and care of the excavated finds, both during and after the excavation; and to the staff of the Conservation Laboratory, Norwich Castle Museum, and of the Ancient Monuments Laboratory for all their work on the cleaning, conservation and X-radiography of the grave-goods.

Frances Healy is grateful to John Wymer for examining and discussing Palaeolithic and Mesolithic material from the site, and to Tony Gregory for examining P2.

The vast majority of the illustrations are by Susan G. White who was assisted by Steven J. Ashley, Philip Williams, Margaret Mathews and David Wicks, who also mounted the grave-good illustrations for publication. Plates II and III are by Andrew K.G. Jones; the frontispiece to Volume 2 and Plates VIII-XXI by David Wicks. The authors are grateful to the Ordnance Survey for permission to publish Plate I.
Preface

This work being merely intended as a Catalogue raisonné of the contents of a Saxon Cemetery, excavated during 1974 and 1975, we have contented ourselves with detailing the results of our labours, and abstained from making any observation on the nature, and application of the relics exhumed, feeling confident that a faithful delineation will be far more satisfactory than the most diffuse, and lengthened treatise.

With this view we consider ourselves fortunate in having secured the valuable services of Ms Susan White, whose accurate pencil has fully carried out our wishes, so that those into whose hands the Book may fall will possess authenticated fac-similies little less valuable than the originals themselves.

Editorial

In 1978 the Norfolk Archaeological Unit published its report on the Anglo-Saxon cemetery at Bergh Apton as Report No.7 of East Anglian Archaeology (Green and Rogerson 1978). Since then the Unit has maintained its policy, as set out in the Editorial for that volume, of concentrating primarily on preparing in catalogue form the data from these cemeteries for publication. This volume on the Morning Thorpe Anglo-Saxon cemetery is similarly a catalogue, and discussion has again been kept to a minimum. The Suffolk Archaeological Unit has taken a similar view with the preparation of its Westgarth Gardens report, soon also to be published in this series. It has always been our policy to make the information from these sites available for specialists as soon as possible and then to follow the catalogue volumes with a further report devoted to their interpretation.

Likewise, the publications of the Spong Hill cemetery have been a series of catalogues (Hills 1977; Hills and Penn 1981; Hills, Penn and Rickett 1984; Hills, Penn and Rickett 1987; Hills, Penn and Rickett in prep.) to be followed by a final volume of synthesis due to be finished in about 1990. Although this policy has not won universal acceptance (Hirst 1985, xvii) those of us involved in the task of collating and interpreting so much data from these four sites feel that this is the best way forward with the resources available.

After discussion between those involved it has been decided to amalgamate the two proposed discussion volumes into a single work. It is hoped that the conclusions which will be drawn from this approach will be more accurate and will be better able to stand the test of time. Meanwhile work on the Spong Hill reports continues, and we hope readers will bear with us until the final discussion volume is published soon after 1990.

Digging a Saxon Cemetery

We approach you briskly,
Crowded clay-dwellers,
Inhabitants now well
Dispersed in your persons,
And come as callers
On hands and knees
With trowels and rulers.

You would be puzzled
To see us, scavengers
Dressed in our casual Clothes with ritual,
Turning up ornament,
Weapon, cremation,
Plotting your downfall.

This poem was written in 1975 by a volunteer helper, Mr Anthony Thwaite, who was inspired by his excavation of Graves 277, 287, 301, 318 and 385. In 1977 it was published in a collection of his poems, A Portion for Foxes (Oxford, University Press).
1. Introduction

I. Introduction (Figs 1-5)

The cemetery (Site 1120, TM 2205 9437; Fig. 1) lay at c. 34 m OD to the south of a valley containing a stream flowing westwards into the River Tas (Figs 2-4). The subsoil is sandy gravel over Norwich Crag deposits, while the surrounding region is covered mainly by heavy boulder clay. The site was discovered in October 1974 by John Rayner of Atlas Aggregates Ltd who found two Early Saxon pots (Contexts 420 and 421) in a gravel pit. These were promptly taken to Norwich Castle Museum, and because one, or perhaps both, of them had been associated with cremated bone, a new cremation cemetery was suspected.

Evidence for c. 365 inhumations and nine cremations was recovered during two periods of excavation in 1974 and 1975. Bone preservation was very poor because of soil acidity. The southern and western limits of the cemetery were found, unmarked by any archaeologically detectable boundary. The eastern edge lay outside the area examined and the northern had been destroyed by quarrying.

As well as graves, other funerary features were recorded (Fig. 5). These were: two small ring-ditches (Contexts 38 and 210), a penannular ditch (Context 121) and a probable penannular ditch (Context 179). Four post-holes (Post-holes 143-4, 164-5) were located at the corners of Grave 148, but they may have been associated with eight other post-holes in that area (Post-holes 119, 123, 137, 145, 150, 165, 188 and 435). A few individual post-holes elsewhere may have supported grave-markers. Other mounds are suggested by empty, or almost empty, areas around several graves (233, 246, 320 and, perhaps, 200). In the south-east corner, part of a curving ditch (Context 273/282) cut all nearby graves, but its purpose and date is unknown. Square Slot 28 was also later than neighbouring graves. It was, perhaps, the foundation trench of a timber building, undated but later than at least part of the cemetery. An entrance in the north side may be marked by a stone-filled pit (139), which could have acted as a soakaway. Ditch 34/1 was an eighteenth- or nineteenth-century field boundary, and Ditch 103 was probably an earlier version of the same.

In 1973 an Ordnance Survey vertical air photograph (Pl. I) had recorded the cropmark of a ring-ditch (Site 10176) c. 50 m north of the 1974/5 quarry face. The photograph was not brought to the attention of the Norfolk Archaeological Unit until 1974 by which time the site had been destroyed. Prehistoric material from the site is discussed by Frances Healy in Chapter 3, below.

The ground surface in the area of the cemetery was fairly level west to east, but rose by almost one metre from the southern edge to the quarry face. This upward slope would have continued as far north as the approximate position of the ring-ditch (Site 10176). Thus, the surviving portion of the cemetery was located on a gentle south-facing slope, although it lay on the south side of an east-west valley.

East of the Clock Wood which borders the east side of the quarry, a shallow north-to-south valley contains a watercourse (Pl. I), now largely culverted, which runs north to meet the tributary of the Tas. On the opposite, east, side of this valley the ground rises abruptly to where, in 1978, one of the authors (A.R.) and the late Silvia Addington found two sherds of Early Saxon pottery amongst a light surface scatter of Roman and medieval sherds (Site 13995).

West of the cemetery the Ordnance Survey recorded a series of linear cropmarks from the air in 1973. Subsequent field walking by Silvia Addington and salvage recording by Tony Gregory, in advance of quarrying, have shown these to be related to a first-to-fourth century Romano-British rural settlement with substantial building(s) (Site 10178).

The locations of other early Anglo-Saxon cemeteries in the area are shown in Figure 2. They comprise: the cremation cemetery at Markshall (Myres and Green 1973); the mixed cemeteries at Caistor St Edmund (Myres and Green 1973) and Brooke (Kennett 1976); the inhumation cemetery at Bergh Apton (Green and Rogerson 1978); inhumation burials at Poringland (Meaney 1964, 180); and a possible mixed cemetery at Broome (Meaney 1964, 170). An excellent introduction to the historic landscape of Morning Thorpe and adjacent parishes can be found in Addington (1982).

II. Circumstances and Methods of Excavation
(Figs 4-8)

The 1974 season was carried out between 21 October and 22 November. Hurriedly organised by the Norwich Castle Museum and the Norfolk Archaeological Unit, work was at first supervised by Christopher Sparey Green. After the first week, responsibility for direction fell to Andrew Rogerson and Tony Gregory. They were assisted by Bruce Induni and Judith Plouviez, and the workforce consisted of voluntary helpers. The aim was to excavate as much of the cemetery as possible before gravel extraction, temporarily stopped by Atlas Aggregates Ltd, recommenced. The resultant urgency often involved rather low standards of excavation and recording during the very speedy cleaning-up and digging of graves. During November, Atlas Aggregates kindly agreed to suspend all quarrying in the area of the site until the Unit were able to receive funds from the Department of the Environment (now, Historic Buildings and Monuments Commission for England) in the following financial year. The second season began on 7 April, 1975 and continued for eight weeks. The team, which consisted of Andrew Rogerson with a planner and three excavators, was assisted by volunteers from the newly-formed Norfolk Archaeological Rescue Group. It was possible to proceed at a less hectic

Plate II The end of the 1975 season, looking south-east pace than in the previous year, although the restricted time available meant that graves were excavated and recorded far more quickly than they should have been, with details of the vertical and horizontal location of grave-goods sometimes going unrecorded. Seventy-two per cent of graves were dug by the four excavating members of the team, who averaged slightly more than one completed grave per day. As at Bergh Apton (Green and Rogerson 1978, 1) the cleaning of objects in situ was kept to a minimum so as to preserve textile remains and other organic material.

The area of the 1974 and 1975 seasons had already been partially stripped of topsoil by the gravel company, but only in a few places was the surface of the natural gravel exposed beneath the ploughsoil. In both seasons the remains of ploughsoil (average depth 35 cm) were removed with the back-actor of a JCB 3C. The surface of the gravel was then cleaned with hoes and trowels but soilmark plans were not drawn. Excavation of graves and other features began immediately after cleaning. Relationships between intercutting features were sometimes noted in plan before excavation, but only rarely in section, because few sections were maintained throughout the depth of a grave. In many cases relationships could not be established because grave fillings were indistinguishable, a typical Munsell notation for a grave filling being 10YR 4/4.

Graves were excavated in spits with trowels, although experience showed that the depth of the pit could be more rapidly assessed by digging down with less care to the base at the east end where few grave-goods were to be expected. Grave plans were drawn at a scale of 1:10.

Sexing (Fig. 6) is based almost entirely on grave-goods and must, therefore, remain both indefinite and subjective. In a few cases, e.g. Grave 27, a burial has been tentatively sexed from the surviving bone.

Of sexed graves, only three females were orientated with their heads to the east, while six females and three males had uncertain head directions. Because of the paucity of bone survival many head directions were estimated by the positions of grave-goods, and some assumptions have been made, e.g. spearheads pointing west indicate heads to west. Only thirty-one out of 141 unsexed graves had definite head directions, all to the west. An attempt has been made to indicate the orientation of graves in Figures 7 and 8. This has proved very difficult because of the lack of skeletons, and uncertainties have led to a bias towards 90°, i.e. West to East.

Endnote
1. These two pots were numbered Urns 1 and 2. When excavation began all pots or substantial groups of sherds were given urn numbers because a cremation cemetery was anticipated. This series was abandoned at the end of the 1974 season. At the end of the 1975 season urn numbers were converted into grave-good letters or in a few cases into context numbers (420-134).

2. Catalogue of Inhumations and Other Contexts

I. Notes on the Catalogue

Context numbers
A system of continuous context numbers was used, and all contexts regardless of type are listed sequentially in the Catalogue. Numbers not used or superseded during the excavation are not included. Where one context number was used during excavation for more than one burial (e.g. double burial 129), or successive burials within one visible grave-cut (e.g. 97), an additional number has not been used here. In this way the grave-goods, field records and X-radiographs retain their original identification with less chance of confusion. Contexts 1-192, 200 and 419-34 were excavated in 1974; nos 198-9, 201-418 and 435-6 in 1975.

Grave plans
A plan of each grave is shown along with the Catalogue entry (Figs 12-293), with the exception of those which did not contain bones or grave-goods, and of a few which were not planned.

Location of contexts
Each description is introduced by the letter and number coordinates of the grid square in which it was located (Fig. 5).

Human bone
Summaries of identified bone are included. Where no summary is included the material has been lost. Jacqueline McKinley’s report appears in Chapter 3, Section VII.

Lettering of finds
Grave-goods and other finds were allotted letters during excavation. When a letter has been subsequently found to have been applied to more than one object Roman numerals have been appended to the letter. Sometimes letters were used for bones and non-artefacts. These letters have not been re-allocated and are not included.

Entries preceded by letters in brackets are for objects not recorded or shown on the grave plan. Objects found in grave fillings which are not grave-goods have nevertheless been included in letter order under the heading grave-goods.

Ae
The abbreviation Ae has been used throughout to replace copper alloy, except where the metal has been analysed. Sixty non-ferrous metal objects submitted to the Ancient Monuments Laboratory were analysed qualitatively by P.T. Wilthew using X-ray fluorescence. Details of the methods and results are included on microfiche (Chapter 3, Section...

All heads to west

The objects were chosen either because they had some white-metal coating, or they carried inlay, or the nature of the base metal was uncertain.

Decoration of copper alloy objects
Attention is drawn in the Catalogue to punched, incised and repoussé decoration. Cast detail is normally not mentioned as it is felt to be obvious in the illustrations.

Artefact classification
Unpublished classifications have not been used, although we are aware that some of the older published ones are unsatisfactory. For brooches the following sources have been followed: florid cruciform, Leeds and Pocock 1971; other cruciform, Aberg 1926 (Reichstein’s (1975) classification of cruciform brooches has not been used as it does not cover all types); small-long, Leeds 1945 (Martin Howe’s work on small-long brooches was insufficiently advanced when this text was completed for use to be made of it and, on his advice, we have used Leeds’ (1945) classification); square-headed, Leeds 1949 and Hines 1984. Spearheads have been classified according to Swanton 1973 and wrist-clasps according to Hines 1984.

Prehistoric material
Brief descriptions of prehistoric pottery and flints appear in the catalogue. They are fully discussed by Frances Healy in Chapter 3, Section I.

Pottery
Identifications of all non-prehistoric pottery are by Vera and Stuart Friedenson. Descriptions of the fabrics and a discussion of the stamps appear below in Section II.

Knife handles
All knife tangs have been examined by Karen Wardley, who in many cases has been able to identify the replaced organic material thereon as the remains of handles. Where such identification has been possible it is entered as e.g. horn handle.

Textiles
Objects with textile impressions are followed by the word Textile and, when the textile has been described by Elisabeth Crowfoot, cross-reference is given to the textile report (Chapter 3, Section VI).

Beads
All beads are of opaque glass unless otherwise stated. In each grave group only one of each main type has been drawn, except where variations in size and form have made extra drawings necessary. This occurs most often with amber beads. The 1751 beads found have not been analysed scientifically. The distribution of different types across the site is not discussed in this volume, but the proportions of the types appear in Figure 11. So called ‘gold-in-glass’ beads have been described by Hirst (1985, 66 and 77-9). The totals of types shown in Figure 11 are: amber, 747; monochrome glass, 518; polychrome glass, 408; ‘gold-in-glass’, 52; jet, 13; crystal, 10; ivory, 2; chalk, 1.

Scales used on drawings
The majority of copper alloy objects and all beads are reproduced at 1:1. Iron objects are mostly at 1:2, although
II. Anglo-Saxon Pottery: Stamps and Fabrics
(Table 1)
by Vera and Stuart Friedenson

The Catalogue lists all ceramic finds except prehistoric, which are dealt with in Chapter 3, Section I, below. There were seven Roman-British potsherds or groups of sherds and one probable medieval; all others are hand-made Anglo-Saxon and there are two spindlewhorls.

The description pot implies that sufficient of a vessel survives for its profile to be drawn and/or for a reasonable estimate to be made of its original size and the proportion surviving. The estimated proportions surviving include any scattered sherds which, although given a different find letter, were subsequently recognised as belonging to that vessel.

Where two or more groups of potsherds have thus been recognised as coming from the same vessel, but do not together constitute sufficient to warrant the description pot, the quantity of sherds in each group is given separately. Fabric category, however, is given only for the largest.

Stamped pottery
Thirty-one pots from Morning Thorpe, of which eight are represented by only one or two sherds, have decorative schemes which include stamps.

Altogether forty-six different stamps have been identified, of which all but three fall into one or other of the categories used to classify the Spong Hill cremation urns (Hills 1977, 12-23; Hills and Penn 1981, 4-22). This does not, of course, imply that the Spong Hill and Morning Thorpe stamps are necessarily identical; only that their basic elements are very similar.

Only one stamp, a Spong type VIIa, appears on more than one Morning Thorpe pot; it is on both 40.Di and 115.G. There are three examples of different stamps of the same basic design appearing on the same pot: two versions of la and two of IIb occur on 388.Bi and two versions of IIc occur on 337.K.

Table 1 lists these pots according to the type of stamp impressed on each.

Plate VI Grave 259, looking west

Plate VII Grave 255, looking west
In some cases where a pot find was represented by only one or two sherds, there may be some doubt as to the accuracy of assigning the fabric to a particular category; the density of inclusions can vary from one area of a pot to another.

The ten categories are as follows:

I

The only visible inclusions are quartz, mica (biotite and/or muscovite), flint and, in a very few cases, sandstone nodules which might also be expected to occur naturally in some boulder clays.

The great majority of pots found at Morning Thorpe fall into this category, which has been divided into the following three sub-categories:

(a) Pots of fine, even texture;
(b) Pots with a rather more open texture, but rarely with large-grained inclusions;
(c) Pots with fine or medium textured matrix, but with a higher proportion of large quartz grains and flint inclusions.

Based on a visual estimation only of density and grain size, 106 pots were assigned to Ia, forty-seven to Ib and thirty to Ic. There are, of course, gradations within sub-categories and no sharp divisions between them.

II

Organic material, usually chaff, in varying degrees of density is present (twenty-six pots).

III

Bone inclusions, to an extent where they can hardly be considered as accidental, occur (seven pots).

IV

Inclusions of grog, usually red but occasionally fawny-orange, are found (ten pots).

V

Organic tempering is visible together with rather more bone than might be considered accidental (five pots).

VI

Organic tempering with greater or lesser amounts of grog (six pots).

VII

Organic, bone and grog inclusions are visible (two pots).

VIII

Granite nodules are visible within the boulder clay matrix (four pots).

IX

Inclusions of iron ore occur in the fabric of one potsherd (135.Aii).

X

Oolitic limestone inclusions, not normally to be found in boulder clay, occur in one pot, represented by three sherds found on the surface (see unassociated no. six).

The bone and grog inclusions in categories V, VI and VII could be accounted for by the source of organic tempering material having already been contaminated.

Unassociated pottery

(Fig. 458)

Two hundred and nine sherds representing probably twenty vessels were unstratified (nos I-XIX and XXII). Three vessels are of fabric Ia, four of Ib, four of Ic, seven of II, and one each of VIII and X. There are also c. forty-eight scraps, the fabrics of which have not been identified, as well as single sherds of indeterminate prehistoric and Romano-British grey ware.

III. Catalogue

Grave 1 (Figs 12 and 294-5)
G8; male; bone recorded near B, indicates adult; depth 69 cm; rectangular area of dark soil on base of grave in centre, possibly carbonised wood; cremated bone in filling.

Ciii. Incomplete iron knife; horn handle and remains of leather sheath and textile.
Civ. Ae sheet tag-end; Ae rivet. Textile.
(Fi). Fragment burnt Ae; found in upper filling (not illus.).

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton f; wood in socket.
B, D. Two Ae shield-studs; Ae washer between head and adhering wood on D.
Ci. Iron shield-boss; four disc-headed iron rivets (originally five), heads covered with silver sheet, as is central knob. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Cii. Iron shield-grip with wood and remains of leather binding.

Grave 2 (Figs 13 and 295)
H9; sex unknown; bone recorded; depth 17 cm; uncertain relationship with Contexts 4 and 15 and with Grave 6.

(Fii). Ae rivet; found in upper filling (not illus.).
(G). Potsherd, fabric Ib; found in upper filling (not illus.).
(H). Two flint flakes; found in upper filling (not illus.).

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife; horn handle.
Bi-ii. Two Ae lace-ends; hole through top.
Bi-iii. Ae rivet.
(C). Two flint flakes; found in filling (not illus.).

Pit 4:
H9; oval, charcoal flecks in fill; 1.3 m by 0.8 m; depth 40 cm.

Possible Grave 5
G8; fragment of adult long bone and potsherds on surface.

Grave-goods:
(Ai). Potsherd, rim; from same vessel as 5.Aii (q.v.); (not illus.).
(Aii). Potsherds, fabric II; see also 5.Ai, 19.Di and 422.B; (not illus.).
(Aiii). c. ten potsherds, fabric 1c (not illus.).

Grave 6 (Figs 14 and 295-6)
G9; female; teeth, found with Bi-iv indicate young adult; depth 17 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 2 and Context 15.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Fragment of iron strip with iron rivet with traces of wood; associated piece of wood (not illus.).
Aii. Fragment Ae sheet.
Bi-ii. Decorated and tinned pair of hammered leaded gunmetal sheet annular brooches; remains of iron pins. Not separately numbered on field plan. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3 Section I, microfiche.
Bi-iii. Amber bead (lost, not illus.).
Biv. Fragment of iron brooch pin (not illus.).
Ci-iii. Ae sheet wrist-clasp hook and eye plates with repoussé decoration; i and iii perhaps pair of same hook-plate; Hines Form B7.
Di. Iron knife.
Di-iv. Iron key. Textile on stem, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Div. Parts of two iron keys; loops with remains of iron suspension ring.
(Ei-iii). Thirty-one beads:
i. Twenty-one amber

ii. Eight turquoise, translucent

iii. Two colourless, translucent, segmented.

(F). Two indeterminate prehistoric potsherds (not illus.).

Grave 7 (Figs 15 and 296)
G10; possible child; no bone recorded; depth 12 cm; cuts Grave 18, uncertain relationship with Grave 202.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
B. Iron buckle.
Cl. Ae plate, with punched and incised decoration on one face; three holes, perhaps belt-plate.
Cii. Fragment of Ae strip, punched decoration. Two further fragments recorded (now missing), one had a hole. This object originally thought to match Ci and perhaps back it. Organic material found around Ci and ii.

Pit or Post-hole 8
G8; ashy soil with burnt flint and cremated bone (lost); 27 cm by 35 cm, depth 20 cm.

Grave 10 (Figs 16 and 296)
H 10/11; possible child; cremated bone in pot A is sub-adult or adult; depth 24 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, nearly complete but shattered; fabric Ib; extensive sooting of interior and round neck of exterior.

(B).

One flint blade and two flakes (not illus.).

Grave 10

Grave 11 (Figs 17 and 296)

G8; possible child; no bone recorded; depth 24 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot; found broken in upper filling; shattered but with nearly complete rim, most of body and some base surviving; fabric 11; sooting on all exterior and on all interior except base.

(Bi-ii). Two fragments of burnt Ae sheet apparently found with A.

(C). One flint blade and two flakes (not illus.).

---

Grave 12

?Post-hole 12

G6; containing charcoal flecks; diam. 25 cm, depth 2 cm.

---

Grave 13

?Post-hole 13

G7; containing charcoal flecks; diam. 40 cm, depth 1 cm.

---

Pit 14 (Fig. 4)

Outside cemetery area.

Containing pot-boilers; 1.1 m by 0.8 m, depth 15 cm.

---

Context 15 (Figs 13 and 14)

G9; fragment of horse or cow long bone recorded; depth 10 cm; relationship to Graves 2 and 6 uncertain; uncertain if material came from one of these graves or if it represents remains of a third.

Finds:

(Ai). Five Potsherds, Early Iron Age bowl (Fig. 459), See Chapter 3, Section I.

Aii. Two indeterminate prehistoric potsherds (not illus.).

(B). One flint flake (not illus.).

Grave 15 (Figs 18 and 297-8)

F8; female; bones and teeth recorded with E; depth 40 cm; cuts Graves 27 and 47.

Grave-goods:

A, Ci. Pair of Ae small-long brooches. Leeds square-headed (panelled) type F. Textile on Ci.

B. Mercury gilded bronze florid cruciform brooch. Leeds and Pocock Group VA; cast in one; tinned flat terminal plate of foot. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V; microfiche.

Cii. Two brownish-red beads.

Di-ii, Gi-ii Ei-xiii. Tinned Ae wrist-clasps, hook and eye plates of Ae sheet;

Gi-ii Hines Form B7. ?Tinned ?gunmetal. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

Ei-xiii. Forty-six beads:

Grave 16

Figure 18 Grave 16. Scale 1:20
Grave-goods:
A. Pot, less than quarter surviving; fabric Ib.
B. Fragment of burnt Ae sheet.
Ci. Fragment of burnt Ae ring.
Cii. Fragment of burnt Ae.
(D). Three fragments of burnt Ae sheet, found in area of dark soil on south side of grave (not illus.).

Grave 18 (Figs 20 and 299)
G10/11; female; teeth indicate adult; depth 28 cm; cut by Grave 7.

Grave-goods:
A. Nine yellow beads.
Bi-ii. Pair of Ae annular brooches; punched decoration; iron pins, looped round ring which is notched at this point. Textile.
C. Large iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 17 (Figs 19 and 298)
G7; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 36 cm; areas of dark grey soil with charcoal flecks, and row of large flints along southern edge of grave; uncertain relationship with Grave 24.

Di-iii. Parts of Ae sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; i is a hook-plate, ii and iii probably eye-plates; Hines Form B7.
Ei-ii. Pair of Ae girdle-hangers with punched decoration; on Eii remains of perhaps six threads wrapped around bottom bar on one side and mark on other side where threads were similarly wrapped; remains of a single thread across lower part of stem.

Eiii. Part of iron ring, partly covered with leather and textile.

Eiv. Iron knife.

Gi-iii. Seven beads:
- i. Three amber
- ii. Two green
- iii. Two red, yellow and white.

Gi (H). Two flint blades found in filling (not illus.).

(F). One flint blade and two flakes in filling (not illus.).

Grave 20 (Figs 22 and 300)
G9/10; female; teeth fragments recorded above G; depth 35 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 90.

Grave-goods:
- A. Hammered Ae sheet annular brooch, overlapping ends fastened by iron rivet; punched decoration; iron brooch pin (F) probably belongs. Textile.
- Bi-ii, Wrist-clasps, cast Ae hook-plates, sheet Ae eye-plates.
- Hi-ii. Hines Form 18, special form; loop of Hii worn through in antiquity.
- Ci. Iron knife, possible horn handle. Textile.
- Cii. Fragment of iron ring.
- D. Amber bead.
- F. Iron brooch pin, probably belonging to A (not illus.).
- G. Ae annular brooch; fragments of iron pin survive (not illus.).
- (J). Five flint flakes (not illus.) and one microlith (Fig. 459).

(Fig. 21 Grave 19, Scale 1:20)

Grave 19 (Figs 21 and 300)
G8; male; no bones recorded but fragments of ?animal bone in filling; depth 37 cm; pottery concentrations 422-4 and cremated bones 427 on surface of filling.

Grave-goods:
- A. Iron spearhead; Swanton H2.
- B. Iron knife, horn handle.
- C. Iron ferrule.
- (Di). Potsherds, rim; from same vessel as 5 Aii (q.v.); found in filling.
- Dii. Potsherd, fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).
- (E). Fragment of Romano-British imbrex found in upper fill (not illus.).

(Fig. 22 Grave 20, Scale 1:20)
Grave 21
G8; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 95 cm; part cut away by quarry.

Grave-goods:
(Ai). Potsherd, fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).
Aii. Potsherd, fabric Ia; found in upper filling (not illus.).
(B). One flint blade (not illus.).

Grave 22 (Figs 23 and 301)
G6; male; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm; part cut away by quarry.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton Cl.
Bi. Iron shield-boss; five disc-headed iron rivets.

Grave 23 (Figs 24 and 301)
F9; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm; possibly cut by Grave 42.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead probably from Grave 42 (Fig. 311)
B. Pot, almost complete; fabric Ia.
(C). Two flint blades found in upper filling (one, Fig. 459; other, not illus.).

Grave 24 (Figs 25 and 301)
G7; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 31 cm; relationship with Grave 17 uncertain.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, possible wood on tang.
(B). One unfinished flint arrowhead; one blade and five flakes found in filling (arrowhead, Fig. 459; one rolled flake, Fig. 459; rest not illus.).

Grave 25 (Figs 26 and 302)
G6; female; fragment of bone recorded with Aiii, and tooth; depth 28 cm; cuts Grave 29.

Grave-goods
Ai-ii, Wrist-clasps, Ae sheet with cast bar. Hines
Ci-ii Form BJ3; wood fragments in association.

Textile on Aii, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Aiii. Fragment of burnt Ae (not illus.).
B. Ae sheet repair strip from rim of wooden bowl; wood surviving.
D, E. Pair of Ae annular brooches with cast decoration and Ae pins.
(F). One flint blade in filling (not illus.).

Grave 27 (Figs 27 and 302)
F8; sex uncertain; surviving bones suggest older adult, possibly male; depth 35 cm; cut by Grave 16, uncertain relationship with Grave 47.

Grave-goods
A. Potsherd (lost, not illus.).
B, (Fi). Apparently arms of a single pair of iron tweezers; but these pieces do not join and were found some 40 cm apart in grave; Fi was found beneath jaw. Textile on Fi.
C. Iron knife.
D. Iron buckle.
(Fii). Iron fragment (not illus.).

Slot 28 (Fig. 302)
F10; flat-bottomed slot, depth 25 cm, forming rectangle, 2.10 m by 1.85 m; dark grey-brown filling; possible post-hole near SW corner. Possibly foundation for a structure. This cut Graves 140, 141, 147, 154 and 155, cut by gravel-filled Pit 139. The objects listed below were found in this feature and could not be attributed to any of the related graves.

Finds:
(A). Ae annular brooch; punched and incised decoration; Ae pin.
(B). Ae sheet fragments.
(C). Iron buckle and plate with two iron rivets.
(Dii). Potsherd from same vessel as 155.Vi (q.v.); (not illus.).
(D). Two potsherds, one basal, one body; from same vessel as 147.H (q.v.); (not illus.).
(E). Two flint blades (one, Fig. 459; other not illus.).

Grave 29 (Figs 28 and 303)
G6; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 9 cm; cut by Grave 25.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, less than half surviving; fabric 1a; interior sooted, exterior showing traces.

Grave 30 (Figs 29 and 303-6)
G9; female; no bones recorded; depth 50 cm; cut by probable Grave 31; number and position of brooches suggest the possibility of two burials, one overlying another. They could be contemporary, if not, the later burial must have been added before the first body disintegrated.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, less than half surviving; fabric 1a; interior sooted, exterior showing traces. Two joining sherds only but comprising about half rim and large section of body; fabric Ib; sooting on exterior near rim.
B-D, P. 140 beads. Retained as four groups but not differentiated on field plan. P recorded as 'below brooches' unspecified Bi. One amber
ii. Three blue, translucent
iii. One black

(Pi). Four amber
ii. Five blue, translucent, as Di (not illus.)
iii. One white and blue, as Dv (not illus.)
iv. One red, green and yellow, as Dxxx (not illus.)
v. One white, red and blue vi. One red and green
vii. One yellow, red and green viii. One colourless, translucent.
ix. Ae decorated cylinder, see M.
E. Ae ring.
F. Iron knife.
Gi-ii, Wrist-clasps, Ae sheet with hollow tubes; punched Hi-ii decoration; Hines Form B13b.
J, K. Pair of Ae cruciform brooches; detachable side knobs; punched decoration; Aberg Group II. A side-knob of J was recovered with the beads (Bvi). Textile on J and K, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
L, O. Pair of Ae annular brooches with punched decoration; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

M. Two Ae decorated cylinders stuck together; a third, Pix, was found beneath a brooch unspecified. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

N. Ae cruciform brooch, punched decoration. Aberg Group III. Side knobs cast in one and incomplete, perhaps a casting fault; on right side, thin replacement knob attached to front. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Probable Grave 31 (Fig. 29)
G9; possible child; no bones recorded; 1m by 0.55 m, depth 21 cm; cuts Grave 30.

Grave 32 (Figs 30 and 306)
F6; sex unknown; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ib; sooting on exterior and towards rim on interior.

Grave 33 (Fig. 31)
F10; sex unknown; possible child; skull fragment recorded; depth 11 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Twenty potsherds, fabric Ib; sooted interior and exterior surfaces (not illus.).

Grave 34 (Figs 32 and 306)
G10; sex unknown; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 27 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Twenty potsherds, fabric Ib; sooted interior and exterior surfaces (not illus.).
Grave-good:
A. Pot, rim and base missing, body complete; grooved linear decoration with stamps; fabric V; sooting on exterior and towards rim on interior.

Grave 35 (Figs 33 and 307-9)
G11; male; no bones recorded; probably disturbing a female grave; depth 37 cm; rectangular area of dark soil at base of grave in SE part, edged on north side by line of flints; Tub B partly overlapping west end of dark soil area; step-up to shallower area at west end of grave.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron ring with remains of leather strap looped around it. One end of strap split to form loop through which rest of strap has been passed.
Iron fittings from wooden tub. Flat iron rim-band clamped over the upper edge of the wooden staves by iron channelling. The two opposite handle attachments were fastened to the tub by a square head rivet or nail through the rim-band and two smaller rivets through the bird-head terminals; these formed the bird's eyes. The solid iron rings were held by a decorated loop. Two opposing iron clips with bird-head terminals were broken at the rim so it is uncertain if they continued inside the tub. No wood survived. The iron fittings were in situ, with the top of the rim-band 33cm above the base ring which rested on the bottom of the grave. It is uncertain if there had been any slumping when the wood had decayed.

Iron knife with remains of leather sheath around blade; horn handle.

Ae small-long brooch. Leeds Cross potent type Ci; punched decoration; head-plate damaged in antiquity.

Amber bead (not illus.).

M, Q. R. Pot, nearly complete, fabric IV; sooted on both surfaces.

N. Iron buckle and part of plate.

S. Iron fragment, part of B.

T. Decorated Ae object, perhaps wrist-clasp bar. See wrist-clasp E. Found in filling.

U. Six flint blades and six flakes, found in filling (not illus.).

Vi. Potsherd, fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).

Vii. Potsherds, fabric 1c; found in filling (not illus.).

W. Amber bead fragment, found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 36 (Figs 34 and 306)

F10/11; male; bones indicate sub-adult or adult; depth 8 cm; cut by Graves 40 and 46, uncertain relationship with Grave 206.

Grave-goods:

A. Decorated Ae buckle, with remains of iron pin and Ae plate sheet.

Bi. Remains of iron shield-boss, flange largely disintegrated; dome stove in by heavy blow in antiquity. Number of disc-headed iron rivets in flange unknown; diameter of surviving disc 2 cm.

Bii. Decorated iron shield-grip with two iron rivets.

Biii. Two potsherds, fabric IV (not illus.).

Grave 37 (Figs 35 and 310)

F9; sex uncertain; surviving bones suggest younger mature possible male; depth 17 cm.
Grave-goods:
Ai. Ae buckle and plate with three Ae rivets.
Aii. Cow awl. However, it is possible that the squared tang is the functional end of a file.

Grave and Ring-ditch 38 (Figs 36 and 310)
F11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 30 cm; U-sectioned ring-ditch, max. depth 16 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, over half surviving; fabric Ia; extensive sooting on exterior some on interior.
B. Pot, two-thirds surviving; fabric Ia; extensive sooting on both surfaces.
(C). Part of Ae tag-end, punched decoration, Ae rivet. From ditch fill.
(D). Fragment of burnt bone, possibly animal. From ditch fill.

Probable Grave 39
E9; sex unknown; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.2 m by 0.7 m, depth 26 cm.

Grave 40 (Figs 37 and 310)
F11; male; bone indicates probable adult; depth 21 cm; cuts Grave 36, uncertain relationships with Graves 46 and 419.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton C2.
Aii. c. twenty potsherds; traces of linear decoration with stamps VIIId; part of 40 Di (q.v.; not illus.).
B. Iron knife, probable wood handle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Remains of iron buckle with Ae sheet plate and three iron rivets, two of which pass through additional pieces of Ae sheet. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Di. Pot, one-third body and base surviving; fabric V; grooved linear decoration with raised bosses (probably 4) and stamps VIIId (as also on 115.G).
Dii. One flint blade found inside pot Di (not illus.).

Probable Grave 41
E9; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.4 m by 0.7 m, depth 22 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 42.

Grave 42 (Figs 24 and 311)
E/F9; male; no bones recorded, depth 20 cm; uncertain relationship with probable Grave 41, probably cuts Grave 23, spearhead 23.A (described below) found on junction of these two graves which suggests that Grave 42 is the later.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
Bi. Iron shield-boss, with perhaps five small-headed iron rivets; remains of Ae washers survive at the inner end of two rivets. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Bii. Remains of iron shield-grip of simple bar type.
Biii. Potsherd, fabric Ia (not illus.).

Grave 43 (Figs 38 and 310)
F11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 33 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 419.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle and plate with three Ae rivets.
Aii. Cow molar (not illus.).

Grave-goods:

A. Roman Ae penannular brooch, flattened knob terminals with grooved decoration. See Chapter 3, Section II.

B. Iron buckle.

Grave 44 (Figs 39 and 311)
F6; female; teeth indicate sub-adult or young adult; depth 31 cm, cuts Grave 50.

Grave-goods:

A. Part of decorated, cast, Ae annular brooch, part of ‘bar’ for pin loop survives; found in filling.

B. Ae sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; B is eye-plate only. Hines Form B7.

D. Iron knife, horn handle.

E. Tinned bronze disc brooch, punched and incised decoration; traces of iron pin (see Chapter 3, Section III, microfiche). Metal analysis see Chapter 3, Section V. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

F, G. Pair of Ae annular brooches, punched decoration; remains of iron pins.

(Hi-vii). Ten beads:

i. Three amber
ii. One yellow
iii. One green
iv. One red, with trail of darker red
v. One red, yellow and white vi. One white, green and fine dark red trail
vii. Two reddish brown, green and yellow.

Grave 45 (Figs 40 and 312)
F7/8; male; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm. It is possible that this burial destroyed a female grave.

Grave-goods:

A, D, E and H and probably K come from a disturbed female grave.

A. Ae hook-plate of wrist-clasp, Hines Form B20.

B. Remains of iron shield-boss, unknown number of iron disc-headed rivets through flange; one iron washer survives at inner end of rivet.

Bii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type, remains of leather binding and two iron rivets.

C. Potsherds, grooved decoration; fabric Ia.

D. Five beads:

i. One blue, translucent
ii. One blue
iii. One colourless, translucent and yellow
iv. One green, translucent
v. One white.

E. Part of iron ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Fi. Iron knife with two rivets through tang; horn handle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Fii. Fragment of decorated horn probably part of handle of Fi.
G. Ae tweezers.
Hi. Part of iron knife, horn handle.
Hii. Fragment of iron knife blade (not illus.).
(J). Three potsherds, fabric Ia; found in upper filling (not illus.).
(Ki-iii). Three beads, found in filling:
i. One amber
ii. One green, translucent
iii. Fragment of blue, translucent (not illus.).
(L). Iron sheet fragment, found in filling (not illus.).
(M). One flint blade, found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 46 (Figs 41 and 313)
F11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 17; cuts Grave 36, uncertain relationship with Grave 40.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragment of Ae sheet with elaborate repoussé decoration.
B. Pot, shattered but nearly complete, fabric IV.

Grave 47 (Figs 42 and 313)
F8; sex uncertain; bones indicate probable female adult; depth 49 cm; cuts Grave 55, cut by Grave 16, uncertain relationship with Grave 27.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Pot, virtually complete, fabric Ia; sooting on exterior.
ii. Flint potboiler found in pot.

Grave 48 (Figs 43 and 313)
F7; sex unknown; no bones recorded, 10 cm; cut by Grave 55.

Grave-goods:
A. Part of iron knife.
B. Ae hook-plate of wrist-clasp, punched decoration; Hines Form B9; found among pot sherds Di-iii.
C. Twelve potsherds, basal and body; part of 48.DI (q.v.); (not illus.).
Di. Pot, quarter surviving, rim and body; fabric Ic; sooting on both surfaces.
Dii. Potsherd, rim; fabric Ia (not illus.).
Diii. Potsherd, fabric Ia (not illus.).

Probable Grave 49
F6; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.25 m by 0.6 m, depth 9 cm; cut by Grave 50.

Grave 50 (Figs 44 and 313)
F6; female; no bones recorded; depth 17 cm; cuts probable Grave 49, cut by Grave 44, uncertain relationship with probable Grave 102.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Tinned bronze wrist-clasp. Hines Form B20, Metal Bi-ii. analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V.
C, D. Ae annular brooches, punched and incised decoration, single punch used on D, two punches on C; remains of iron pin on D.
E. Large iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Fi-vii. Eleven beads:

Grave-goods:

A. Pair of Ae annular brooches, punched decoration; remains of iron pin on E. Textile.
B. Part of large iron pin.
C. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
D. Iron ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
D. Fragment of iron sheet with hole.
D. Iron sheet with disc-headed rivet.

Grave 53 (Figs 47 and 314)

G9; sex unknown; bones indicate sub-adult or adult; depth 20 cm.

Grave-goods:

B. Iron buckle with Ae pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 54 (Fig. 48)

F9; sex unknown; bones indicate sub-adult or adult; depth 36 cm; cuts Grave 200.

Grave 55 (Fig. 49)

F7/8; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 26 cm; cuts Grave 48, cut by Grave 47.

Grave-goods:

A. Twelve potsherds and crumbs, basal and body; fabric la, found in upper filling (not illus.).

---

Grave 51 (Figs 45 and 314)

F8; female; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm; cuts Grave 128.

---

Grave 52 (Figs 46 and 314)

F8; male; no bones recorded; depth 21 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 65.

Grave 57 (Figs 50 and 314)
G10; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm; cuts Grave 59.

Grave-goods:
A, B. Two iron knives, horn handle on B.

Grave 58 (Figs 51 and 315)
F9; sex unknown; bone recorded; depth 18 cm; cuts Grave 59, cut by Grave 60.

Grave-good:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 59 (Figs 52 and 315)
G9/10; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 43 cm; cut by Graves 57 and 58.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
B. Iron buckle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ib; sooting on exterior and near rim on interior.

Grave 60 (Figs 53 and 315)
F9; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 27 cm; cuts Grave 58.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife; horn handle.
B. Part of an iron buckle.

Grave 61 (Figs 54 and 315)
E9; male; no bones recorded; depth 28 cm; cuts possible Grave 432.

Grave-goods:
A. See Ei.
B, F-G. Iron shield-studs with green stain of ?Ae washers noted before conservation.

Grave 62 (Fig. 316)
F3/4; possible male; no bones recorded; depth 30 cm; part cut away by quarry, Post-holes 82 and 83 beside SW and SE corners of grave.

Grave-goods:
(A). Part of iron spearhead; Swanton E1; disturbed by mechanical excavator.
(B). Iron buckle; found in upper filling.

Grave 63 (Figs 55 and 316)
E9; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 17 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, virtually complete; fabric II.

Impressions of ?grass suggest body may have been covered with vegetation. Layer of leather beneath wood on back.
C. Iron spearhead; Swanton D2.
D. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
Ei. Remains of iron shield-boss, perhaps five disc-headed rivets through flange, central knob (A) covered with silver sheet. Grass impression on dome.
Eii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type with two disc-headed rivets; three zones of fine string or leather surviving on outer face.

Grave 64 (Figs 56 and 316)
F7; female; no bones recorded; depth c. 20 cm; cuts Grave 85.

Grave-goods:

Al-iii. Three Ae wire rings of expanding type.

B. Ten yellow beads.

Ci-ii. Complete and fragmentary Ae annular brooches, punched decoration; apparently a pair. Ci has overlapping ends beneath remains of iron pin loop.

D. Pot, nearly complete; fabric Ia.

Grave 65 (Figs 57 and 316)

F8; perhaps male; bone recovered but not recorded on plan; depth 50 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 52.

Grave-goods:

A. Two Ae fragments (not illus.).

C. Ae tweezers, punched decoration. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Di. Iron knife.

Dii. Iron and Ae purse-mount; Ae buckle apparently in centre of iron bar with gently curved sides. Much leather, probably remains of purse, covering bar, also remains of leather suspension strap. Details obtained from X-ray.

E. Belt-fittings.

i. Decorated gilded Ae triangular plate with loop much worn, gilding worn off border; remains of three small rivets on back near corners.

ii. Decorated gilded Ae square plate, gilding worn off border; four small rivets on back near corners.

F. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ib; grooved linear decoration with stamps Iih and IIIh.

Probable Grave 66 (Fig. 317)

F3; possible female; no bone recorded; concentration of finds on surface of natural gravel, no cut feature surviving.

Grave-goods:

(A). Antoninianus of Postumus, with two suspension holes; reverse illegible; AD 259-268. It seems likely that this coin was specially selected and carefully pierced so that the Emperor’s head was upright.

(B). Antoninianus with two suspension holes, diam. 1.5 mm; illegible, mid third century AD (not illus.).

(C). Colourless bead.

(D). Iron ring.

(Dii). Iron fragment (not illus.).

(Diii). Amber bead.

(E). Ae ring.

(F). Pot, less than quarter surviving, no base; fabric Ia; linear and punched or pecked decoration.
Grave 67 (Figs 58 and 317)
E2/3; male; no bones recorded; depth 18 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife with possible leather sheath, and horn handle.
B. Ae tweezers, one edge folded over perhaps to provide more or less uniform thickness.
C. Iron spearhead; Swanton H2.
D. Iron buckle.

Grave 68 (Figs 59 and 317)
D5; male; no bones recorded; depth c. 8 cm; grave disturbed by machining; cuts Grave 100.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton E2.
B. Iron knife; horn handle.

Grave 69 (Figs 60 and 318)
D4; male; no bones recorded; depth 6 cm, outline of E end of grave uncertain.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton E2.
B. c. forty potsherds, basal and body; fabric Ia;

C. Iron ferrule.
Di. Iron shield-boss with five disc-headed iron rivets. Impression of ?grass on outside of dome.
Dii. Iron shield-grip.
Di iii. Iron shield-mount with two iron tacks; wood on lower side and covers end of one tack suggesting that this piece was surface decoration.
sooting on exterior surface of most sherds and on interior of some; (not illus.).

Grave 70 (Figs 61 and 318)
G11; possible female child; no bones recorded; depth 29 cm.

Grave-goods:
A, B. Remains of two Ae wire rings, made of rolled sheet, probably both of expanding type.
Cl-ii. Four beads:
i. One red
ii. Three yellow.
Di. Pot, more than half surviving; fabric la; sooting on interior and at base and near rim of exterior.
Dii. Two potsherds, fabric la, burnt (not illus.).

Grave 71 (Fig. 62)
G11; probable child; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai. c. forty potsherds, fabric la, burnt (not illus.).
Aii. Potsherd, fabric la (not illus.).

Grave 72 (Figs 63 and 318)
F9; probable child; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, possible horn handle.
B. Pot, three-quarters surviving but little of base; fabric la; extensive sooting on interior, traces on exterior.
C. Pot, one-third surviving including one pierced lug; fabric la; some sooting on both surfaces.

Grave 73 (Figs 64 and 318)
F2; probable female; surviving bones and teeth, not recorded on plan, indicate juvenile or sub-adult; depth 5 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Decorated Ae annular brooch with Ae pin, overlapping ends where point of pin crossed ring.
B. Antoninianus of Gallienus pierced for suspension in approximate centre; diam. of hole 3 mm; reverse illegible. AD 253-268 (not illus.).
C. Iron ring.

Grave 76 (Figs 65 and 319)
E4; female; no bones recorded; depth 12 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron knife, horn handle.
Aii. Upper part of large iron pin.
B, C. Pair of Ae annular brooches with incised decoration; Ae pins.

Grave 77 (Figs 66 and 319)
F4; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 19 cm, cut by quarry.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.

Grave 78 (Figs 67 and 319)
E3, sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 22 cm; area of dark soil covering base of grave, partly edged by flints along N and S sides; cuts Pit 94.

Grave-goods:
A. Pair of Ae tweezers.
B. Part of iron staple.
C. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
D. Iron buckle.

Grave 79 (Figs 68 and 319)
G11; probable child; no bones recorded; depth 33 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, more than half base and body surviving, some rim; fabric la; sooted interior, exterior sooting on base and up one side of rim.
Grave 79 (Figs 68 and 320-1)
F4; female; teeth indicate younger adult; depth 21 cm; it is probable that this is a double burial as the grave-goods appear not to have been disturbed.

Grave-goods:
A-B. Ae wrist-clasps, punched decoration; Hines Form B20.
Gi-ii. Curved iron object, traces of Ae at one end. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Iron knife, horn handle.
D. Iron rings.
H, I. Pair of Ae annular brooches with incised decoration; remains of iron pins. Textile on H, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
J. Ae cruciform brooch; Aberg Group IV, punched decoration; end of nose broken in antiquity; detachable side-knobs; left side-knob a replacement. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
K, L. Pair of Ae annular brooches with incised decoration, remains of iron pins. Textile on L, see Chapter 3, Section VI and on K.
Mi-ii. Two Ae C-bracteates with repoussé decoration. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Miii. Part of Ae circular 'scutiform' pendant with punched decoration.

Miv. Ae loop made from thin strip, possibly from Mi, ii or iii.
Ni. Small Ae wire ring of expanding type.
Nii. Crook-shaped piece of Ae wire.
Oi-iii. Twenty-one beads:
 i. Ten amber
 ii. Ten yellow
 iii. One yellow and green.

(P). Four potsherds; in filling; Romano-British micaceous grey ware; probably all from one vessel (not illus.).

Possible Grave 81
F4; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.4m by 0.7 m, depth 31 cm.

Post-hole 82
F3; diam. 25 cm, depth 11 cm; next to SW corner of Grave 62.

Post-hole 83
F4; diam. 25 cm, depth 22 cm; next to SE corner of Grave 62.

Gully 84
D1; filled with red-brown sand; depth 21 cm; perhaps a natural feature.

Grave 85 (Figs 70 and 321)
F7; male; teeth indicate younger mature adult; depth 44 cm; cuts Grave 102 and Post-hole 137, cut by Grave 64.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton D2.
B. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ia; linear decoration with stamps Ia and Ih, and 10 raised bosses.
C. Iron knife fragment, possible leather sheath.
Di. Iron shield-boss, with perhaps five disc-headed rivets.

Dii.  Iron shield-grip, remains of wood in hollow; remains of leather binding on upper surface.

(E).  Indeterminate prehistoric potsherd (not illus.).

Grave 86 (Figs 71 and 322)

F4; female; bone recovered; teeth between brooches A and B indicate young adult; depth 27 cm; line of flints on base of grave along S side.

Grave-goods:
A, B.  Pair of Ae annular brooches, incised and punched decoration, traces of iron pins.
Ci.  Large Ae pin with horizontal grooved decoration and spatulate end with hole.
Cii.  Small Ae ring of rolled sheet which originally went through hole in corner of flattened head of Ci and held spangles Ciii and iv.
Ciii-iv.  Two Ae sheet spangles.
Cv.  Broken Ae sheet loop.
Di-iv.  Fourteen beads:
   i.  Nine amber, including two made from parts of one or two larger beads
   ii.  One green
iii.  Three greenish-blue, translucent
iv.  One yellow and green.
Dv.  Roman (probably late) blue glass translucent bi-convex 'gem', 17 by 13mm, 7mm thick, with shallow groove around edge on one side; probably not from a ring. Identified by Catherine Johns.

F.  Iron knife, horn handle.

Gi.  Remains of two Ae sheet bucket pendants, one has one hole surviving, the other two opposing holes.

Gii.  Short Ae sheet tag-end, with single Ae rivet and incised decoration on one plate.

Giii.  Ae lace-end with incised decoration.

H.  Iron ring.

Grave 87 (Figs 72 and 323)

E4; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 26 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai-iii.  Two Ae sheet repair strips from edge of wooden bowl; wood survives; slight incised decoration on one side only of each strip looks secondary to deeper decoration on top of loop; rivet Aiii probably from Aii.

B. Part of pair of Ae tweezers with Ae suspension ring; decoration on both arms including facetting and punched motif.

?Robber-pit 88
F6; cut into probable Grave 102, with vertical sides and base coinciding with base of grave at 46 cm; 1.5 m by 0.8 m.

Pit or post-hole 89
F6; diam. 45-50 cm, depth 17 cm.

Grave 90 (Figs 73 and 323-4)
G10; female; no bones recorded; depth 48 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 20.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Pair of Ae cruciform brooches, Aber Group II; side knobs cast in one; punched decoration, two punches used. Textile.
Aiii. Ae cruciform brooch, Aber Group II, side knobs cast in one; punched decoration. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Aiv. Fragment of Ae wrist-clasp plate; punched decoration.

Av. Iron ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Avi-xxviii. Eighty-nine beads:
vi. Forty-one blue, translucent
vii. Thirteen white and blue viii. Three white, red and blue ix. One white, blue and red
x. Two white, red and green xi. One yellow and green
xii. Two red, translucent xiii. Two black xiv. One very dark brown
xv. One green and red xvi. One green, translucent xvii. One pale blue xviii. One greenish yellow xix. One turquoise, translucent xx. One jet
xxi. One dark green xxii. One damaged blue, translucent, opaque white and red xxiii. Four red, yellow and green xxiv. Four red, yellow and green xxv. Three red, yellow and green xxvi. One brown, green, yellow and red xxvii. One white, green and red xxviii. Two white and blue.

Bi. Iron ring with remains of leather suspension strap cf. Gr.35A. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Bi. Iron knife, probable horn handle.

C. Ae wrist-clasp eye-plate; punched decorated, two motifs. Hines Form 18b or 18c.

D. Pot, two-thirds surviving; fabric Ib; sooting on exterior, especially base.

Grave 91 (Figs 74 and 325)
E4; female; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron knife, horn handle.

B. Ae annular brooch, punched decoration; remains of iron pin.

C. Ae hammered sheet annular brooch, incised decoration; overlapping ends held by two iron rivets; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

D. Ae cruciform brooch, Aberg Group IV; side knobs cast in one; punched decoration; catch-plate repaired with soldered Ae sheet to make shorter catch-plate.

Ei. Eleven beads:

1. Six blue, translucent
2. Two white and blue
3. One green, red and yellow
4. One red and green
5. One red.

(Fi-iii). Folded and riveted Ae sheet with wood, wooden bowl repair, in three pieces; rivet (iii) of rolled Ae sheet; from N part of grave.

---

Grave 92 (Figs 75 and 326)
E4; female; no bones recorded; depth 12 cm; curious projection on N side had same filling as rest of feature.

Grave-goods:

A. Seven Ae sheet bucket pendants, four complete, three fragmentary; found in a row close together and all upright.

B. Curved Ae object pierced at either end with three projections, almost complete except for damage to two projections.

Ci. Seventeen beads:

ix. Three colourless, translucent from segmented bead cf. viii
x. Two blue, translucent.

D. "annular brooch" with punched and incised decoration; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 93 (Figs 76 and 326)
E4; sex unknown; bone recorded; skull fragment indicates possible male; depth 26 cm.

Pit 94
E3; 1.1 m by min. 0.9 m, depth 35 cm; cut by Grave 78.

?Post-hole 95
F5; diam. 15 cm, depth 8 cm.

Grave 96 (Figs 77 and 326-7)
E3; female; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Ae wrist-clasps, with punched decoration.
Ci-ii. Broken hook of plate Ai replaced with Ae strip. Hines Form B19.
B. Iron knife, horn handle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
D, E. Pair of Ae small-long brooches. Leeds cross potent type ci; punched decoration on head-plates only. Textile.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle and plate with at least one iron rivet. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Fragments of large iron pin or rod.
D. Iron knife, horn handle.
E. Pot, three-quarters surviving; fabric IV; sooting on exterior, especially base.
F. Ae cruciform brooch, Aberg Group IV detachable side-knobs; punched decoration; broken foot repaired by Ae sheet soldered on back; two holes on front perhaps intended for rivets to effect repair. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

6. One yellow, green and red.

Grave 97 (Figs 78 and 328-30)
F5; male with disturbed female; teeth between M and B indicate young adult; depth 23 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae cruciform brooch, Aberg Group III; punched decoration. Textile.
B. Bronze wrist-clasps with tinning in punched 'flower' decoration. Hines Form B12. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V.
C. Ae strap-union; Ae ring engaged with Ae sheet loop with single Ae rivet.
D. Iron ferrule; green Ae stain noted.
E. Fragment of iron rod or large pin.
F. Iron knife, horn handle.
G. Iron buckle with Ae sheet plate with iron rivet. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

H, I. Ae fittings and wood possibly from a lyre. Remains of paired wooden structure(s) with Ae strip attachment (Figs. 460-3). Full report, Chapter 3, Section IV.
K, Niiiv, Oii-iii. Ae sheet fittings, Ae tack and iron nails from probable single large wooden object.
K, Nii, Oii. Eight iron nails embedded in wood (two not illus.)
Nii. Bent Ae sheet with Ae rivet set in wood Niii, Oii. Three bent sheet strips with iron rivets Oii. Ae tack set in wood.
L. Ae cruciform-brooch side-knob with remains of iron spring-bar, apparently not from brooch A.

Mi. Iron shield-boss, probably five disc-headed rivets.
Mii. Remains of iron shield-grip of simple bar type with remains of wood and leather banding.
Ni. Iron spearhead; Swanton E3.
P. Iron stud.
Q. Four fragments of iron strip, one with iron rivet set in wood (one piece not illus.)
R. Four iron staples, set in remains of wood.
T. Pot, nearly complete; fabric 1c; eight long, vertical, raised bosses alternating with pairs of smaller raised bosses one above the other.
(Ui). Two potsherds, rim and body; part of 97 T (q.v.); found in filling; (not illus.).
Uii. Fourteen potsherds, fabric IV; found in filling; (not illus.).
Uiii. Potsherd, basal, from Nene Valley Colour-Coated dish or bowl; third or fourth century; (not illus.).

Grave 98 (Figs 79 and 330)
F5; probable child; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, rim and body nearly complete, one-third of base surviving but disintegrated; fabric Ib; sooted exterior.
(B). Four indeterminate prehistoric potsherds, found on surface (not illus.)

Grave 99 (Figs 80 and 330)
E1; possible female child; no bones recorded; depth 8 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii.  Ae sheet wrist-clasp with punched decoration; Hines Form B7.
B.  Iron knife fragment.
C.  Part of Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration.

Grave 100 (Figs 81 and 331)
D4; male; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm; area of dark soil near N edge of grave, and mass of organic material around E; cut by Grave 68.

Grave-goods:
C.  Part of iron purse-mount, bar. Remains of leather and textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
D.  Fragment of iron knife, horn handle.
Ei.  Ae sheet with remains of hole; punched decoration.
Eii.  Part of iron knife, horn handle.
Eiii.  Iron ?awl embedded in wood.
Eiv.  Mass of leather with iron blade inside, min 25mm across (X-ray; not illus.).

Probable Grave 101
F3; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.9m by 0.9 m, depth 31 cm.

Probable Grave 102
F6; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 2.6m by 1.2 m, depth 46 cm; cut by robber-pit 88 and Grave 85, uncertain relationship with Grave 50.

Ditch 103
Cl-B11; U-section with uniform brown sandy-loam filling; depth 5-15 cm; cut by Ditch 347. Observed to continue in quarry to at least 40m W of W edge of excavation.

Finds:
(A).  Indeterminate prehistoric potsherd (not illus.).
(B).  Potsherd, fabric 1a, sooted interior; probably medieval; (not illus.).

Possible Grave 104
D2; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.8m by 0.7 m, depth 29 cm; aligned N-S unlike rest, but filling similar to normal grave filling.

Possible Grave 105
C2; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 0.95m by 0.55 m, depth 8 cm; stony fill.

Grave 106 (Figs 82 and 331)
E5; female; teeth and bones indicate young adult; depth 15 cm; mass of organic material, K (charcoal and fabric) around B/C, D, E and G/H; lying over Grave 192.

Grave-goods:
A.  Ae wire ring of expanding type made from rolled sheet.
B/C.  Fourteen beads, not distinguishable on plan from G/H beads.
   i.  Thirteen amber
   ii.  One greenish-yellow.
D.  Ae annular brooch, with punched decoration; overlapping ends once secured by brooch pin through hole and perhaps also soldered.
E.  Fragment iron blade, c. 10mm wide in mass of textile (not illus.). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
(F).  Fossil sponge, probably erratic in gravel (not illus.).
Two beads, not distinguishable on plan from B/C beads.

One greenish-yellow

One red and yellow.

Ae annular brooch of hammered sheet; slight punched decoration, remains of iron pin; found beneath skull. Textile with pin, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Fifteen beads found beneath skull:

Eight amber

One white and blue

One blue

One colourless, translucent

One greenish-yellow, cf. G/Hi (not illus.)

One red and yellow, cf. G/Hi (not illus.).

Organic mass containing minute scraps of Ae sheet in addition to separately recorded objects B/C, D, E and G/H (not illus.).

Iron knife, horn handle.

Two Ae sheet plates; the holes coincide if placed together; perhaps a binding or repair.

Large iron pin, broken, pieces found in two separate places; head has broken hole.

Tinned gunmetal (i) and bronze (ii) sheet wrist-clasps; Hines Form B7. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

Pair of Ae annular brooches, punched decoration; remains of iron pin of D with textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Ninety-five beads:

Fifty-six amber

Nine red

Eleven yellowish-green

Five white
One light blue
vi. One colourless, translucent
vii. Six white and blue viii. Four red and yellow
ix. Two red, white and yellow.
L. Triangular sectioned sheet silver object with punched decoration, probably a bead. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section VI, microfiche.

M, P. Pair of Ae annular brooches, incised and punched decoration. Textile on M, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

N/Oi-xii. Eighty-two beads plus fragments:
i. Fifty-eight amber
ii. Four yellow
iii. Two green
iv. Two colourless, translucent, from segmented bead(s)
v. One red
vi. Two blue, translucent
vii. Four white and blue viii. Two blue, red and ?green, ?green losing colour and disintegrating ix. Three yellow and red
x. One brown
xi. One yellowish-green, translucent, with opaque white and red.
xii. Two colourless, translucent.

R. Iron ring.
Si. Fragment of iron ring.
Sii. Parts of Ae sheet plates with Ae rivets and punched decoration on one face; wood associated; some fragments suggest this may have been one folded sheet, perhaps a repair strip from rim of wooden bowl.

T. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
Ui-ii. Ae wrist-clasp with repoussé decoration; eye-plate, ii, has bar with cast decoration; ?hook-plate, i, has been of hammered sheet, probably a repair. Hines Form B13a.

Uiii-iv. Two Ae sheet tag-ends with Ae rivets and remains of leather.
Vi-ii. Pair of Ae girdle-hangers with incised decoration on stem and punching around edges at distal end.
Viii. Part of pierced Ae loop which would have united i and ii.
Viv. Remains of upper parts of three iron keys with remains of iron ring through loops.

Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

X. Iron key. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Y. Iron knife.
Zi. Ring of twisted iron.
Zii. Iron key with small iron ring through loop.

AAi. Folded Ae sheet with single rivet hole only, therefore probably not a repair strip from a wooden bowl.

AAii. Folded Ae sheet with single rivet-hole as AA1, but side with hole only 15 mm long, other side considerably longer (not illus.).

AAiii. Part of Ae sheet strip with punched decoration.

AAiv. Part of Ae sheet strip.

?Pit 109
C2; pit with reddish-brown sand and gravel filling, perhaps natural; 1.8 m by 0.7 m, depth c. 30 cm.

Graves 110 (Figs 84 and 335)
D4/5; two graves; larger grave, depth 12 cm, over the smaller grave depth 20 cm. Bones recorded in lower only, indicate adult, possibly female.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife fragment from upper grave.
(B). Flint ?flake (lost, not illus.).

Possible Grave 111
C4; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.2 m by 0.55 m, depth 14 cm.

Grave 112 (Figs 85 and 335)
E5; sex unknown; bones indicate probable adult; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Burnt fragment of Ae brooch bow.
B. Burnt fragment of Ae cruciform brooch, base of bow and top of foot with remains of lappet; punched decoration.
E. Iron staple with wood adhering.
Fi. Bent Ae sheet strip.
Fii-iii. Two fragments of Ae strip both with faintly incised lines on one face.
G. Iron knife.
H. Part of iron buckle. Textile.
ii. Bent Ae strip; wood associated.
Grave 112 (Fig. 85)
Scale: 1:20

- Iii. Ae rivet of rolled sheet; wood associated.
- Ji. Fragments of Ae sheet, wood associated (not illus.).
- Jii. Ae rivet of rolled sheet cf. Iii; wood associated (not illus.).
- K. Fragment of Ae sheet with iron rivet.
- Li. Ae sheet strip with faint punched decoration.
- Lii. Fragment of Ae sheet strip with Ae rivet.
- M. Fragment of iron nail or rivet encased in wood (not illus.).

Grave 113 (Fig. 86)
D/E; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 31 cm; cut by Grave or robber-pit 114 which was distinguished by distinct gravelly fill and was dug to same depth.

Possible Grave 114 (Figs 86 and 335)
D/E; possible female child; no bones recorded; depth 31 cm; however this may possibly be a robber-pit cut into Grave 113. It is not known whether brooches A-C were found at the base of the feature or in the filling.

Grave-goods:

- A. Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration.
- B. Ae annular brooch with remains of iron pin.
I. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 116 (Figs 88 and 336)
F5; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragment of iron strip.
B. Probable large iron pin with remains of iron ring through loop in head. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Fragment of iron strip.
D. Potsherd from same vessel as 116.E (q.v.); (not illus.).
E. Seven Potsherds, one rim, rest body; fabric 1a.
(F). Potsherd, rim; fabric 1c.

Grave 117 (Figs 89 and 337)
F7; male; no bones recorded; depth 22 cm; cut by Post-hole 119 and cuts Grave 120.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton Fl.
B. Pot, one-third surviving, mostly rim and body; fabric 1b; external sooting on base and near rim, internal round rim; found in upper filling.

Grave 118 (Figs 90 and 337)
F6; perhaps infant; no bones recorded; depth 7 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, one-third surviving; fabric 1c.

Post-hole 119 (Fig. 89)
F7; depth 29 cm; burnt gravel with charcoal in filling; cuts Grave 117.
Grave 120
F6; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 2.5m by 0.95 m, depth 34 cm; cut by Grave 117, uncertain relationship with Ditch 121.

Ditch 121
F5/6; ?penannular; U-sectioned; max depth 9 cm; fades out to negligible depth at E end, perhaps enclosing Grave 157; apparent terminal adjacent to Cremation Pit 175 but relationship unknown; uncertain relationship with Grave 120.

Post-hole 122
C4; diam. 30-40 cm, depth 11 cm.

Post-hole 123
F7; diam. c. 30 cm, depth 26 cm.

Grave 124 (Figs 91 and 337)
E8/9, possible female; young adult skull has male characteristics; depth 33 cm; probably cuts Grave 184.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae ring, worn, traces of moulded decoration. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
B. Iron knife, probable wood handle and leather sheath.
Bii-iii. Parts of two iron keys.
D. Potsherds, quarter surviving, base (c. 15 cm diameter) and body, no rim; fabric Ic; sooting on exterior of some body sherds; scattered over surface of filling (not illus.).

Grave 125 (Figs 92 and 337)
D6, sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 19 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
(B). One flint blade (not illus.).

Grave 126 (Figs 93 and 338)
D6/7; male; teeth under shield boss Ai indicate younger mature; depth 36 cm; lines of flints along N and S edge at base of grave in E half.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron shield-boss with five disc-headed rivets; a washer survives on inner end of one rivet.
Aii. Iron shield-grip with remains of wood and leather binding. See Chapter 3, Section VI.
B. Iron spearhead; Swanton Cl.
C. Gunmetal sheet eye-plate of wrist-clasp with scar on front for bar; Hines Form B13a. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
Cii. Ae sheet repair strip for wooden bowl, with Ae rolled sheet rivet.
Ciii. Fragment Ae sheet with Ae rolled sheet rivet.
D. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 127 (Figs 94 and 338)
E8; female; teeth near brooch I indicate older sub-adult or young adult; depth 49 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.

Figure 95  Grave 128. Scale 1:20
Grave-goods:
(Ai). Indeterminate prehistoric potsherd in upper filling.
Aii. Iron fragment in upper filling.
B. Tang of iron knife, horn handle.
Cl-ii. Two Ae sheet strips, tag-end plates; iron rivet in Cl.
D, I. Pair Ae annular brooches; incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pins. Textile on I, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
E. Pot, two-thirds surviving; fabric Ic, found smashed; incised linear decoration with stab marks (finger nail?).
F, L. F is decorated Ae bar which exactly fits scar on Ae sheet eye-plate of wrist-clasp (L), 40 cm apart; punched decoration on L. Hines Form B13a.
G. White and blue bead.
H. Iron ring.
J. Eleven potsherds, fabric II; some sooting on interior surfaces; (not illus.).
K. Pot, less than half surviving; fabric Ib; sooted interior with patches on exterior.
M. Broken iron rod.
(Ni). Pot, quarter surviving, mostly body and shoulder, some rim, diameter c. 13 cm at shoulder; fabric II; grooved linear decoration with two varieties of stamp, Ik and one uncategorised.
Nii. Two potsherds; fabric Ic; linear decoration with stamps VIIIc; found in filling.
Niii. Potsherd, linear decoration; part of 127 E (q.v.); found in filling; (not illus.).
Niv. Two potsherds, one rim, one body; part of 127 K (q.v.); found in filling; (not illus.).

Grave 128 (Figs 95 and 339)
F8; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 38; cut by Grave 51.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, two-thirds surviving, mostly rim and body; fabric VI.

Grave 129 (Figs 96 and 339-40)
E5/6; male and female; possibly two contemporary burials, teeth recorded for female, young adult; depth 27 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae cruciform brooch, Aberg Group IV; punched decoration, two or three motifs; side-knobs cast with head-plate; head-plate and foot damaged in antiquity. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VII.
B. Ae annular brooch, incised decoration; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Civ. Twenty beads:
i. Fifteen amber
ii. Two yellow
iii. One green
iv. One colourless, translucent and opaque yellow, latter appears encased in translucent glass
v. One turquoise.
E. Iron ferrule.
F. Iron spearhead; Swanton H3; remains of wood in socket are laterally grooved.
G. Iron knife.
H. Pot, smashed but almost all surviving; fabric Ib.
(Ji). Eleven potsherds, body and rim; fabric IV; found in filling (not illus.).
Jii. Potsherd, fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).

Possible Grave 130
E6/7; possible child; no bones recorded; 0.9 m by 0.5 m, depth 28 cm.

71
Grave-goods:
(A). Two potsherds, in filling; fabric 1a (not illus.).

Grave 131 (Figs 97 and 340)
E6; female; long bone fragment recovered; depth 22 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae cruciform brooch, Aberg Group IV; punched decoration, two motifs, side-knobs cast with head-plate.
B. Ae annular brooch, punched and incised decoration.
C. Ae annular brooch punched decoration.
(D). Ae sheet and iron fragments (not illus.).

Grave 133 (Figs 99 and 341-2)
D6; female; teeth immediately W of D and E indicate younger mature adult; depth 39 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron staple with wood.
Aii. Two fragments of Ae sheet, one with slight decoration.
Bi. Ae sheet repair strip from rim of wooden bowl; four rivets of rolled Ae sheet; wood surviving.
Bii-iii. Two Ae staples with wood attached (note that length of staple arm Bii 2×thickness of ‘bowl’ Bi).

Grave 132 (Figs 98 and 341)
D6; male; no bones recorded; depth 21 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton E2.
Bi. Iron knife, horn handle.
Bii. Fragment of iron rod.
Biv. Iron buckle. Textile.

D. Ae annular brooch with incised decoration.
E. Ae annular brooch with punched decoration; iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
F. Ae cruciform brooch; Aberg Group IV; side-knobs cast with head-plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
G. Amber bead; found directly under E.
Gii. Roman enamelled, leaded bronze, disc- brooch, used as pendant; found directly under E. See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V; microfiche.

Hi-vi. Eleven beads:

i. Two amber
ii. Four blue
iii. Two red
iv. One green
v. One blue, white and red, pitted condition
vi. One purple, segment.

li-ii, L. Ae wrist-clasps; Hines Form B13a.

J. Iron key with remains of iron ring through loop. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

K. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 134 (Figs 100 and 342-3)
F7; female; teeth and bones indicate sub-adult; depth 45 cm; cuts Post-hole 137.

Grave-goods:

A. Remains of Ae annular brooch; punched decoration.

B. Ae annular brooch; punched decoration.

C. Large iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

D. Iron knife, horn handle.

Ei. Iron ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Eii. Iron buckle and plate; leather over pin.

F, G. Two small iron keys, with remains of iron ring through loops. G found beneath D.

Hi. Parts of Ae sheet tag-end(s), do not join.

Hii. Parts of two Ae sheet tag-ends with iron rivets; one plate has incised decoration.

J. Four potsherds, grooved decoration with raised bosses; fabric Ia, burnt; found in filling.

Grave 135 (Fig. 343)
F7/8; sex unknown; no bones recorded, but fragment of burnt bone from filling; 2 m by 0.8 m, depth 56 cm.

Grave-goods:

(Ai). Eight potsherds, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

ii. Three potsherds, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).
iii. Potsherd, fabric IX, probably burnt; found in filling (not illus.).
(B). Pot, one-third surviving; fabric Ib; from base of grave.
(C). One flint flake (not illus.).

Grave 136 (Figs 101 and 343)
E6; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 14 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, three-quarters surviving, no base; fabric Ic.

Post-hole 137
F7; depth 29 cm; cut by Graves 85 and 134.

Context 138 (Fig. 343)
E1; find spot; knife A was resting on surface of natural gravel; no cut feature surviving.

Find:

Pit 139
F10; many flints in filling; 0.65 m by 1.5 m, depth 19 cm; cuts Slot 28 and Graves 147 and 155.

Grave 140 (Figs 102 and 343-4)
F10; female; bones indicate probable adult; depth 40 cm; rectangular area of dark soil in base of grave; cuts Graves 141 and 154, cut by Slot 28.

Grave-goods:
B, C, D. Large iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Ei. Ae annular brooch; punched decoration; remains of iron pin.
Eii-iii. Four beads:
ii. Three amber, one broken and rebored
iii. One yellow and red
Eiv. Potsherd, fabric Ib; sooting on both surfaces; from same vessel as 140 Qi (q.v.) (not illus.).
Fi-ii. Five beads:
i. Four amber (not illus.)
ii. One yellow and red.
G. Ae annular brooch, punched decoration; iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
H, J. Pair of Ae annular brooches with iron pins; incised decoration on two flat panels only on H. Textile on both, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
K. Organic material recorded (not illus.).
L. Part of iron ring.
M. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
O. Pot virtually complete; fabric Ia; finely incised linear decoration with stab marks (stamp?).
P. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ia; linear decoration with stamps Ia.
(Qi). Potsherd, basal; from same vessel as 140.Eiv (q.v.) (not illus.).
Qii. Two potsherds, basal and rim; part of 140.Ri (Ri). Pot. half surviving (including 140.Qii and 141.D); fabric Ib; sooting on exterior and towards rim on interior.

Rii. Potsherd, fabric Ia; sooted interior surface; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 141 (Figs 103 and 344)
F10; possibly female; bones indicate adult; depth 41 cm; cuts Grave 154; cut by Grave 140 and Slot 28.

Grave 141 (Fig. 103 Grave 141. Scale 1:20)

Grave-goods:
B. Iron knife.
C. Ae small-long brooch. Leeds cross pâtée derivative type Dii; punched decoration.
(D). Two potsherds, joining 140.Ri (q.v.); found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 142 (Figs 104 and 344)
F8; male; bones indicate adult, teeth recorded; depth 43 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron ferrule.
B. Iron spearhead, Swanton E2.

Grave 142 (Fig. 104 Grave 142. Scale 1:20)

Grave 146 (Figs 105 and 345)
F7; possibly female; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm; probably cuts Post-hole 435, cut by Post-hole 151.

Grave-goods:
A, B. Pair of tinned bronze disc brooches with punched decoration; iron pin. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche; textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Post-holes 143 and 144 (Fig. 107)
E6; depth 22 cm; related to Post-holes 164 and 165; these four are at the corners of Grave 148 (E6/7).

Post-hole 145 (Fig. 107)
E7; depth 29 cm; very dark grey stony fill with burnt flint and charcoal flecks; on north side of Grave 148 and possibly associated with Post-holes 143, 144, 164 and 165.

To be continued...
Grave 147 (Figs 106 and 345)
F9/10; sex unknown; bones indicate young adult, possibly male; depth 23 cm; cut by Slot 28 and Pit 139, Cremation 428 on surface; westernmost bone on grave plan is skull fragment.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.
(H). Fifteen potsherds, fabric Ib; heavy sooting on interior, slight on exterior; from some vessel as 28 Dii; found in filling (not illus.).
(J). Part of iron buckle in filling.

Grave 148 (Figs 107 and 345-6)
F6/7; male and female; possibly two contemporary burials; however, the position of the tweezers Di and buckle C, and the distribution of sherds B and G (which belong to pot Ei) suggest that a small female burial was cut into an existing male grave. This could also account for Post-hole 165 running into SE corner of grave unlike the other three post-holes; teeth recorded for both, and some skull fragments; both young adults; depth 65 cm; Post-holes 143, 144, 164 and 165 near corners of grave, Post-hole 145 possibly associated.

Grave-goods:
A. Bent Ae sheet, single small hole in corner of shorter side. Found in filling.
B. Potsherd, fabric Ia; sooted interior surface; found in filling (not illus.).
C. Remains of iron buckle and plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
D. Ae tweezers with remains of Ae wire suspension loop. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Dii. Ae tag-end; faint punched decoration on one plate and faceting on edge.
E. Pot, nearly complete but half of rim disintegrated; fabric II; grooved linear decoration with stamps Ih and VIa. Contained Eii.
Eii. Pale green glass cone-beaker, found inside Ei; opaque white horizontal relief trails below rim and opaque white marvered festoons on body; Harden Bifrons type Ci.
F. Iron spearhead; Scawton f.
G. Potsherd, from same vessel as 148 B (q.v.); found in filling (not illus.).
Hi-ii, Tinned gunmetal sheet wrist-clasps. Holes
II-ii. in Hii apparently rebored; hook-plate Iii repaired in antiquity. Hines Form B7. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

K. Ae small-long brooch. Leeds square-headed type Aii; damaged in antiquity; punched decoration.

L. Ae small-long brooch. Leeds cross pattée derivative group C.

M. Large iron pin with remains of iron ring through hole in head. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

(Q). ?Earliest Neolithic potsherd found in filling; (Fig. 459). See Chapter 3, Section I.

Grave 149 (Figs 108 and 346)
D7; possible female child; no bones recorded; depth 8 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Six blue beads.

B. Pot, three-quarters surviving; fabric Ia; some exterior sooting.

Post-hole 150
F7; diam. 40 cm, depth 27 cm; flint packing.

Post-hole 151
F7; depth 23 cm; very dark grey filling with burnt flints; cuts Graves 146 and 152.

Grave 152 (Figs 109 and 347)
E7; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 33 cm; cut by Post-hole 151.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Ae sheet strips; Aii has iron rivet.

Aiii. Ae rivet of rolled sheet.

Bi. Ae sheet strip with faint incised decoration on one edge.

Bii. Ae sheet strip with Ae rivet of rolled sheet.

Biii. Ae strip with decoration at either end and iron rivet.

Biv. Two fragments of wood pierced by Ae rolled sheet rivets.

Ci. Ae strip with iron rivet, cf. Bii.

Cii. Ae strip.

Ciii. Iron staple with wood adhering.

D. Ae sheet with iron rivet.

F. Ten potsherds, rim; fabric le; from same vessel as 28.Di (not illus.).

Grave 153 (Figs 110 and 347-8)

D7; female; no bone recorded; depth 35 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Brass ring with a copper sulphide niello inlay. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

B. Iron knife, horn handle.

C. Decorated Ae buckle, two hollows on either side of loop may be casting flaws. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

D-E, Gi-ii. Gilded, cast Ae wrist-clasps; elaborate Style I decoration; gilding worn away from areas of higher relief. Hines Class C.

F, Hi. Pair of Ae small-long brooches. Leeds cross pattée derivative group E; punched decoration; catch-plate of F repaired by addition of riveted Ae sheet with iron rivet; both badly damaged in antiquity. Textile on F, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Giii-vi. Five beads:

iii. Two amber

iv. One yellow

v. One red

vi. One green.

Hii-iv. Three beads:

ii. One amber

iii. One yellow

iv. One turquoise, translucent.

I. Ae cruciform brooch with detachable knobs; inlay, probably niello, on head-plate; punched decoration; broken in antiquity. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section VI, microfiche.

Grave 154 (Figs 111 and 349)

F9/10; male; no bones recorded; depth 30 cm; area of organic stain, probably remains of shield; cut by Slot 28 and Graves 140 and 141.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron spearhead; Swanton E2.

B-C, F-G. Iron shield-studs with iron washers; embedded in wood (C and F not illus.).

D. Part of Hi.

E. Iron knife, possible horn handle.

Hi. Remains of iron shield-boss.

Hii. Iron shield-grip with wood and leather strapping.

Grave 155 (Figs 112 and 349)

F9/10; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 30 cm; rectangular area of dark soil at base; cut by Slot 28 and Pit 139.

Grave-goods:

(Ai). Potsherds, fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).

Bii. Two potsherds, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

(B). Two potsherds, indeterminate prehistoric; found in filling (not illus.)

Grave 156 (Figs 113 and 349)
E7; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm; uncertain relationship with possible Grave 166.

Grave-goods:
A. Decorated iron object of unknown function.
Bi-ii. Ae staples.
Ci. Iron knife.
Cii. Remains of iron buckle with Ae sheet plate with iron rivet.

Grave 157 (Figs 114 and 350)
E6; male; no bones recorded; depth 70 cm; rectangular area of dark soil on base, edged at SW by flints; perhaps enclosed by penannular Ditch 121; cuts Grave 163 and Cremation Pit 175.

Grave-goods:
A, E. Decorated Ae tweezers.
B. Iron spearheads; Swanton H2 or H3.
C-D, H-J. Gilded Ae belt-plates, elaborate Style I decoration; most gilding worn away from borders; each with four studs at back except H where larger fifth stud may be later addition but partly hidden by iron corrosion.
G. Bronze buckle with remains of Ae sheet buckle plate; pin probably tinned bronze. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche; textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
(Ki). Fragment of iron knife found close to A, E, C and D.
(Kii). Iron buckle and remains of Ae sheet buckle plate; found with K.
(L). One flint blade, found in filling (Fig. 459).

Grave 158 (Figs 115 and 350)
F10; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, three-quarters surviving; fabric Ia.

Possible Grave 159 (Fig. 124)
E8; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm; cuts Ditch 179, relationship with Grave 176 uncertain.

Grave 160 (Figs 116 and 351)
D7/8; female; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm; cuts Grave 403.

Grave-goods:
A. Part Ae cruciform brooch; Aberg Group IV; faint punched decoration; broken in antiquity.
B, C. Pair of Ae annular brooches with incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pins; C broken in half and repaired with two Ae sheet patches on reverse.

Post-hole 161
F10; diam. c. 20 cm, depth 27 cm.

Possible Grave 162
F10; possible child; no bones recorded; .60 cm by 50 cm, depth 4 cm.

Probable Grave 166
E6/7; possible child; no bones recorded; 1 m by 0.7 cm, depth 12 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 156.

Grave 167 (Figs 118 and 351)
E7; probable male; no bones recorded; depth 14 cm; cut by Grave 178.

Grave-goods:
A. Socket of iron spearhead.
B. Iron knife, horn handle.
C. Iron buckle.

Grave 163 (Figs 117 and 351)
E6; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 33 cm; cut by Grave 157.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Pot, three-quarters surviving but base disintegrated; fabric II; decorated (?) with random groups of 4 rectangular impressions; sooted exterior.
Aii. Potsherd; fabric Ia; incised line or groove (decoration?); interior surface sooted (not illus.).

Post-holes 164 and 165 (Fig. 107)
E7; depths 20 cm and 28 cm; related to Post-holes 143 and 144; these four are at the corners of Grave 148 (E6/7) but 165 runs into SE corner of grave unlike the others and may have been cut by an inserted female burial.
Grave 168 (Figs 119 and 352)
E6/7; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, almost complete, fabric Ib.

Grave 169 (Figs 120 and 352)
E7; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 26 cm; uncertain relationship with possible Grave 171.

Grave-good:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton I.

Possible Grave 171 (Fig. 120)
E7; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 14 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 169.

Pit 172
E7; 40cm by 65cm, depth 21cm.

Grave 170 (Figs 121 and 352)
E8; male; no bones recorded; depth 6 cm; irregular outline of S side suggests possibility of robbing.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ib; grooved decoration with circular impressed dots extending over base.

Grave 173 (Figs 122 and 352-3)
E7; female; bones and teeth indicate mature adult; depth 23 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 174.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae annular brooch; incised decoration; remains of iron pin. Textile.
B. Ae annular brooch; incised and punched decoration; ring opposite pin hole has broken and been repaired by overlapping and ?soldering, pin-hole has been rebored. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Remains of Ae annular brooch; two pair of incised lines, remains of iron pin.
D. Ae sheet pendant, perhaps a spangle from a large pin reused as part of a necklace.
Dii. Small Ae ring, perhaps part of necklace.
Dii-xi. Sixteen beads:
iii. Four amber
iv. Two white
v. Four blue
vi. One white and purple
vii. One yellow and green

viii. One colourless, translucent, part of segmented ix. One blue
x. One blue
xi. One red.

E, Fi-ii. Ae sheet wrist-clasps; repoussé and punched decoration. Hines Form B7.

Gi. Iron ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Gii. Iron knife, possible horn handle.

Giii. Iron key fragment.

Giv. Six small iron rod fragments, perhaps part of Giii (not illus.).

Grave 174 (Figs 123 and 353)

D7; sex unknown; bones indicate sub-adult or adult; depth 28 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 173.

Grave-good:

A. Iron buckle.

Cremation Pit 175

E5/6; min. 0.5 m by 0.45 m, depth 18 cm; filling containing much cremated cow bone and some cremated sub-adult or adult human bone; uncertain relationship with ıpenannular Ditch 121, cut by Grave 157.

Grave 176 (Figs 124 and 353)

E8; sex unknown; bones indicate adult, possibly male; depth 30 cm; cuts Ditch 179; uncertain relationships with possible Grave 159 and Grave 182.

Grave-goods:

Ai. Iron knife, horn handle.

Aii. Iron buckle.

(B). Potsherd, fabric Ic; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 177 (Figs 125 and 353-4)

E8; probable female; no bones recorded; depth 35 cm; cuts Grave 183; cut by Grave 182; uncertain relationship with 204 which may be E end of an exceptionally long Grave (Grave 177 excavated 1974, 204 excavated 1975); pot J,

found in rounded projection at SW corner of grave, may be a separate insertion, and cut by Grave 177.

Grave-goods:
Ai-iii. Two pieces of Ae sheet and fragment of wood with rolled Ae sheet rivet, repair strip from rim of wooden bowl.
B. Fragment of Ae sheet strip with iron rivet.
C. Fragment of iron knife blade.
Di-v. Eight beads:
i. Four amber
ii. One white and blue
iii. One white, blue and red iv. One red and white with very thin dark green trail
v. One yellow and red.
E. Iron rod fragment.
F. Iron knife, horn handle.
G. Fragment of Roman tile (not illus.).
(Hi). Potsherds, rim and body; fabric 1a.
Hii. Potsherds, probably same vessel as J.
Hiii. Four potsherds; fabric 1c; grooved linear decoration on one sherd; found in fill.
J. Pot, two-third surviving; fabric 1a; sooting patches on both surfaces; one sherd (Hi), probably from this pot, found in grave filling.

Grave 178 (Figs 126 and 354)
F7; probable male; bones, including skull fragment at west end indicate probable adult; depth 34 cm; rectangular area of dark soil at base of grave with small projection to S, long sides of rectangle edged with flints; cuts Grave 167.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Fragments of Ae sheet with iron rivet.
C. Socked iron arrowhead.
D. Ae rivet.
E. Iron nail or rivet embedded in wood.
F. Ae ring.
Gi. Small Ae sheet strip with iron rivet.
Gii. Fragment iron rod, rectangular section (not illus.).
Ji-ii. Two rectangular Ae sheet plates with punched decoration; iron rivets; wood associated.
L. Iron buckle.

M. Pot, two-thirds surviving; fabric 1c; lightly incised line (not decoration) in one area near base.

Ditch 179
E7/8; curved; max. depth 18 cm; fades out to negligible depth to N; cut by possible Grave 159 and Grave 176.

Possible Grave 180
F7/8; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.15 m by 0.75 m, depth 25 cm; cut by Post-hole 181.

Post-hole 181
F8; diam. 40 cm, depth 20 cm; filling includes ‘black’ sand; cuts possible Grave 180.

Grave 182 (Figs 127 and 355)
E8; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 48 cm; cuts Grave 177 (204); uncertain relationship with Grave 176.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.
B. Iron buckle with Ae sheet buckle plate with Ae rivet. Textile.

Grave 183 (Figs 128 and 355)
E8; male; bone recorded; depth 57 cm; cuts Grave 184, cut by Grave 177 (204).

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Ae sheet tag-end with Ae rivet; punched decoration on ends of both plates.
B. Iron ferrule.
Di. Iron shield-boss, most of flange missing; one disc-headed iron rivet survives; wood also on dome.
Dii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type, with iron rivet.

Grave 184 (Figs 129 and 355-6)
E8; possible male; no bones recorded; depth 49 cm; probably cut by Grave 124 and cut by Grave 183.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron knife, horn handle.
Aii. Iron purse mount with remains of iron

buckle and Ae buckle plate, embedded in mass of textile and leather with rows of punched decoration, probably remains of purse.

C. Iron nail.

Context 185 (Figs 272 and 440)
E9; group of objects located by metal-detector after 1974 excavation, in position defined in 1975 as in upper filling of Grave 386; probably from a shallow grave which cut 386. Material described and illustrated under 386.

Context 186
G11; area of machined disturbance near N edge of Ring-ditch 38.

Finds:
(A). Potsherd, fabric Ic (not illus.).
(B). Two flint blades and two flakes (not illus.).

Post-hole 187
E7; at W end of Grave 170; diam. 22-25 cm, depth not recorded.

Post-hole 188
E7; at E end of Grave 152; diam. 20-25 cm, depth not recorded.

Grave 189 (Fig. 356)
D4; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.4 m by 0.7 m, depth 7 cm.

Grave-goods:
(A). Potsherd, rim; fabric II.
(B). Flint blade (not illus.).

Grave 190 (Figs 130 and 356)
D5; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, almost complete except part of base missing; fabric II; sooting on exterior.

Post-hole 191
F9; diam. c. 40 cm, depth 21 cm.

Grave 192 (Figs 131 and 356)
E5; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 29 cm; lying below Grave 106.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.

Post-hole 198 (Fig. 251)
D10; depth 26 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 362.

Post-hole 199
D10; 45 cm by 55 cm, depth 30 cm.

Grave 200 (Figs 132 and 356-8)
F9; sex unknown; bones indicate young or mature adult male; depth 70 cm; rectangular area of dark soil at base of grave, filling contained much burnt flint and reddened soil; cut by Grave 54.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Remains of sheet Ae lugged cauldron with iron handle, found on and around Aii and iii). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Aii. Ae sheet bowl with beaded rim.
Aiii. Wooden bowl or liner found inside Aii.
B. Ae bound small wooden bucket with twelve staves, each recessed near to bottom to take wooden base (not surviving); punched decoration; Ae handle and rivets.
D. Iron knife, possible horn handle, blade covered with corrosion and mineralised organic material including textile and wood.
(E). Neolithic flint chisel, found in filling (Fig. 459).

Probable Grave 201
H10/11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 35 cm; cut by quarry.

Grave 202 (Figs 133 and 359)
G10; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 19 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 7.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, three-quarters surviving; fabric Ia; some sooting on both surfaces.

B. Iron knife, horn handle.

Post-hole 203

E8; 30 cm by 20 cm, depth 15 cm.

Context 204 (Fig 125)

E8; possibly the E end of Grave 177 or a separate grave, see 177.

Grave 205 (Figs 134 and 359)

E10; possible child; teeth near A indicate juvenile or younger sub-adult; depth 15 cm.

Grave-good:

A. Amber bead.

Grave 206 (Figs 135 and 359)

F10; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 34 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 36.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, two-thirds surviving but badly shattered; fabric II.

(B). Two flint ?flakes (lost, not illus.).

Grave 207 (Figs 136 and 359)

D7, female; teeth in area of beads F indicate older juvenile or younger sub-adult; depth 17 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Twenty potsherds, basal and body; fabric Ia (not illus.).

B, E. Decorated pair of Ae annular brooches; remains of iron pins. Textile.

C. Tinned bronze sheet pendant on necklace. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

Di. Tinned bronze sheet with incised decoration and rough central hole; worn and scratched on upper surface, pendant on necklace. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

Dii. Colourless bead.

Diii. Fragment of Ae sheet, thinner than C (not illus.).

Fi-v. Eleven beads:
  i. Three amber
  ii. One colourless
  iii. Four yellow
  iv. One green
  v. Two white.

Grave 208 (Figs 137 and 360/1)
H10; female; no bones recorded; depth 32 cm; coffin-shaped area of dark soil in base of grave, edged on long sides with flints, single flint at W end.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, almost complete; fabric Ia; incised linear decoration with ten raised bosses and stamps XIXa.

B, C. Decorated pair of Ae annular brooches; remains of iron pins. Textile, see Chapter 3 Section VI.

Di. Ae cruciform brooch with detachable side-knobs; Aberg Group IV. Punched decoration, three motifs used; traces of gilding. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Dii. Ae wrist-clasp hook-plate of Hines Type B8, paired with Diii. Ae wrist-clasp eye-plate of Hines Type B13b.

Ei-xii. Thirty-four beads:
  i. Three amber
  ii. One blue, translucent
  iii. Two blue
  iv. Three white and blue
  v. Three red
  vi. Two purple
  vii. Five yellow viii. Two yellow and green

ix. Two yellow, green and red
x. Two green, red and yellow xi. Two yellow, translucent xii. Seven green.
F. Ae ring.
G. Iron knife, horn handle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
H. Pot, two-thirds surviving; fabric 1a; sooty patches on both surfaces.
Ji-ii. Ae wrist-clasp, punched decoration; Hines Form 18b.
(K). Flint blade, found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 209 (Figs 138 and 361-2)
G10/11; female; no bones recorded; depth 46 cm.

Grave-goods:
A, C. Pair of (unidentified) metal annular brooches with incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pin on C. Metal analysis of A, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche; textile on C, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Bi. Ae cruciform brooch with detachable side-knobs, one missing, the remaining side-knobs secured by two Ae rivets with silver sheet caps; silver wire in groove above animal head; punched decoration, two motifs; Aberg Group IV. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Bi-ii. Thirty-eight beads:
i. Eighteen amber
ii. One blue and white
iii. One green and white
iv. Three red
v. One green
vi. Five yellow
vii. Four turquoise, translucent

Fi-ii. Two yellow and green
ix. One white, green and red
x. One white and green, fragmentary (not illus.)
xi. One crystal.
Ei-ii, Fi-ii. Two pairs of wrist-clasps; E, unidentified metal with possible punched decoration, fragmentary (not illus.); F, tinned bronze. Probably Hines Type B13a. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

Gi. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
Gi-ii. Iron ring.
Gi-iii. Probable iron key with remains of iron suspension ring; remains of ?leather (not illus.) on rod.

H. Iron fragment (not illus.).
(K). One flint flake, in filling (not illus.).

Ring-ditch 210 (Fig. 363)
F/G12; depth 12-15 cm; cuts Grave 218, cut by Graves 220 and 238, encloses Grave 227.

Finds:
(Ai). Twenty potsherds, rim and body; fabric 1b; sooting on interior surface.
(Aii). Fragment of burnt glass (not illus.).
(B). Ten potsherds (c. ten + crumbs), fabric IV (not illus.).
(K). Burnt soil, burnt flint and cremated sub-adult or adult human bone recovered from filling.

Graves 211 and 212 (Figs 139 and 363-4)
Grave 211 E11; male; teeth N of 212.Ai indicate sub-adult; depth 35 cm; cuts Grave 212 and Pit 226, uncertain relationship with Grave 213. All objects recorded under Grave 212 apart from 212.K were really part of the 211 burial though this was not recognised in the field. The original numbering has been retained but the material numbered 211 and 212 is described here as the contents of a single grave (apart from 212.K). Grave 212 is described below. Cow or horse tooth found immediately north of shield-boss 212.A.

Grave-goods:

211A. Iron spearhead, ^Swanton E1 or E2.
211Bi. Iron knife.
Bii. Part of iron buckle.
212Ai. Iron shield-boss, iron disc-headed studs; impressions of ?grass on dome.
Aii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type, one iron rivet survives.
212Bi-ii, Gi-ii. Iron shield studs.
(212C). Fragments of animal tooth, indeterminate (not illus.).
212D. Iron buckle.
212E. Iron knife, horn handle.

212F. Iron buckle and plate; plate enclosed remains of possible leather. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 212 (Figs 139 and 364)
E10/11; sex unknown; bones indicate probable adult; depth 38 cm; cuts Grave 251, cut by Grave 211. The grave-goods illustrated on Figure 364 as from this grave were really from Grave 211 (except 212.K) and are described above, but original numbering was retained.

Grave-goods:
K. Potsherds, part of 251.K and described there.

Grave 213 (Figs 140 and 364)
E11; sex unknown; stains of leg bones recorded; depth 27 cm; cut by Grave 252, uncertain relationship with Grave 211.
Grave-goods:
(A). Potsherd; fabric IV; grooved decoration with stamp 1a; found in filling.
(B). One flint blade in filling (not illus.).

Grave 214 (Figs 141 and 364)
D11; possibly female; no bones recorded; depth 19 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 361.

Grave 215 (Figs 142 and 365)
D12; male; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Gunmetal square-headed brooch, Leeds Bi, Hines Group XVI, very old and broken when buried, lobes of foot and one corner of head plate missing and broken edges smoothed. Probably gilded; upper corners of head-plate silvered. Found on surface of grave during machining, probably derived from an unrecorded grave as no evidence for the disturbance of this grave was noted. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
B. Ae girdle-hanger, punched and incised decoration, lower part disintegrated; remains of iron suspension ring.

Grave-goods:
A. Small Ae Romano-British terret of protected-loop type, with an iron stem within an Ae guard; an early Roman type. Found on surface of grave during machining.
B. Possible iron buckle loop, in upper filling towards E end.
C. Iron spearhead, Swanton G2.
D. One green bead:
E. Iron knife, horn handle.
F. Iron shield-boss, small-headed iron rivets.
Fii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type with slight traces of very narrow binding.
Gi-ii. Four iron shield studs; green stain on back of Gii, suggests presence of Ae washer. Hi has iron washer diam. 8 mm (not shown on illus.) (Only two illus.).
J. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
(K). Three potsherds, basal and body; fabric III; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 216 (Figs 143 and 366)
D12; female; teeth recorded; apparently two graves of uncertain relationship; depth of larger max. 15 cm; depth of small 21 cm. A and B (a pair of annular brooches) were found close to surface, while rest of grave-goods and teeth were found near base of smaller, deeper grave.

Grave-goods:
A, B. Decorated pair of Ae annular brooches; incised, notched and punched decoration.
D. Eight potsherds, basal and body; fabric Ia; sooting on most interior surfaces (not illus.).
E. Possible iron buckle fragment.
F. Iron buckle.
G. Iron knife, horn handle.
H. Fragment of iron rod.
Ji-ix. Twenty bead:
i. Three amber
ii. Two red and white
iii. Two white and red
iv. Two white, blue and red
v. Two white and blue
vi. One white and blue, blue is cracking up and may be the same type as vii
vii. Two white with interlace of missing second colour (possibly blue as vi) viii. Two red, yellow and black ix. One blue, white and red
x. Three yellow
K. Fragments of Ae sheet (not illus.).

Li-ii. Fragments of Ae sheet, possibly tag-ends.
M. Fragment of Ae sheet, perhaps eye of wrist-clasp.
(N). Potsherd, fabric III; possibly burnt; found in filling (not illus.).
(O). Flint blade (not illus.).

Context 217-see Grave 227.

Grave 218 (Figs 144 and 367-8)
F11/12-G11/12; male; bones and teeth recorded; teeth indicate older mature adult; depth 36 cm; cut by Grave 217/227 and circular Ditch 210. Potsherds 218/227i and ii found in muddled filling of graves.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead, Swanton F2. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VII. A ferrule, perhaps associated with this spear was found in Grave 227(B).
B. Iron sword with Ae pommel, pattern welded blade, horn handle, wood scabbard, patch of leather outside near point. Tang encased in remains of horn handle. End is hammered over. Immediately below guard, tang is covered by wood with grain aligned at right angles to metal. Wood is separated from horn by iron washer. The blade, pattern welding visible in X-radiographs, is almost entirely covered in remains of scabbard which ends in a straight line just below shoulder. Above line are slight traces of wood with grain set transversely to blade. Midway along blade are two projections, now rust, perhaps remains of fittings for sword belt. Full report, by Wardley and Gilmour, Chapter 3, Section IV, microfiche.
C. Iron shield-boss, four small-headed iron rivets.
Cii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type, with wood attached. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Di. Iron fittings from wooden bucket, includes 227.D. Flat iron rim-band clamped over the upper edge of the wooden staves by iron channelling. The rim-band was fastened to the staves by two opposing riveted clips and by the two handle attachments. The iron handle had been repaired in antiquity. The rim-bands and the four body loops from the body were found slumped in the grave so that no idea of the original height could be obtained. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Dii, E. Three and two iron rivets with washers set in wood.

F. Decorated Ae strip.

Gi. Ae buckle and decorated plate; plate had seven Ae rivets (one illus.).

Gii. Iron knife, horn handle.

Giii. Fragments of gold leaf recovered from organic mass (not illus.).

(H). Six potsherds, fabric Ib; some sooting on interior surfaces; round in filling; from same vessel as 218/227.i and 227.Ci (not illus.).

(J). Three flint blades (not illus.).

(K). One blue bead.

(218/227i). Thirteen potsherds from same vessel as 218II (q.v.); found in filling of Graves 218/227 (not illus.).

(218/227ii). Four potsherds, fabric Ia; found in filling of Graves 218/227 (not illus.).

Grave 219
F12; sex unknown; skull and long bones indicate adult; 1.35 m by 0.75 m, depth c. 5 cm.

Grave 220 (Figs 145 and 369)
G12; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm; cuts circular Ditch 210; profile suggests that this may be two superimposed graves.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife broken, parts found with B.
B. Part of iron buckle.

Grave 221 (Figs 146 and 369)
F12/13; female; no bones recorded; depth 31 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Decorated Ae annular brooch, punched and incised decorated; remains of iron pin.
B. Decorated Ae annular brooch, not a pair of A; made from strip with ends overlapped and pierced to take iron pin; punched and incised decoration. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Large iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Ei-ii. Iron key, square-sectioned shank. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

G. Large iron ring with possible remains of suspension ‘strap’.
H. Iron knife.

(J). Potsherd, fabric Ia, probably burnt; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 222 (Figs 147 and 370)
F11; sex unknown; teeth indicate young adult; infant or juvenile cremated bone from pot Ai and filling; depth 43 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, shattered and less than half surviving, no rim sherds; fabric Ia; some sooting on exterior.
   In top filling, possibly disturbed by machining. (not illus.)

B. Four iron rivets set in ?wood, from inside pot Ai. In top filling, possibly disturbed by machining (one illus.).

C. Iron knife, with remains of leather sheath, and horn handle.

(Ci). Potsherd, fabric Ia, burnt, found in filling (not illus.).

(Cii). Potsherd, fabric Ia, probably burnt; found in filling (not illus.).

D. Iron hook, with two iron rivets. Found 20cm below surface.

E. Iron buckle.

F. Iron spearhead, Swanton Fl; with string across tip on one face.

Pit 226 (Fig. 139)
E11; depth 11 cm; charcoal-flecked fill; cut by Grave 211.

Grave 227 (Figs 150 and 367)
F12; context 217 proved to be W end of Grave 227; objects from 217 were not planned; their original numbers have been retained. Sex unknown, no bones recorded; depth 40 cm; cuts Grave 218, enclosed by circular Ditch 210.

Grave-goods:

217 (A). Silver wire ring of expanding type.
217 (B). One white and blue bead.
217 (C). Potsherd, fabric Ia (not illus.).
227A. Pot, one-third surviving; fabric Ia; some sooting on exterior and near rim on interior.
(B). Iron ferrule, perhaps derived from Grave 218.

(Ci). Two potsherds, part of 227A; found in filling (not illus.).

(D). Part of 218Di iron bucket (Fig. 368).

Grave 225 (Figs 149 and 370)
F/G13; male; no bones recorded; depth 45 cm; part of north side removed by quarrying; cuts Grave 223.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron knife, horn handle.

Bi. Iron shield-boss; five iron disc-headed rivets.

Bii. Iron shield-grip with remains of leather binding.

B. Iron buckle.

(C). One red bead found at W end of grave.

Grave 229 (Figs 152 and 370)
F13; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 39 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Part of iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 230 (Figs 153 and 370)
F11; probable child; no bones recorded; depth unrecorded.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, two-thirds surviving but base interior disintegrated; fabric Ia; extensive sooting on interior, slight on exterior.

Grave 231 (Figs 154 and 371)
F13; female; bones recorded; depth 34 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Ae small-long brooch, Leeds trefoil group A;

Grave 232
F14; sex unknown; 1.75 m by 0.70 m, depth not recorded; cuts Graves 236 and 249.

Grave 233 (Figs 155 and 372)
F12; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 40 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Iron buckle.

B. Iron knife, with remains of leather sheath.

(C). Potsherd, grooved decoration with stamp Ia; fabric III; found in filling.
Cii. Potsherd; fabric IV; linear decoration (not illus.).
Ciii. Potsherd, basal; fabric IV; burnt (not illus.).
(D). Fragment of iron buckle pin; found in filling.
(E). Lump of fused green glass, 4×4×1 cm, found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 234 (Figs 156 and 372)
F14; sex unknown; bones recorded; depth 15 cm; cuts Grave 249; cut by Grave 236.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron knife.
Aii. Iron knife, horn handle.
B. Iron knife.
C. Part of iron buckle.

Grave 235 (Figs 157 and 372)
F13/14; sex unknown; bone and tooth indicate younger mature adult; depth 20 cm; cuts Grave 237.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron fragments found in filling (not illus.).
B. Iron knife.
C. Iron buckle.
D. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
(E). Iron strip, from filling.

Grave 236 (Figs 158 and 372)
F14; possible child; infant teeth recorded from pot A; depth 17 cm; cuts Graves 234 and 249, cut by Grave 232.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, two-thirds surviving; fabric III; sooting patches on exterior.

Grave 237
F14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.7 m by 0.9 m, depth 20 cm; cut by Grave 235.
Grave 238 (Figs 159 and 373-5)
F12; male and female; teeth of older sub-adult or young adult immediately W of Mi-vi; depth on south side 38 cm, and on north side 50 cm; there is a possibility that an earlier male grave was disturbed by the insertion of a female burial, perhaps aligned with head to SE; cuts circular Ditch 210.

Grave-goods:
A. Potsherd, rim; fabric VI.
B. Iron spearhead, Swanton E1 or F1; Q may belong but does not join.
C. Iron fittings from wooden bucket. Flat iron rim-band held against upper edge of the wooden staves by two opposing small headed nails and two opposing handle attachments each fastened by two large headed nails. Plain handle of two strands of iron. The rim-band and the three body hoops were found slumped in the grave so that no estimate of original height could be made.
D. Iron fittings from wooden tub. Flat iron rim-band clamped to upper edge of wooden staves by iron channelling. The rim-band was fastened to the staves by two opposing riveted clips and by the two handle attachments. Each handle attachment held a solid iron ring. The rim-band and four body hoops were slumped in the bottom of the grave so the original height could not be determined. The two lower hoops were apparently touching.

Ei. Ae rivet.
Eii. Fragments of gold leaf in organic material with fragments of ?wood (not illus.). Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section VI, microfiche.
F. Iron knife, horn handle; non-joining fragment (not illus.) shows that blade was at least 17 mm longer.
G. Iron buckle and plate with Ae rivet (rivet not illus.).
H. Iron strip with end bent over enclosing wood fragments.
J. Iron key with remains of iron suspension ring.
K. Fragments of iron rod or nail, squarish section (not illus.).

Li-vi. Eleven beads:
i. One blue
ii. One turquoise, translucent
iii. Five white
iv. One yellow
v. One red
vi. Two red and white

Mi-vi. Twenty-two beads in organic material:
i. Two amber
ii. Three white
iii. One yellow
iv. Six red
vi. Eight silver ‘bells’; it is uncertain if these were worn as ‘bells’ or joined in pairs to form four beads

N. Iron key with moulding above probable length of twisting of shank.

Pi-ii. Two iron rivets (Pi1 not illus.).
(Ri). Fragment of iron socket, found on surface of grave, possibly from spearhead B, but does not join.
(Rii). Potsherd, fabric 1a; found in filling (not illus.).
(S). Flint blade; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 239 (Figs 160 and 375)
F14; possible male; no bones recorded; depth 26 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron ferrule, in filling at 15 cm from surface.
B. Iron buckle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Bii. Fragment of leather with Ae rivet (not illus.).
C. Iron knife, probable horn handle.

Post-hole 241 (Fig. 162)
E15/16; depth 20 cm; cuts Grave 242.

Grave 242 (Figs 162 and 376)
E15/16; female; no bones recorded; depth 22 cm; cut by Post-hole 241.

Grave 240 (Figs 161 and 375)
G15; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 37 cm; mostly removed by quarrying.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragment of burnt Ae.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae annular brooch with incised decoration; and bar for iron pin attachment.
B. Ae annular brooch with incised decoration; hole for iron pin attachment. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Amber bead.
D. Iron buckle.
E. Iron knife with traces of leather sheath.
(F). Two potsherds, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 243 (Fig. 163)
F14; probable child; no bones recorded; depth 28 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragments of Ae sheet, attached to wood by Ae rivet (not illus.).

Grave 244 (Figs 164 and 376)
F14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 11 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, shattered and less than half surviving, diameter c. 7 cm at base; fabric VI (not illus.).
B. Iron knife, horn handle.
C. Part of iron buckle and plate associated with Ae sheet fragments (Ae fragments not illus.).

Grave 245 (Figs 165 and 376)
E/F13; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm; patches of charcoal in filling; cuts Graves 258, 302, 309 and 328.

Grave-goods:
A. Part of iron knife.
B. Potsherd, fabric Ia (not illus.).

Grave 246 (Figs 166 and 376)
F15; probable male; bones recorded; depth 9 cm; this grave is isolated in an approximate circle, c. 5m diam., defined by nine other graves, and many have been covered by a mound, although no evidence for a surrounding ditch survived. Iron spearhead (unassociated find 7, Figure 458) may perhaps be disturbed from this grave.

Grave-goods:

Ai. Iron fragments, perhaps remains of shield-boss (not illus.).
Bi. Iron strip with iron rivet, perhaps remains of shield-grip.

Grave 248 (Fig. 167)

F15; sex unknown; bone and teeth indicate sub-adult or young adult, also burnt pig bone, charcoal and two burnt flints; 2m by 0.65 m, depth 20 cm.

Grave-goods:

(A). Four potsherds, fabric VI; interior surface sooted; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 249 (Figs 168 and 377)

F14; female; no bones recorded; depth 57 cm; cut by Graves 232, 234 and 236 which were all much shallower than 249.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, found inverted 20 cm above base of grave; almost complete; fabric 1a; sooting near rim on both surfaces and on exterior of base.
Bi-iii. Four beads:
i. Two amber
ii. One green
iii. One red and yellow
C. Hammered Ae sheet annular brooch with overlapping ends secured by iron brooch pin, incised decoration.
Di. Large iron pin with scrolled head. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Dii. Amber bead.
E-F, H, J. Two pairs of tinned bronze sheet wrist-clasps, Hines Type B7. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
Gi-ii. Two beads:

Grave 250 (Fig. 169)
F16; sex unknown, bones indicate probable adult; and cremated bone, probably adult male human and ?pig, from grave filling; depth 48 cm. E part of grave outside area of excavation.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Ae annular brooch, incised decoration; bar for iron pin attachment.

Grave 251 (Figs 170 and 378)
E10; female; no bones recorded; depth 48 cm. It is possible that a smaller, shallower grave had been cut into the main grave as there was a lighter brown, very stoney fill visible at the W end of the grave, with a base at about 20 cm below the surface; the objects were found at about the same level, apart possibly from H whose depth was not recorded. Two stake holes cut the base of the large grave, depths 7 and 10 cm. Cuts Grave 406 and cut by Grave 212.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration, two motifs used; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Aii. Amber bead.
B. Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration.
Ci-ii. Eight beads:
i. Seven amber
ii. One green, red and yellow.

D, E, G. Parts of two pairs of gunmetal sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; Hines Type B7. Metal analyses, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

F. Ae annular brooch, incised decoration; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

H. Hooked Ae strip with punched decoration, possibly tweezers but section and decoration unusual.

(K). Ten potsherds, fabric Ib; found in filling near W end, and includes sherds numbered 212K (not illus.).

(L). Flint blade (not illus.).

Grave 252 (Figs 171 and 378)
E11; sex unknown; bone recorded; depth 37 cm; cuts Grave 213 and 256, cut by Grave 253.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle.
B. Iron knife, horn handle.
C. Iron buckle.

Grave 253 (Figs 172 and 379-81)
E11; female; bones and teeth recorded; teeth indicate young adult; skull perhaps redeposited near centre of S edge; depth 37 cm, cuts Graves 252 and 254.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae hook plate from wrist-clasp, Hines Type B12; found in Grave filling at 20 cm from surface.
B. Curved Ae strip with iron rivet, girdle-hanger suspension loop, probably from K.
C. Two bent iron rods, perhaps terminals of iron key (see J).

D. Part iron ring, perhaps buckle.
E. Ae tag-end, incised decoration; one and Ae and one iron rivet.
F. Plate from decorated Ae tag-end, iron rivet and fragment of lower plate (latter not illus.).
G. Fragments of apparently two plates of Ae tag-end.

Hi-ii. Ae sheet wrist-clasp with repoussé decoration; Hines Type B7. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

(J). Parts of two iron key rods, one with twisting, and perhaps remains of suspension ring (some fragments not illus.). C may belong. Found near K. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

K. Ae girdle-hanger with punched decoration, two motifs used; B may belong. Iron staining on stem may indicate original position of J.

L. One amber bead.

Mii. Decorated Ae annular brooch, remains of iron pin.

Mii. Two amber beads.

Miii. One blue bead.

N, S, W.

Fragments of iron rods, perhaps part of a single object but do not join. Textile on W, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

P. Gunmetal cruciform brooch, knobs with hollow backs and cast in one with head plate; punched decoration; Aberg Group IV. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche; much textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Qi. Ae annular brooch with punched decoration; remains of iron pin.

Qii. Iron disc, perhaps head of stud.

Qiii. One amber bead.

Ri-ix. At least forty beads:

i. Twenty four amber and fragments of others

ii. Four blue

iii. Two colourless, translucent, segmented type
iv. One red
v. One green
vi. Three yellow
vii. One pale brown
viii. Two white and blue, including one with blue trail almost completely disintegrated.
ix. Two fragmentary yellow and green.
T. Square Ae belt plate with two studs at back; silver sheet stuck to front face; rough hole driven through from front of plate. Found in filling at 2 cm below surface.
Vi. Fragment of Ae strip (not illus.).
Vii. Fragment of curved Ae sheet.
(Xi). Potsherd; grooved decoration; fabric Ia; found in filling of 253/254.
Xii. Two potsherds, rim; fabric Ia; found in filling of 253/254 (not illus.).
Xiii. Two potsherds, rim; fabric Ia; found in filling of 253/254 (not illus.).
Xiv. Four potsherds, fabric Ic; found in filling of 253/154 (not illus.).
Xv. Three potsherds, fabric Ia; found in filling of 253/254 (not illus.).
(Y). Two flint blades, two flakes and one flint with retouch (not illus.).

Grave 254 (Fig. 173)
E11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 26 cm; cut by Grave 253. Potsherds which may be from filling of this grave and/or Grave 253 are described under 253.

Grave-good:
A. Ae sheet fragment (not illus.).

Grave 255 (Figs 174 and 381-2)
F14; male; but bones exhibit female traits; depth 30 cm.
Figure 174 Grave 255. Scale 1:20

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton G2.
Bi. Iron shield-boss with small-headed iron rivets.
Bii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type.
C. Iron knife, possible horn handle.
D. Iron buckle.
(E). Iron rivet with wood attached; found with skull.

Grave 256 (Figs 175 and 382)
El1; female; teeth among beads C indicate juvenile; depth 25cm, cut by Grave 252.

Grave-goods:
Ai, B. Apparent pair of Ae annular brooches with punched decoration; but Ai has bar for iron pin attachment and B is pierced for pin.
Aii. Part of plate of Ae tag-end.
Ci-ii. Fifteen beads:
i. Fourteen amber
ii. One red, yellow and green.

Grave 257 (Figs 176 and 382)
F16; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm; E part of grave outside area of excavation.

Grave-good:
A. Fragments of Ae sheet tube of penannular section.

Grave 258 (Figs 177 and 382)
F13; female; teeth indicate young adult; depth 20 cm; cut by Grave 245.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragment of iron buckle (not illus.).
Bi. Iron knife.
Bii. Amber bead.
Ci-viii. Thirteen beads:
i. Three amber
ii. One blue, translucent
iii. One blue
iv. One yellow
v. Two red with second colour lost
vi. One red and white
vii. Three white and green viii. One white and blue.
D. Fragment of burnt Ae brooch, perhaps transverse moulding from a cruciform brooch.
E. Iron staple with wood attached.
Grave 259 (Figs 178 and 383)
E15; male; bones recorded; depth 20 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
B. Iron buckle with fragment of iron plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Iron ferrule.
D. Iron spearhead; Swanton H1 or 2.
Ei-iii. Small iron shield studs; (Ei and Fi not illus.).
Eiv. Part of iron shield-grip, belongs to Gi.
Gii. Iron shield-boss with iron disc-headed studs.
Gi-ii. Fragment of iron shield-grip, belongs to Eiv.
H. Large iron pin, flattened end broken.

Grave 260 (Figs 179 and 383)
E15; sex unknown; bone recorded; depth 16 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Part of iron staple.
B. Iron knife.
C. Iron buckle.
D. Potsherds, fabric Ia (not illus.).

Context 261 (Fig. 384)
E15; find spot of A on surface of natural gravel.

Find:

Grave 262 (Figs 180 and 384)
E15; sex unknown; teeth indicate sub-adult or adult; depth 40 cm.

Grave-goods:
A, B. Fragments of Ae annular brooch, incised decoration; overlapping ends pierced and secured by iron pin. Found in grave filling at 2cm (A) and 20cm (B) from surface.

Probable Grave 263
E16; possible child; no bones recorded; 85cm by 45cm, depth 19 cm.

Probable Grave 264
E16; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 5 cm; E part of grave outside excavated area.

Grave 265 (Figs 181 and 384)
D15/16; male; bones and teeth indicate young adult; depth 40 cm; cuts probable Grave 408, cut by Ditch 273/282.

Grave-goods:
A. Large iron knife with iron rivet at junction of tang and blade; grooving on one side parallel with back of blade. Possible horn handle.
B. Iron shield-boss with disc-headed rivets.
Bii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type; traces of leather binding; inside of handle built up possibly with leather covered by wood. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Biii. Iron buckle.
Ci. Iron spearhead; Swanton H3.
Cii. Iron ferrule found beneath spearhead; spearhaft probably broken before being placed in the grave.

Grave 266 (Figs 182 and 385)
D15; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 45 cm.
Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.
B. Iron buckle.

Probable Grave 267
D15/16; possible child; no bones recorded; 80 cm by 50 cm, depth 15 cm.

Grave 268 (Figs 183 and 385)
D15/16; sex unknown; bone and teeth indicate adult male; depth 15 cm; area of dark soil with charcoal on base of grave at W end.
Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
B. Bent iron spearhead; Swanton II.
C. Iron knife, possible horn handle and remains of leather sheath; found on surface.
(D). Iron stud with Ae washer at end of shank; found in upper filling.

Possible Grave 270
D16; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 30 cm; E part outside excavated area; cut by Grave 288.

Probable Grave 271
E15; possible child; no bones recorded; 95 cm by 60 cm, depth 18 cm.

Grave 272 (Figs 185 and 385)
E15; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 32 cm.
Grave-goods:
A. Ae buckle with iron pin, in organic material.
Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
B. Iron knife, possible horn handle.

Ditch 273/282 (Fig. 385)
C15; D15/16; curving ditch with squared-off end, depth c. 20 cm, extends to S outside area of excavation; cuts Graves 265, 288, 326, 418 and probable Grave 408.
Finds:
(273A). Ae strip with small double hole at one end, perhaps plate of tag-end; found on surface.
(282A). Fragment of possible iron nail found in filling.

Grave 274 (Figs 186 and 386)
E14/15; male; skull exhibits female traits; depth 46 cm.
Grave-goods:
Ai-ii, (G). Three potsherds, all from same vessel; grooved linear decoration with stamps IIb; fabric V; Ai and ii found in lower filling, G in upper.
B. Iron spike set in wood, possible awl.
C. Iron spearhead; Swanton Di.
Di-iii. Ae sheet repair strips from rim of wooden bowl, with Ae rivets, and wood surviving.
E. Iron buckle.
F. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
Grave 275 (Figs 187 and 386)
E14; male; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton DI.
B. Part of iron buckle.

Grave 276 (Figs 188 and 386)
E14; possible female; teeth indicate older infant or younger juvenile; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.
B. Fragment of iron strip set in wood.
C. Ae sheet strip with three holes.
Cii. Ae sheet strip.
Ciii. Ae rivet of rolled sheet (not illus.).
Civ. Perhaps leather (not illus.).

Grave 277
E14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.85 m by 0.6 m, depth 42 cm.

Grave 278 (Figs 189 and 386)
E14/15; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 32 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Potsherd, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 279
E14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.55 m by 1 m, depth 30 cm.

Grave 280 (Figs 190 and 387)
D14; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 8 cm.
Grave-good:
A. Pot, over three-quarters surviving; fabric Ia; interior sooted, some patches on exterior.

Grave 281 (Figs 191 and 387)
C/D15; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm; cuts Grave 415.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron knife, horn handle.
Aii. Fragments of iron tweezers with remains of iron suspension ring.

Ditch 282-see 273/282 above.

Grave 283 (Figs 192 and 387)
D14; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragments of Al sheet with repoussé decoration, probably affected by fire; found 5 cm below surface with burnt flints and charcoal.
B. Nine potsherds, body and basal; fabric Ic (not illus.).

Grave 284 (Figs 193 and 387)
D14/15; possible female; teeth recorded west of beads C; depth 36 cm; cut by Post-hole 285; relationship to Grave 286 unknown and it is likely that objects 284.B, F and E belong in Grave 286.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle and plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
B. Iron knife; found on surface of grave.
Ci-iv. Five beads:
i. Two amber
ii. One red
iii. One yellow
iv. One blue and white.
D. Al sheet fragments (not illus.).
E. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
F. Iron buckle and Al sheet plate with iron rivets.

Post-hole 285 (Fig. 193)
D15; depth 40 cm; cuts Grave 284.

Grave 286 (Figs 194 and 388)
D14/15; female; teeth recorded; depth 35 cm; cuts Grave 290, relationship to Grave 284 unknown and it is likely that objects 284.B, F and E belong in Grave 286.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, over three-quarters survived; fabric la; traces of sooting on both surfaces; contained burnt flint, found 5 cm above base of grave.

B, C. Pair of iron annular brooches; B apparently broken in antiquity and 'repaired' by overlapping broken ends. Textile on B.

Grave 287 (Figs 195 and 388)
D14; probable child; no bones recorded; depth 9 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, less than quarter surviving; fabric lb.

Grave 288 (Figs 196 and 388-9)
D15; female; bones and teeth indicate older mature adult; depth 25 cm; cuts Grave 269, cut by Ditch 273/282.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
B. Iron buckle. Textile.
C. Pair of Ae tweezers.
D. One large amber bead, disintegrated (not illus.).
E. Ae square-headed brooch. Leeds Bi; Hines Group XV; front of bow worn, sheet silver on foot lobes, traces of gilding; punched decoration, six motifs used. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Fi-viii. Twenty-six beads:
i. Six amber
ii. Eight white
iii. Seven red
iv. One red and yellow
v. One yellow and red
vi. One white and blue
vii. One white with trails of second colour missing
viii. One blue with white, red and yellow.
(G). One yellow bead found in area of teeth.

Grave 289 (Fig. 197)
E13/14; sex unknown; bone recorded; depth 22 cm.

Grave 290
D14; sex unknown; teeth indicating juveniles at west end; min. 1.6 m by 0.7 m, depth 25 cm; cut by Grave 286.

Grave 291 (Fig. 198)
E13/14; sex unknown; bones recorded; depth 15 cm; abundant charcoal flecking in filling.

Possible Grave 292
E13/14; possible child; no bones recorded; 65 cm by 40 cm, no depth recorded.

Grave 293 (Figs 199 and 389-90)
D13/14; two females; one disturbing another, no bones recorded; depth 27 cm; relationship with Grave 300 uncertain; objects G, K, L, N, P, Q, R and S were at depths and positions suggesting they belong to an undisturbed burial in 293; the other objects may well have come from Grave 300 or an unrecognised burial disturbed by Grave 293; the depth from the surface of the grave is recorded with each object.

Grave-goods:
A, E. Pair of Ae annular brooches with punched decoration; remnants of iron pins (A 2 cm, E 7 cm).
B. Fragment of large iron pin or rod (5 cm).
C. Pot, more than half surviving; fabric Ic; linear decoration with stamps IIIb and Vd, and (originally 10) slashed raised bosses; sooted interior near rim (surface).

Fi-iii. Ae sheet strip associated with wood, probably repair from rim of wooden bowl (10 cm).

D. Iron knife (12 cm).

G. Fragments of ?gunmetal sheet tag-end, probably tinned, with iron rivet and incised decoration. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche (25 cm).

115
Hi.  Ae annular brooch, incised decoration, partly covered by leather (21 cm).

Hii. Part of colourless segmented bead (21 cm).

J. Iron buckle (18 cm).

Lii. Part of iron knife (24 cm).

Lii. Terminal of iron key, probably part of R (24 cm).

Mi-iii. Six beads (19 cm):

i. One amber

ii. One yellow

iii. Four red.

Ni-vi. Nineteen beads (23 cm):

i. Seven amber

ii. Seven yellow

iii. One green

iv. One red

v. Two yellow and red

vi. One blue.

Pi, ii. Ae wrist-clasp, Hines Form B20 (24 cm).

Qi. Ae wrist-clasp hook plate with punched decoration, Hines Form B7 (28 cm).

Qii. Ae sheet fragments with Ae rivet on either side of organic material, perhaps a wrist-clasp eye-plate but not a pair with Qii (26 cm).

R. Parts of three iron keys with rim suspension ring; Lii may belong (27 cm).

S. Iron ring (26 cm).

T. Part of iron buckle (15 cm).

(Uii). Potsherd with linear decoration; part of 293C (q.v.); found in filling (not illus.).

Uii. Potsherd, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 294 (Figs 200 and 391)

C14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 28 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron rod, possibly key.

B. Iron knife.

C. Iron buckle and plate. Textile; see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 295 (Figs 199 and 391)
D14; sex unknown; bones recorded; depth 20 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 300.

Grave-good:
A. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 296 (Figs 201 and 391)
D14; male; teeth indicate older sub-adult or young adult; depth 15 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Potsherd, rim; fabric Ia; found in filling in patch of dark soil with fragments of cremated bone (not illus.).
B. Iron spearhead, Swanton E2. Textile; see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Iron knife.
D. Iron buckle.
E. Ae rivet, bent into L-shape, associated with wood fragments (not illus.).

Grave 297 (Figs 202 and 391)
E13/14; male; teeth indicate older sub-adult or young adult; depth 53 cm; grave cut with vertical sides, area of very dark soil on base covering SW quadrant.

Grave 298
B14; diam. 70 cm, depth 16 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead of uncertain form; found in vertical position with blade upwards.
C. Iron knife with horn handle and remains of leather sheath. Textile.

Pit 298
B14; diam. 70 cm, depth 16 cm.

Grave 299 (Figs 203 and 392-3)
C13/14; female; probably disturbing another female; no bones recorded; depth at south 28 cm, at north 22 cm; objects P, Q, R, S and possibly J, M and N were found at depths and positions suggesting they belong to an undisturbed burial in 299; the other objects may well have come from an earlier grave destroyed by the northern part of 299; the depth from the surface of the grave is recorded with each object.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pin (surface).
B. Iron ring with fragment of another rusted on (surface).
C. Amber bead in fragments (surface; not illus.).
D. Plate of Ae sheet tag-end with iron rivet and incised decoration (surface).

E. Ae sheet fragment, possibly part of wrist-clasp similar to K (5 cm).
F. Possibly iron buckle pin (14 cm).
G, H. Ae sheet fragments, possibly parts of wrist-clasp (20 cm) (not illus.).
J. One green bead (28 cm).
K. Ae sheet eye-plate of wrist-clasp; Hines Form B7 (16 cm).
L. Ae sheet strip with two iron rivets (7 cm).
M. Part of iron buckle (20 cm).
N. Iron knife, horn handle (20 cm).
P. Ae annular brooch with punched decoration, two motifs used; remains of iron pin; found vertical. Textile (23 cm).
Q. Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pin (28 cm).
Ri-iv. Nine beads (25 cm):
i. Four amber

ii. Three red and white
iii. One colourless, translucent
iv. One very dark coloured with red, yellow and brown.
S. Iron annular brooch with iron pin. Textile (28 cm).

Grave 300 (Fig. 199)
D14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth c. 26 cm; relationship with Graves 293 and 295 uncertain; some objects recorded under Grave 293 (see above) may come from this grave.

Grave 301 (Figs 204 and 393)
E13; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 18 cm; cuts Grave 314.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragments of Ae sheet (not illus.).
Grave 302 (Fig. 205)
E/F13; sex unknown; long bones recorded; min. 80 cm by 60 cm, depth 10 cm; cut by Grave 245.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife, with horn handle and remains of possible leather sheath.
B. Ae strip, ?staple.
C. Possible iron buckle.

Grave 303 (Figs 206 and 393-4)
C14; female; bone recorded; depth 34 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron knife, with horn handle and remains of possible leather sheath.
Aii. Ae hook plate from wrist-clasp, Hines Form B20.
Aiii. Curved Ae strip with three holes, ?leather on one face, textile on other.

B. Gunmetal disc-headed stud, head tinned. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
C. Iron buckle.
D. Iron annular brooch with iron pin.
Ei-vi. Twenty-four beads:
i. Five amber
ii. Three red
iii. Five green
iv. Seven yellow
v. Two yellow and red
vi. Two pale blue, translucent.
F. Cast, decorated Ae annular brooch; remains of iron pin.
G. Ae sheet pendant, nine holes punched through, one end curled over to form loop.

Grave 304 (Figs 207 and 394-5)
D13; male and female; human bone recorded in filling; depth 47 cm; a male burial with A and B (found at 17 cm below surface of grave) probably cut into an earlier female grave (objects C-G all found at 42 cm deep); cuts Pit 310.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle.
B. Iron spearhead; Swanton G1.
Ci. Iron knife.
Cii. Iron ring.
D, E. Pair of Ae annular brooches, incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pins.
F. Iron penannular brooch. See report by Mackrath, Chapter 3, Section II. Textile.
G. Ten beads:
i. One amber
ii. Two red, yellow, green, blue and white iii. Two yellow, green and red iv. One red, yellow and green
v. Two red, yellow and green
vi. One jet
vii. One colourless, segmented (not illus.).
Grave 305
D13/14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 2 m by 0.95 m; depth 15 cm; cuts Grave 306.

Grave-goods:
(A). Ten potsherds, rim (1) and body; fabric Ia; interior surfaces sooted; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 306 (Figs 208 and 395)
D13/14; female; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm; cut by Grave 305.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Parts of two small Ae wire rings of expanding type.
Bi-iii. Three beads:
i. One yellow
ii. One red
iii. One red and white.

Possible Grave 307
D13; possible child; no bones recorded; 55 cm by 30 cm, depth c. 2 cm.

Grave-goods:
(A). Fifty potsherds, basal and body; fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 308
E13; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.35 m by 0.6 m, depth 17 cm.

Grave 309 (Figs 209 and 395-6)
E13; female; no bones recorded; depth 23 cm; cuts Grave 328, cut by Grave 245.

Grave-goods:
Ai-xi. Forty-five beads:
i. Twenty-nine amber
ii. One crystal
iii. Three colourless, translucent tv. One ?black
v. One deep purple
vi. One pale green, translucent
vii. Two blue, translucent viii. Two very dark green and yellow ix. Two red and yellow
x. One red and white xi. Two colourless, yellow red and ?green; colourless shaded black because it is dark on surface of bead but colourless where sectioned.

B. Iron knife, horn handle.
D. C. Iron buckle (D) and plate with iron rivets.
(E). Two potsherds; fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).
(F). Flint blade (not illus.).

Pit 310
D13; depth not recorded; cut by Grave 304.
Grave 311 (Figs 210 and 396)
D13; sex unknown; bones recorded; depth 20 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
C. Iron knife found adhering to A; probable horn handle.
D. Potsherd, fabric 1; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave-goods:
A, B. Pair of Ae annular brooches with punched decoration; remains of iron pins.
Ci-ii. Two beads:
i. One amber
ii. One yellow.
Di-ii, Ei-ii. Two pairs of decorated Ae wrist-clasps; Hines Form B20. Textile on E, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 312 (Figs 211 and 396-7)
C13; female; no bones recorded; depth 22 cm; cuts possible Grave 324.

F. Iron buckle and fragment of plate with iron rivet. Textile.
G. Part of probable iron ring. Textile.
Hi. Iron knife, possible horn handle.
Jii. Part of Ae sheet plate from tag-end.
J. Piece of iron strip with iron rivet through possible zoomorphic terminal.

Grave 313 (Fig. 212)
C13; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Thirty potsherds, basal and body; fabric Ib. Set on heap of flints so that base of pot was more or less level with surface of grave (not illus.).

Grave 314 (Figs 213 and 397)
E13; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 30 cm; cut by Grave 301.

Grave-good:
A. Iron knife.

Grave 315 (Figs 214 and 397)
E13; sex unknown; teeth indicate young adult; depth 16 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle.
B. Iron knife, horn handle.

Graves 316 and 321 (Figs 215 and 397-9)
D13; two female; young adult teeth recorded in 321; depth of 316, 28 cm; depth of 321, 36 cm; relationship of these graves is uncertain; the finds are numbered in a single sequence; objects B, F, G, H, K and N belong to Grave 316 while E, J/M and L probably belong; objects P, Q, R, S and T belong to Grave 321; it is uncertain from which grave A, C and D come. The depths from the surface at which the objects were found is recorded with each.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae ring (12 cm).
B. Iron knife, horn handle (15 cm).
C. Iron buckle and plate fragment (30 cm).
D. Iron knife, horn handle (29 cm).
Ei-ii. Parts of a decorated Ae wrist-clasp, bar detached from eye-plate (Eii), Hines Form B13 (20 cm).

F, Hi. Pair of Ae small-long brooches. Leeds squared-headed (panelled) group E; punched decoration; damaged in antiquity; (F 18 cm, H 17 cm).

G/K. Large iron pin. Textile. (G 16 cm, K 21 cm).

Hii. Part of large iron pin. Length 5.5 cm, not part of G/K (17 cm) (not illus.).

J/M. Fragments of probably one Ae annular brooch with incised and punched decoration; overlapping ends pierced and secured by iron pin. (J 28 cm, M 21 cm).

L.

Ni-viii.
Ae fragments (20 cm) (not illus.).

Thirty-one beads (19-21 cm):

i.
Three amber

ii.
Twelve blue, translucent

iii.
Four red

iv.
Two yellow

v.
Four white

vi.
One colourless, translucent

vii.
One yellow and red.

P.

Q.

Iron knife, horn handle (35 cm).

R.

Ae disc-headed stud (35 cm).

Si-xi.

Twenty-seven beads (36 cm):

i.
Four amber

ii.
Four blue translucent

iii.
Four red

iv.
Two green

v.
Four turquoise, translucent

vi.
Two white, red and blue

vii.
Three yellow and green

viii.
One green and yellow

ix.
One yellow, green and red

x.
One white, green and red xi.

One yellowish green.

T.

Decorated Ae annular brooch (33 cm).

U.

Potsherd, rim; part of 316.Uiii (q.v.); found in filling.

Uii.

Potsherd, rim; fabric Ia; found in filling.

Uiii.

Pot, one-eighth surviving, part rim and shoulder only; fabric II (22 cm).

Uiv.

Potsherd, rim; part of 316.Uiii (q.v.); (not illus.).

Uv.

Potsherd, basal; fabric Ic; (not illus.).

Uvi.

Potsherds, part of 316.Uiii (q.v.); (not illus.).

Uvii.

Potsherd, fabric Id (not illus.).

Grave 317 (Figs 216 and 399)

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, half surviving but base disintegrated; fabric la; some soot on both surfaces.

Grave 318 (Figs 217 and 399)
E12; pit containing cremation; depth 25 cm; filling of very dark soil with charcoal and cremated bone (lost).

Grave-goods:

A. Ae tubular lace-end; slightly burnt.
B. Foot of a simple (Aberg Group II) Ae cruciform brooch; slightly burnt. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Probably part of iron penannular brooch with iron pin, cf. 304.F. See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

Grave 319 (Figs 218 and 400)
E12/13; male; bones recorded; depth 30 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron spearhead, Swanton E2; found at 45° angle with tip uppermost.
B. Fragments of iron knife.
C. Part of iron buckle.
Dii, G. Three iron shield-studs; Dii has Ae washer.
Ei. Iron shield-boss with very large and heavy central knob.
Eii. Fragments of iron shield-grip (not illus.).
Fi. Ae staple set in wood; found in area of organic material.
Fii. Three Ae rivets of rolled sheet, one set in wood; found in area of organic material (one not illus.).
Hi. Two fragments of Ae sheet; found in area of organic material.

Grave 320 (Figs 219 and 400)
D12/13-E12/13; sex unknown; bones and teeth indicate mature adult; depth 60 cm; cut with almost vertical sides, some charcoal at base.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron pin, perhaps from a brooch; found above pot C.
B. Iron knife, horn handle.
C. Pot, base disintegrated otherwise virtually complete; fabric VII; grooved linear decoration with stamps la.
D. Potsherd, fabric III, burnt; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 321-see 316/321 above.

Grave 322 (Figs 220 and 401)
E12; female; teeth indicate sub-adult; depth 47 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 325.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron pin, perhaps from a brooch.
B. Iron buckle.
C. Iron knife, probable horn handle.
D. Curved Ae sheet strip.
Ei. Gilded sheet silver circular ‘scutiform’ pendant with punched decoration, three motifs used; central boss broken and repaired with silver sheet plug; loop missing, blob of solder on back presumably for securing loop.

Eii-ix. Forty beads:

ii. Nine yellow

iii. Four turquoise, segmented

iv. Twenty-two turquoise

v. One yellowish green

vi. One white

vii. One red and white

viii. One red and yellow

ix. One damaged colourless, translucent, segmented.

Grave 323 (Figs 221 and 401)

C13; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Two Ae rolled sheet wire rings of expanding type, now disintegrated.

B. Two amber beads.

C. Potsherd, fabric Ib, some sooting on both surfaces (not illus.).

Grave 324

C13; possible child; no bones recorded; min. 90 cm by 60 cm, depth not recorded; cut by Grave 312.

Grave 325 (Figs 222 and 401-2)

E12; female; bones and teeth recorded at W end of grave indicate young or mature adult; depth at W end 30 cm, at E end 29 cm; it is possible that there are two small graves of uncertain relationship represented here because of curious distribution of teeth and grave-goods.

Grave-goods:

A1. Pair of Ae tweezers.

Aii. Two Ae rolled sheet wire rings of expanding type.

Aiii. Ring of Ae strip, perhaps part of a bucket pendant.

B1-iv. Eleven beads:

i. Four amber

ii. One blue, translucent

iii. One white and blue

iv. Two white, blue and red

v. One white with red spots, coloured trails completely decayed, probably as iv (not illus.).

vi. Two white, coloured trails completed decayed, probably as iii (not illus.).

C. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 326 (Figs 223 and 402)

D15; female; no bones recorded; depth 40 cm; linear black stain along S edge; cut by Ditch 273/282, uncertain relationship with probable Grave 413.

Grave-goods:

A. Ae annular brooch with faintly incised decoration; overlapping ends secured by iron rivet, additional hole for iron pin.

B1-i. Fourteen beads.

i. Eleven amber

ii. Three turquoise, translucent

C. Fragments of Ae annular brooch, remains of iron pin.

Grave 327 (Figs 224 and 402)

C13; male; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron knife, probably horn handle.

B. Iron spearhead,* Swanton C1.

Grave 328 (Figs 225 and 402-3)

E12/13; female; no bones recorded; depth 14 cm; cut by Grave 245 and 309.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron penannular brooch. See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

B, D. Pair of Ae small-long brooches. Leeds cross

Grave 330 (Figs 226 and 403)
Cl3; male; no bone recorded; depth 39 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton H2; found with point sloping gently upwards to surface of grave.
Bi. Iron knife, horn handle.
ii. Tang of iron knife, horn handle.
C. Two fragments of Ae sheet (not illus.).

Grave 331 (Figs 227 and 403)
Cl3; possible female child; bones recorded; depth 30 cm.

Grave-goods:
A, B. Pair of Ae annular brooches; iron pins. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 332 (Figs 228 and 404)
D12; male; no bones recorded; depth 36 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton H2. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Bi. Ae strip staple.
Bii. Part of decorated Ae strip staple.
Biii. Fragment of Ae strip staple with wood.
Biv. Part of Ae strip staple.
C. Iron knife.
D. Iron ferrule.
E. Iron buckle with Ae sheet plate with large Ae rivet; with pin through ?leather of belt.

Graves 333 and 336 (Figs 229 and 404-5)
E12; male and female; bones, probably adult, recorded in 333; ?animal bone in filling of 336; depths 333 47 cm, 336

45 cm. The depths and distribution of the grave-goods suggests that male Grave 333 cut into earlier female Grave 336, but there was no evidence for this in section or plan. Objects A-H were found in filling and probably all derived from Grave 336. Most, if not all, of objects J-U belonged to Grave 333. The depths below the surface of the grave at which objects were found are recorded with each.

Grave-goods:

(Ai). Ae annular brooch; incised and punched decoration. Textile.

(Aii). Ae ring showing wear on one side (found in SE area at 20 cm).

B, C. Fragments of probably one Ae annular brooch, punched decoration (surface).

D, G. Two leaf-shaped tanged iron implements. Horn handle on G. (D surface, G 12 cm). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

E. Fragment of probably large iron pin (15 cm).

F. Iron, probably brooch pin (20 cm).

H. Iron stud (25 cm).

J. Iron flakes (not illus.) (38 cm).

K. Remains of iron buckle and Ae buckle plate with punched decoration and iron rivets (43 cm).

L. Probable iron bar from purse-mount (43 cm).

M. Iron fragments associated with wood (not illus.) (42 cm).

N. Two iron studs set in wood, one with remains of Ae washer (42 cm).

P. Iron knife with remains of leather sheath. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (42 cm).

Q. Two iron rivets set in wood (one not illus.) (40 cm).

Ri. Iron shield-boss with five small-headed iron studs (47 cm).

Rii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type with small-headed iron stud (47 cm).

S. Iron spearhead; Swanton GI or 2. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (45 cm).

Ui. Iron knife, horn handle (47 cm).

Ui. Iron buckle and plate with Ae rivets. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (47 cm).

(V). Potsherd, rim, fabric la; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 334 (Figs 230 and 405-6)

D12; female; no bones recorded; depth 43 cm; unknown relationship with Grave 349.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron knife.

B. Decorated Ae annular brooch with iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

C. Decorated Ae annular brooch; remains of iron pin.

D. Part of large iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Ei-vii. Fourteen beads:

i. Seven amber

ii. One blue, translucent

iii. One red

iv. Two yellow

v. One green, red and yellow

vi. One red, green and yellow

vii. One white, green and red.

(F). Two small fragments of burnt Ae, found on surface (not illus.).
Grave 335 (Figs 231 and 406)
C12; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 47 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, half surviving; fabric IV; sooting on both surfaces on base and up one side.
B. Iron knife, possible horn handle.
C. Ae sheet repair strip with iron rivets and wood; from rim of wooden bowl; found in filling at 20 cm below surface of grave.

Grave 336—see Grave 333 above.

Grave 337 (Figs 232 and 406-7)
C12; male and female; two lots of teeth recorded; teeth from male burial indicate young adult; those from female burial lost; depth 47 cm; the positions of the teeth and grave-goods suggest that this could be a more or less contemporary double burial. Relationship with Grave 339 uncertain.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton El; found at 20 cm below surface of grave.
B. Part of probable large iron pin; found at 28 cm below surface of grave.
C. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ia; linear decoration with stamps Ia and stab marks.
D, J. Fragments of repoussé decorated Ae sheet soldered to plain Ae sheets; pierced with holes. Both associated with organic material, including textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (fragments of D with holes 2 mm diam. not illus.).
E. Iron buckle and plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
F. Iron ring.
G. Iron knife, with horn handle and remains of leather sheath.
H. Iron knife, horn handle.
K. Pot, almost complete; fabric Ia; grooved linear decoration with stamps IIc (2 versions) and VIlb, and dots.

Grave 338 (Figs 233 and 408)
D12; possible female child; no bones recorded; depth 8 cm.

Grave-goods:
Ai-ii. Four beads:
i. Three amber, including one broken and with secondary hole
ii. One colourless, translucent.

Grave 339 (Figs 234 and 408)
C12; male; no bones recorded; depth 33 cm; relationship with Grave 337 uncertain.
Grave-goods:
A. Iron ferrule.
B. Iron buckle.
C. Pot, almost complete; fabric la; incised linear decoration with stamps VIIb.
D. Iron spearhead; Swanton E2; point at surface of grave, blade sloped with end of socket at 20 cm below surface; relationship with ferrule A suggests that spear haft was broken before being placed in grave.
E. Iron knife.

Grave 342 (Figs 237 and 409-10)
D12; female; no bones recorded; depth 29 cm; cuts Grave 345, uncertain relationship with Grave 346. Objects L, M, N and S belong to the burial in 342; objects A, H and J may come from Graves 342, 345 or 346. The other ten objects recorded are all burnt and were found at depths below the surface of the grave ranging from 1 cm to 29 cm.

Grave 340 (Figs 235 and 408)
Cl2; male; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm; relationship with Pit 343 uncertain.

Grave-goods:
B. Iron ferrule.
C. Iron knife.

Grave 341 (Figs 236 and 409)
Cl1/12; male; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton C4.

The depths below the surface of the grave at which objects were found are recorded with each.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae strip finger ring with punched decoration (5 cm). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
B-C, E-F, K, P-R, Side-knob of Ae florid cruciform brooch; burnt (1 cm).
B. Possibly part of iron buckle loop.
C. Iron knife.
D. Ae strip finger ring with punched decoration (5 cm).
E. Iron ferrule.
F. Iron knife.
G. Part of blue, white and red bead (22 cm).

J.

Part of iron ring (25 cm).

Ll-ix.

Forty-four beads (27 cm):

i. Twenty-eight amber

ii. Three blue translucent

iii. Five red

iv. Two yellow

v. One white

vi. Two red and yellow

vii. One yellow and black viii. One green and red ix. One red, white and yellow.

M, N.

Pair of Ae annular brooches with overlapping ends. Secured by loop of iron pin around bar; punched decoration; oval markings on one side of each may be the result of manufacturing technique (28 cm).

S.

Iron buckle. (29 cm). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

(Ti).

Potsherd, fabric la, found in filling (not illus.).

(Tii).

Potsherd, fabric Ib, burnt; found in filling (not illus.).

Pit 343

C12; flat-based; depth 8 cm; cut by Grave 344, uncertain relationship with Grave 340.

Grave 344 (Figs 238 and 410)

C11/12; sex unknown; skull stain recorded; depth 37 cm; cuts Pit 343.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron knife, probable horn handle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 345

D12; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.8m by 0.75 m, depth 8 cm; cut by Grave 342, uncertain relationship with Grave 346.

Grave 346 (Figs 239 and 411)

D12; female; bone and teeth recorded; depth 32 cm; uncertain relationship with Graves 342, 345 and 351.
Grave-goods:

B. "Ae small-long brooch" of abnormal type; damaged in antiquity. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

C. "Ae cruciform brooch; Aber group II"; faint punched decoration; detachable side-knobs. In addition to mass of textile, there are threads criss-crossing headplate and surrounding base of bow. No sign of iron pin within catch-plate so it is likely that this brooch was stitched in position on the garment. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

D. Pair of "Ae tweezers" with incised decoration; Ae wire suspension ring of expanding type.

Ei-vii. Eleven beads:
- i. One white
- ii. One white with bluish tinge
- iii. One red
- iv. One yellow
- v. One white, blue and red
- vi. Two black, white and blue
- vii. Four red, yellow and green.

Ditch 347
A7-B14; depth 40-50 cm; filling contained nineteenth-century finds throughout its length with a concentration at the E end of excavation; cuts Ditch 103 and Pit 405.

Possible Grave 348
E11; possible child; no bones recorded; 1 m by 0.55 m, depth 6 cm.

Grave 349 (Figs 240 and 412)
D11/12-E11/12; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 13 cm; cuts Grave 350, uncertain relationship with Grave 334.

Grave-good:

A. Iron knife.

Grave 350 (Fig. 412)
D11/12; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.75 m by c. 0.8 m, depth 3 cm; cut by Graves 349 and 352; finds disturbed by machining, no grave plan.

Grave-goods:

(A1). Possible iron awl.
Grave 351 (Figs 241 and 412-3)
D11; male and disturbed female; bones and teeth recorded; teeth indicate young adult male; the depths and distribution of finds shows that a male burial was cut into an earlier female burial; the eastern 60 cm of the grave, which contained a bone fragment, was 38 cm deep, the rest of the grave was 43 cm. The depths below the surface of the grave at which the objects were found are recorded with each. Uncertain relationship with Grave 346.

Grave-goods:
(Ai). Iron knife, horn handle.
(Ai). Iron buckle and plate, with two pins and a rod which appears to articulate on the loop between the pins; this rod lies along the buckle plate, trapping a curved rod beneath it.
(Aiv). Iron disc, perhaps head of stud.
(Av). Fragment of iron strip.

B. Bent Ae sheet strip (18 cm).
C. Large iron pin.
D. Parts of iron knife, horn handle (18 cm).
E. One turquoise, translucent, bead (44 cm).
F. Eye-plate from Ae wrist-clasp; Hines Form B20 (surface).
Gi-ii. Two iron knives (40 cm).
H. Iron spearhead; Swanton G2; (38 cm).
Ji. Seven potsherds, one rim, rest body; fabric la; found in filling.
Jii. Potsherd, basal; fabric la; found in filling (not illus.).
(Ki). Eight potsherds, 2 rim, rest body; sowing on interior surfaces; from same vessel as 351 Ji (q.v.); found in filling.
Kii. Potsherd, from same vessel as 351 Jii (q.v.); found in filling (not illus.).
Kiii. Potsherd, fabric la; burnt; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 352 (Figs 242 and 413)
D11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm, concentration of charcoal on base near S edge, cuts Graves 350 and 353.
Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
(B). One yellow and red bead; found in filling.
(C). Two potsherds, grooved decoration, fabric III; found in filling.
(D). Potsherd, body, of coarse Romano-British colour-coated ware, probably Nene Valley; third or fourth century, found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 353 (Fig 243 and 413-6)
D/E11; female; one tooth indicates younger mature adult; depth 40 cm; two linear dark marks on base of grave and an area of black soil in centre of N side; cut by Grave 352.

Grave-goods:
A. Ae ring with remains of iron loop.
B. Iron bar with knobs at either end and in centre of one side; embedded in textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Ae girdle-hanger, punched decoration.
D. Iron knife with iron rivet through tang; horn handle; found under C.
E. Pewter ring, now disintegrated, found under A. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section VI, microfiche.
F-J. Two pairs of gilded Ae wrist-clasps, red enamel in setting on F; empty setting J; Hines Form C3. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
K. Iron buckle with Ae sheet plate and Ae rivets; leather surviving within plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Li. Three iron rivets set in Ae sheet and wood (two not illus.).
Lii. Fragment of Ae ?staple in wood (not illus.).
Mi-xix. Eighty-seven beads:
i. Seven amber
ii. Thirty-eight blue, translucent
iii. Two white
iv. One red
v. Three yellow
vi. Two turquoise vii. Two green viii. Two brown
ix. One green, translucent
x. One white and red xi. One white, red and black xii. Four white and green xiii. One red and yellow xiv. Two red and yellowish green
xv. Four red with spots of darker red xvi. Two dark blue and red xvii. Eight yellow and green xviii. Five white and blue xix. One green and red.

N, Pi.
Two Ae rings, Pi with V-shaped notched; both perhaps part of necklace.
Pii. One blue, translucent bead.
Piii. One white, red and very dark brown bead.
QI. Ae florid cruciform brooch; detachable side-knobs; ?glass inlay in centre of head-plate; punched decoration, two motifs used. No close correlation to any of the sub-groups in Leeds and Pocock's Group V. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Qii-iii. Three beads:
ii. Two amber
iii. One red.
R, S.
Pair of Ae cruciform brooches with side knobs cast in one with head-plate; Aberg Group II. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Ti. Tinned bronze plate with probably five rivet holes, two Ae rivets survive. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
Tii-iii. Two Ae strips with holes, perhaps from back of Ti.
(U). Two potsherds, grooved decoration, from same vessel as 352 C (q.v.); found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 354 (Figs 244 and 416)
D11; possible child; no bone recorded; depth 21 cm.
Grave-good:

A. Pot, half surviving, mostly rim and body; fabric III; sooted exterior.

Grave 355 (Figs 245 and 416)
D10/11-E10/11; male; bones and teeth indicate probable adult; depth 32 cm; at 16 cm below surface of grave a central darker filling could be distinguished, width 45 cm, extending the length of the grave. The skull and teeth lay almost entirely outside this darker filling.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, nearly complete; fabric Ia; grooved linear decoration with seven raised, vertical, bosses and stamps Ia (depth 16 cm).

B. Fifteen potsherds, rim and body; fabric Ib; sooting on interior surfaces (16 cm).

C. Pair of Ae tweezers with decorated loop.

D. Iron knife with remains of leather sheath.

(F). Potsherd, fabric II, sooted on interior surface; found in filling (not illus.).

(G). Flint blade found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 356 (Fig. 246 and 416)
E10/11; male; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm; uncertain relationship with Post-hole 357.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron spearhead, Swanton B2. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VII.

B. Iron knife, horn handle.

Grave 357 (Fig. 246)
E11; depth 15 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 356.
Grave 358 (Figs 247 and 417-20)
D11; two females; teeth recorded at 18 cm and 38 cm below surface of grave; bone indicates both to be young adults; distribution and depth of objects and grave profile indicate that a female grave cut another, earlier, female grave. Objects A, B, D, J and K belong to the upper burial; objects L, M, PV belong to the lower burial; objects C, E-H and N were probably all disturbed and therefore may have belonged to the lower burial; depth of lower Grave 48 cm; depth of upper Grave 35 cm. The depths of the objects below the surface of the grave are given with each object. Cuts Grave 361, uncertain relationship with Grave 362.

Grave-goods:

A. Ae annular brooch with punched decoration, remains of iron pin. Textile (18 cm).

Bi. Ae cruciform brooch; side-knobs cast in one with head-plate; Aberg Group IV. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (19 cm).

Bii-iv. Four beads (19 cm).

Bii. Two amber

iii. One blue

ii. One yellow and red.

Ci. Part of probable iron key. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (15 cm).

Cii. Part of iron knife stuck to Ci.

Di-vii. Eighteen beads (20 cm):

i. Ten amber

ii. One red, green and yellow

iii. One yellow and red

iv. One white

v. One green

vi. Two green

vii. Two blue.

E. One yellow and red bead (18 cm).

F. Decorated Ae buckle and remains of thin Ae sheet plate with iron rivet. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (27 cm).

G, H. Ae sheet strips with iron rivets and wood; repair strip probably from wooden bowl(s) (25 cm).

Ji-ii, Ki-ii. Two pairs of Ae sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; Hines Form B7. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (J 27 cm, K 34 cm).

Li. Ae girdle-hanger with punched decoration (40 cm).

Li. Links of chain, perhaps of iron, embedded in leather, found stuck to i.

Li. Decorated fragments of several Ae sheet tag-end plates with Ae rivets (40 cm).

Mi-ii, Ri-ii. Two pairs of decorated Ae wrist-clasps; Hines Form B20. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (M 32cm, R 39 cm).

N. Iron buckle with Ae sheet plate and Ae rivet; buckle embedded in leather (30 cm).

Pi-iii. Thirty-nine beads (40 cm):

i. Thirty-six amber

ii. One crystal

iii. Two green, translucent.

Qi. Ae cruciform small-long brooch of abnormal type. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (38 cm).

Qii-v. Twenty-four beads (38 cm):

i. Thirteen amber

ii. Nine very small turquoise, cf. Uiii and Vii (not illus.)

iii. One blue and white, fragmentary (not illus.)

iv. One colourless, segmented (not illus.).

Rvi. One flint flake (not illus.).

S. Iron knife with horn handle and remains of leather sheath. Possible traces of horn on tip of sheath (40 cm).

Pair of Ae annular brooches; punched decoration; remains of iron pins. Textile on both, Chapter 3, Section VI. (T 38cm, V 41cm).

Thirty-seven beads (41 cm):
- Eighteen amber
- Five yellow
- Eleven turquoise, including one segmented
- One white
- Two blue and white.

Four beads (41 cm):
- Three turquoise, including two segmented
- One colourless segmented.

Grave 359 and 360 (Figs 248-9; 420-2)
C/D11; two females; no bones recorded; 359 depth 14cm, 360 depth 25 cm; Grave 360 cuts Grave 359; area of black soil in centre of base of 359; the distribution of the objects in 359 indicates that it was disturbed, presumably by 360. The finds from the two graves were lettered in a single sequence which has been retained.

Grave-goods:
Objects in Grave 359 (Figs 420-1)
Ai. Gilded Ae square-headed brooch with silver sheet appliqués at corners of head-plate and surviving lobes of foot; one lobe lost in antiquity; punched decoration, three motifs used; pin missing; Leeds B1; Hines Group XVI. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Aii. One amber bead (not illus.).
B, C. Pair of decorated Ae annular brooches.
D. Iron buckle and plate. Textile.
N. Silver circular 'scutiform' pendant.

About thirty-two beads:
- Eight amber
- Two blue
- One red
- Two white
- Two blue and white
- One blue and black
- One white, red and blue.

R. Iron knife, horn handle.

Objects in Grave 360 (Figs 421-2)
E, Gi. Pair of Ae annular brooches; punched decoration; remains of iron pins. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Fi-viii. About thirty-two beads:
About twenty amber beads:
One crystal
Two jet
One red
Three blue
One green
Three colourless, translucent, segmented beads:
Fragment of one white and blue (not illus.).

Eight beads:
Six amber
Two colourless, translucent, perhaps part of segmented.

Two pairs of decorated gilded Ae wrist-clasps; Hines Class C; stitching thread in holes in eye plate Hii. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Ae ring.
Part of pair of Ae tweezers.
Fragment of Ae strip with textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (not illus.).
Iron buckle and plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Two potsherds, fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 361 (Figs 250 and 423)
D11; male; no bones recorded; depth 38 cm; cut by Grave 358, uncertain relationship with Grave 214.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron knife.
B. Socket of iron spearhead in upper filling; remainder machined away.

Grave 362 (Figs 251 and 423-4)
D10/11; male and female; no bones recorded; depth 38 cm, rectangular area of dark soil at base of grave. Objects A and B, found ‘at high level’, indicate the existence of a male burial which may be earlier or later than the female burial at the base of the grave; it is uncertain to which burial buckle G belongs. Uncertain relationship with Post-hole 198 and Grave 358.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Iron axe.
Aii. Iron stud with Ae washer.
B. Iron spearhead; Swanton D2.
Ci-ii, Fi-iv. Remains of two pairs of Ae sheet wrist-clasps with applied bars; punched decoration; Hines Form B13a.
D. Decorated Ae ring. Textile.
E. Iron knife with horn handle and remains of leather sheath. Textile.
G. Tinned ?gunmetal buckle and plate with detached tinned ?bronze plate. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
H. Decorated ?gunmetal sheet strip, perhaps part of tag-end. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.
Ji. Ae cruciform brooch with detachable side-knobs; Aberg Group II or III. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Jii. One-three colourless, translucent, segmented bead(s), (one piece with two segments found).
K, M. Pair of Ae annular brooches; punched decoration; iron pins; piece of string across M. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Li-ix. About fifty-six beads:
i. About twenty-nine amber
ii. One crystal
iii. Five blue
iv. One green translucent
v. Two green

Possible Grave 363 (Fig. 425)
E10; sex unknown; no bones recorded; no recordable shape or depth.

Grave-goods:
(A). Two potsherds, fabric Ib; on surface of natural (not illus.).
(Bi-ii). Two beads, on surface of natural, 0.5 m to west of A.
i. One yellow
ii. One green.

Grave 364 (Figs 252 and 425)
C11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 20 cm.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, quarter surviving, no base; fabric II; interior sooted, traces of exterior near rim.

Grave 365 (Figs 253 and 425)
E10, sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Part of iron knife with horn handle and remains of leather sheath. Textile.
B. Part of probable iron buckle. Textile.

Grave 366 (Figs 254 and 425)
D10; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm; cut by Grave 367.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, three-quarters surviving; fabric II; sooted exterior.

Grave 367 (Figs 255 and 425-6)
D10; male and ?unsexed; no bones recorded; depth N side 34 cm, depth S side 25 cm; profile of grave and depth of H and J suggest that the male burial was cut into an earlier grave. Area of dark soil at W end associated with male burial. Cuts Grave 366.

Grave-goods:
A, Bi-ii. Two pairs of iron shield studs; A the two were set touching in wood; B with Ae washers.
C. Iron buckle and plate with Ae rivets, head of one covered with silver sheet; leather on back of plate.
D. Iron knife, horn handle. Textile.
Ei. Iron shield-boss with small-headed iron studs.
Eii. Part of iron shield-grip of simple bar type.
F. Iron spearhead; Swanton £2/3.
G. Iron stud perhaps from shield.
H. Iron knife with horn handle and remains of sheath.

Ji. Decorated Ae buckle with plate of two folded Ae sheet strips, each secured by an Ae rivet, and enclosing leather.

Jii. Decorated Ae belt plate, a little gilding remains; punched decoration, at least four motifs; four attachment holes, one with Ae rivet, one with iron rivet, two empty.

Jiii. Ae washer, perhaps from Ji.

(K). Potsherd, fabric II, possibly part of 366 A (q.v.); found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 368 (Figs 256 and 426)

D10; probable female; no bones recorded, depth 15 cm.

Grave 369 (Figs 257 and 426-8)

C10/11; two females; teeth of lower burial recorded beneath pin M; depth 42 cm. Distribution and depths of objects suggest an upper female burial which cut and disturbed another. Objects B, C, F-H, J and K belong to the upper, later, burial; objects L-N, P, Q, TV, belong to the lower; it is uncertain to which A, D, E, R and S belong. The depths of the objects below the surface of the grave have been recorded with each. Uncertain relationship with Grave 371.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron buckle, above buckle T (28 cm).

Bi-ii, Ci-ii. Two pairs of Ae sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; Hines Form B7. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (B 25 cm, C 12 cm).

D. Amber bead, possibly broken in antiquity (15 cm).

E. Roman Ae pennanular brooch (16 cm). See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

F. Iron knife, horn handle (16 cm).

G. Ae annular brooch; incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (22 cm).

H. Silver sheet circular 'scutiform' pendant; punched decoration; remains of ?solder near edge on back (22 cm).

J. Large iron pin (22 cm).

Ki-iii. Twelve beads (22 cm):

i. Ten amber

ii. One yellowish green

iii. One white and blue.

Li-iii. Sixteen beads (38 cm):

i. Fourteen amber

ii. One blue, translucent

iii. One turquoise, translucent.

M. Part of large iron pin (39 cm).

N, P. Fragments of pair(s) of (unidentified) metal sheet wrist-clasps. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche. (A 34 cm under teeth and jaw fragments; P 33 cm).
Half a pottery spindlewhorl; fabric Ia (30 cm).

Two probable iron staples with wood (R 31 cm, S 35 cm, S 35 cm).

Iron buckle and plate. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (35 cm, below buckle A).

Iron key. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (32 cm).

Iron knife fragment (30 cm).

Six indeterminate prehistoric potsherds, found in filling (not illus.).

Potsherd: hooked rimsherd of Romano-British greyware jar; third or fourth century (not illus.).

Grave 370 (Figs 258 and 428-30)
C/D10; female and possible male; no bones recorded; depth 41 cm; there are male and female objects in this grave; from their distribution it is impossible to be certain of their relationship.

Grave-goods:

Ai. Iron key. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Aii. Part of iron knife, horn handle.

Aiii. Ae ring with wear in two places.

Bi. Ae strip, possibly part of tweezers.

Bii. Iron knife, horn handle.

Biii. Iron buckle and part of plate. Textile.

C, D. Fragments of Ae, probably gunmetal, sheet, possibly parts of a wrist-clasp. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche (not illus.).

Ei-vi. Twelve beads:

1. One crystal
2. Four amber
3. Four red, yellow and green
4. One red, yellow green, black and white
5. One black, yellow and green

One white, blue and red.

F. Iron spearhead; Swanton C2.

G. Ae cruciform brooch; Aberg Group III; apparently faulty casting and separate piece of sheet (now loose) was used to complete head-plate; punched decoration, one punch used throughout; detachable side-knobs; excavation damage to foot.

H, J. Pair of Ae cruciform small-long brooches; incised and punched decoration.

K. Fragments of Ae sheet wrist-clasp eye-plate.

L. Pot, over three-quarters surviving, most of shoulder missing; fabric Ic; linear decoration with stamps Ig and IVd.

Grave 371 (Figs 259 and 431-2)
C10; two females; teeth in western burial indicate young adult; depth W end 40 cm, depth E end 46 cm; distribution of objects and grave profile suggest that one burial was cut through the eastern part of another, though no evidence for this was apparent in the filling; uncertain relationship with Grave 369.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron ring. Textile (depth 5 cm below surface of grave).

B. Iron buckle. Textile (depth 5 cm below surface of grave).

C. Ae cruciform brooch; Aberg Group III; side-knobs lost, catch-plate and foot repaired in antiquity; additional sheet bronze (not illus.) had been soldered to stub of catch-plate; foot including moulding above animal head had been soldered over part of foot; it is uncertain if this is the original foot or a substitute. Remains of thread across head-plate and at top of bow may have fastened brooch to garment, stub of iron pin survives. Textile.

Pit 372
C8/9; 1 m by min. 1.3 m, depth 35 cm; upper filling of brown gravel, lower filling c. 4 cm thick of dark brown sand with charcoal, sparse 'pot-boilers' throughout; cut by Grave 375.

Grave 373 (Figs 260 and 432)
C9/10; possible female; teeth recorded in two areas, some with A and some 20 cm to N indicate sub-adult or young adult; depth 30 cm; black organic material around object A; cut by Grave 374, objects 374 A and B may well have come from Grave 373.

Grave-goods:

A. Ae annular brooch; punched decoration; overlapping ends joined opposite pin attachment and a separate piece of metal covers the overlap.

(Bi). Potsherd, fabric Ic, found in filling (not illus.).

Bii. Fired clay fragment, weight 1 gm., probably Romano-British tile; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 374 (Figs 261 and 433)
C9/10; male; one bone recorded; depth 47 cm; cuts Grave 373, objects A and B probably were disturbed from Grave 373.
Grave-goods:

A. Ae ring, punched and incised decoration on both sides; thinned at two points which are not opposite one another, no evidence that this was used as brooch. Textile.

B. Decorated Ae annular brooch. Textile.

C. Iron buckle and plate with Ae rivets.

D. Iron knife, horn handle. Textile.

Ei-ii. Two iron rivets with Ae washers on one end, wood attached, probably from shield.

F. Iron spearhead; Swanton G2. Textile.

Gi. Iron shield-boss, type of studs could not be identified, probably with small heads.

Gii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type.

Gi-ii. Small iron rivet with Ae washer, cf. E (not illus.).

Grave 376 (Figs 263 and 434-5)
C9; female; bones and teeth indicate sub-adult or young adult; depth 25 cm; cuts Grave 378, buckle 378.C may come from this grave.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, almost complete but abraded on one side; fabric la; some sooting on both surfaces; found in filling at 15 cm below surface of grave.

B, H. Pair of decorated Ae annular brooches with overlapping ends, H has iron pin. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Ci-ii. Two beads:
i. One amber
ii. One green translucent.

Di. Iron ring, Textile.
Dii. Remains of small iron ring or buckle, disintegrated (not illus.).

E. Iron key with suspension ring (upper part found stuck to G). Textile.

F. Iron knife, horn handle.

G. Iron key with suspension ring (upper part of E was stuck to it).

Grave 377
D10; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.8 m by c. 0.7 m, depth 19 cm.

Grave 378 (Figs 264 and 435-6)
C9; female; bones recorded; depth 48 cm; cut by Grave 376, buckle 378.C may have come from Grave 376, N edge of grave very irregular.
Grave-goods:

A. Thirty potsherds, rim and body; fabric II; some sooting on interior surfaces.

Bi-ii, Di-ii. Two pairs of Ae sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; Hines Form B7. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

C. Iron buckle.

Ei-ix. Thirty-eight beads:

i. Seventeen amber
ii. One blue, translucent
iii. Four red
iv. One green, translucent
v. Three green
vi. Three yellowish green
vii. Four brown viii. Two white and blue
ix. Three yellow and brown

F, G. Two silver wire rings of expanding type, made from rolled sheet. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

H. Fragment of folded silver sheet with punched decoration.

J. Iron knife, horn handle.

Ki. Iron penannular brooch without pin. See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

Kii. Iron ring or buckle.

L, M. Pair of decorated Ae annular brooches; iron pins. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

N. Large iron pin with remains of Ae sheet spangle linked to pin head by Ae ring; pin covered in textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 379 (Fig 265 and 436)

D10; possible female child; skull stain recorded; depth 28 cm.

Grave-goods:

Ai-vii. Ten beads:

i. One amber
ii. Two yellow
iii. Two green
iv. One white
v. One yellow and brown
vi. Two yellow, brown and white
vii. One green, yellow and brown.

Bi-ii. Parts of two Ae wire rings of expanding type.

C. Pot, three-quarters surviving; fabric Ia; grooved linear decoration with stamps IIc; interior sooted.

Grave 380 (Figs 266 and 437)

C8; male; no bones recorded apart from one fragment of probably human cremated bone from filling; depth 39 cm; area of dark soil and charcoal from surface to 15 cm below, containing a fragment of carbonised plank 23×9×1 cm; cuts Grave 381.

Grave-goods:

A. Potsherds, basal and body; fabric VIII; some sooting on exterior surface; found on surface of grave (not illus.).

B. Iron knife, horn handle.

CI-ii, DI-ii. Two pairs of iron studs with Ae washers and attached to wood, probably from shield.

Ei. Iron shield-boss; repaired in antiquity by adding ring of iron to form new flange over remains of old; one Ae disc-headed stud used, rest of iron.

ii. Iron shield-grip with wood and remains of leather binding.

F. Ae sheet plate with iron rivets either end and repoussé decoration; wood associated; perhaps from shield. Textile.

G. Iron spearhead; Swanton BE2.

Grave 381 (Figs 267 and 438)

C8; male; no bones recorded except for cremated bone (lost) in ‘dark purplish soil’ at 10 cm below surface of grave; cut by Grave 380.

Grave-goods:

B. Iron knife, horn handle.

D. Iron strike-a-light, no indication that there was ever a suspension loop. Textile.

E. Part of iron rod, found under D.

F. Iron knife, horn handle.

G. Iron spearhead; Swanton C2; point at surface of grave.

Grave-goods:

A. Thirty potsherds, mostly body; fabric Ia; two sherds with stamps Ia; some sooting on both surfaces.

Bi-ii. Seven beads:

i. Six yellow

ii. One brown, translucent.

Grave 382 (Fig. 268)
C8/9-D8/9; sex unknown; bones indicate probably adult; depth 27 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 398.

Grave 383 (Figs 269 and 438)
E10; possible female child; no bones recorded; depth max 10 cm, E end of grave damaged by machining.

Grave-goods:

Ai-viii. Twenty-four beads:

i. Sixteen amber

ii. Two yellow

iii. One yellowish green

iv. One colourless, translucent

v. One brown and white

vi. One red and white

vii. One white and blue viii. One light and dark green, blue, white and red.

Bi. Late Roman decorated silver finger ring; internal diam. 20-21 mm, width at shoulder 7 mm, weight 3.8 g; faceted; circular bezel 6 mm diam with outer circle of incised decoration, also incised decoration on shoulders and facets; probably hung from necklace. Late fourth-early fifth century. Identified by Catherine Johns.
Grave 385 (Figs 271 and 440)
D9; female; teeth indicate young adult; cremated human bones recorded without pot at base of grave and with pot B at surface of grave indicate sub-adult or adult; depth 18 cm.

Grave-goods:
A, D. Lumps of dark brown fused glass, A at Grave surface, D 12 cm below surface (not illus.).
B. Pot, containing cremated bone; fabric VIII; some sooting on exterior surface, especially on base (not illus.).
C. Ae stud; 2 cm below grave surface.
E. Pot, found inverted; nearly complete; fabric II; sooting on base exterior and near rim on one side of interior.
F. Potsherds; fabric I b; linear decoration on 3 sherds with stamps I I c on one.
G. Half an iron penannular brooch. Textile. See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

Hi-iv. Five beads:
i. One blue
ii. One red
iii. Two white
iv. One yellow and red.
J. Decorated Ae annular brooch; remains of iron pin.

Grave 386 (Figs 272 and 440)
D/E9; sex unknown; no bones recorded; objects 185 A and B were located by metal-detector, after 1974 excavation, in position defined in 1975 excavation as in upper filling of Grave 386, and are thought to have come from a shallow female grave which cut Grave 386; depth of 386 25 cm; 386 cut by Post-hole 390.

Grave-goods:
185 Ai. Decorated Ae annular brooch.
Aii. Part of iron knife.
Aiii-v. Parts of three iron keys and remains of iron suspension ring.
Avi. Curved iron rod with Ae sheet riveted to it, possibly from Aiii-v.
Avii. Ae sheet with iron rivet.
Avili. Ae sheet with rivet hole and repoussé decoration.
185 B. Decorated Ae sheet tag-end with iron rivet.

386 A. Pot, one-third surviving; fabric VI; linear decoration with stamps IIIb; found lying with rim downwards.

386 (Bi). Potsherd, rim; fabric Ia; sooted on both surfaces; found in filling.

Bii. Potsherd; fabric V; grooved decoration; found in filling.

386 (C). Two flint flakes in filling (not illus.).

Grave 387 (Figs 273 and 441)

E9; female; no bones recorded except for piece of burnt animal bone or antler under A; depth 25 cm; cut by Grave 384.

Grave-goods:

A. Pot, less than quarter surviving, no rim sherds; fabric V; incised lines probably accidental, not decoration.

B, Li-ii. Decorated Ae hook-plate and pair of wrist-clasps, Hines Form B13a.

C. Iron knife, horn handle.

D. Iron ring, Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

E. Pot, nearly complete; fabric Ia; linear decoration with stamps Ih and IIIc; sooting on exterior and near rim on interior.

F. Decorated Ae sheet tag-end with Ae rivet; encloses leather.

G. Large Ae pin with pierced head.

H. Decorated Ae annular brooch, Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Hi. One green bead.

Ji-xv. Thirty-three beads:

i. Three amber

ii. Eight blue

iii. One turquoise, translucent

iv. Five yellow

v. Four green

vi. One red

vii. Two white viii. One brown

ix. One black

x. One yellow and green xi. Two green, yellow and red

xii. One yellow, red and green xiii. One white, blue and red, and area of black xiv. One red, green and yellow

xv. One white and red, disintegrating.

K. Iron annular brooch, Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 388 (Figs 274 and 442)

D9/10; male; no bones recorded apart from cremated fragment (lost) in pot B; depth 30 cm.

Grave-goods:

A. Iron spearhead; smashed by machining.

B. Pot, nearly complete; fabric Ia; grooved linear decoration with stamps Ia (two versions), Ih, IIIb (two versions) and IVd; lying on its side against shield-boss Ci and contained part of shield-grip Cii.

Ci. Iron shield-boss found vertically against mouth of pot B; patches of wood on inside of flange had grain going in two directions.

Cii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type.

Ciii. Iron buckle and plate with iron rivet. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

D. Iron knife.

(E). Flint with retouch, found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 389 (Figs 275 and 443)
D9/10; male; no bones recorded; depth 15 cm, may have disturbed a female grave containing amber beads B and C and ?brooch K; positions of shield-studs D and F at 1 cm below grave surface and of boss Ei found lying on its side at grave surface shows that the shield was buried vertically at end of grave. Fragment of burnt bone from filling. Probably cut by grave 391.

Grave-goods:
A. Five potsherds, rim and body; fabric Ib; found in filling (not illus.).
B-C. Seven amber beads (B, two at 2 cm below grave surface; C, five at 10 cm).

di-ii, Fii. Two pairs of iron shield-studs with Ae washers at top and base of stem.

Ei. Iron shield-boss with disc-headed rivets; central knob has applied silver sheet, which has been cut through in antiquity.

Eii. Iron shield-grip of simple bar type with faint remains of ?binding.

G. Iron spearhead; Swanston E.

H. Iron knife, horn handle.

J. Part of iron buckle.

K. Part of probable iron annular brooch. Textile, see Chapter 3.

(L). Five potsherds, fabric Ia, burnt; found in filling (not illus.).

(M). Flint flake found in filling (not illus.).

Post-hole 390 (Fig. 272)
E9; depth 20 cm; cuts NE corner of Grave 386.

Grave 391
D9/10-E9/10; sex unknown; teeth recorded near western end; 1.65 m by 0.65 m, depth 19 cm; probably cuts Grave 389.

Grave-goods:
(A). Potsherds, grooved decoration, fabric Ia; found in filling (not illus.).

Grave 392 (Figs 276 and 444)
D9; disturbed female(s); no bones recorded; depth 31 cm; the distribution and nature of the finds suggest that at least one female burial was disturbed; this disturbance may have been related to the two areas of charcoal flecking in the western half, recorded between 21 and 26 cm below grave surface (thickness of deposit not recorded). The depths below grave surface at which objects were found is recorded with each.

Grave-goods:

A, J. Pair of decorated Ae annular brooches; Ae pins (A surface, 4 20 cm).

B, Ci-ii. Pair and eye-plate of Ae wrist-clasps; Hines Form B12. Eye-plate Ci broken in antiquity, Fi and ii may be repairs to eye and missing lug (hook-plate B 2 cm, eye-plates Ci and ii 10 cm).

Di-ii. Two beads (10 cm): i. One red ii. One black and red with probably third colour spots missing; for clarity black shown as white on illustration.

E. Fragments of Ae sheet with holes (13 cm).

Fi-ii. Two pieces of Ae probably repairs to eye (Fi) and lug (Fiil) of wrist-clasp Cii (13 cm).

G. Iron knife, probable horn handle (15 cm).

H, P. Possibly fragments of iron staples (H 15 cm; P 27 cm).

K. Flat iron ring, probably annular brooch; part of ring now lost, drawn from X-ray only. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (18 cm).

L. Piece of folded Ae strip (27 cm).

M. Blue bead (27 cm).

N. Remains of possible iron annular or penannular brooch. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (27 cm).

Q. Iron knife, horn handle (27 cm).

Grave 393 (Figs 277 and 444-6) D7/8; female; bones indicate adult; depth 22 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 409.

Grave-goods:

(A). Piece of thin wood, grain running E-W; immediately over C, D and B (not illus.).

B, E. Pair of Ae girdle-hangers; punched decoration; iron survives in terminal loops. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

C. Loose fragments of textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI (not illus.).

D. Ae strip suspension loop and iron bar covered with Ae sheet which united girdle-hangers B and E.

F. Iron knife, horn handle. Textile. Found directly under E.

G. Decorated sheet tag-end, upper sheet probably tinned gunmetal, with iron rivet, enclosing remains of leather, lower sheet probably bronze; found directly under E. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V; microfiche.
H. Iron buckle with Ac plate and iron rivet enclosing probable leather. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
J. Amber bead.
Ki-xiv. Seventy-five beads:
i. Twelve amber
ii. Four blue
iii. Three turquoise, translucent
iv. Nine green, translucent
v. Five red
vi. Ten yellowish green
vii. Eleven yellow viii. Six white
ix. Eight colourless, translucent, segmented
x. One yellow and colourless, translucent xi. Two white and red xii. One white and blue xiii. One white and blue xiv. Two yellow and red.
Kxiv. Ac loop, perhaps used as bead.
Kxvi. Fragment of Ac sheet.
L. Ac annular brooch of hammered sheet with overlapping ends formerly secured by iron rivet and Ac pin; punched decoration.
M. Ac cruciform brooch with lappets and punched decoration, knobs from head-plate missing; foot broken in antiquity and stub smoothed off; catch pin broken off in antiquity and repaired with soldered Ac sheet (now detached and not illus.). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
N. Ac annular brooch; punched decoration; iron pin.
P. Small Ac ring, perhaps from necklace; found directly under J.

Possible Grave 394
D7; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.6 m by 1 m, depth 17 cm.

Grave 395 (Figs 278 and 447)
D9; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm; cuts possible Grave 436.

Grave-goods:
A. Pair of Ac wire rings of expanding type.

Grave 396 (Figs 279 and 447-8)
D8/9; female; bone and teeth indicate young adult; teeth in mouth of pot Ai; depth 40 cm; alignment of flints on base of grave on N side of burial, just inside and parallel with a linear charcoal stain, extending vertically from 20 cm below surface to base of grave.

Grave-goods:
Ai. Pot, virtually complete; fabric Ia; grooved linear decoration with stamps Ih, Ii, and IIId. Indeterminate prehistoric potsherd (not illus.).
Aii. Bi-ii, Ji-ii.
Biii. Decorated silver finger ring.
C. Terminal loop and part of stem of an Ac girdle-hanger, broken in antiquity and broken end smoothed off; punched decoration; found lying beside D.
D. Lower end of Ac girdle-hanger, with punched decoration; stem broken in antiquity, and remains of ?solder at back suggest this had been repaired and broken again before burial. Stem is pierced and positions of C and D in grave suggest they were hung side by side.
E. Iron knife, possible horn handle.
G, K. Pair of Ac annular brooches with punched decoration; iron pins. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Hi-ii. Six beads:
  i. Five amber
  ii. One crystal.
L. Ae cruciform brooch, side knobs cast in one with head-plate; Åberg Group IV; punched decoration, two motifs used including a faint crescentic stamp on foot (not drawn out). Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 397 (Figs 280 and 449-51)

Grave-goods:

A. Ae cruciform brooch; Åberg Group IV; old break below lappets but not smoothed; complete iron pin survives. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

B. F. Pair of decorated Ae annular brooches; iron pins. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

C. Tinned Ae strip bent into a loop; punched decoration; perhaps from necklace. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

D. Curved fragment of rolled Ae sheet wire.

Ei-vi. Thirteen beads:
  i. Five red
  ii. Three green
  iii. Two white
  iv. One yellow
  v. One yellow and red
  vi. One Ae 'bucket' bead; no loop, plate with hole closing one end; cylinder contains organic material. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

G. Fragments of Ae sheet strip, slightly curved; found below A.

H. Ae strip bent into a loop, not closed but one end broken; punched decoration; perhaps from necklace.

J. Qi-ii. Eye plate and pair of Ae sheet wrist-clasps with repoussé decoration; Hines Form B7.

Ki-iii. Five beads:
  i. Two red
  ii. Two green
  iii. One white.

Li. Ae girdle-hanger; punched decoration, two motifs and dot used; iron in terminal loop.

Lii. Ae girdle-hanger; punched decoration, one motif used; two holes through broad end and three partial holes, fourth partial hole in stem; iron in terminal loop.

Liv. Ae strip suspension loop with punched decoration and iron bar covered with Ae sheet which united girdle-hangers Li and ii.

Liii. Decorated Ae ring.

Lv. Iron buckle with Ae sheet plate and iron rivets.

M. Decorated and tinned bronze sheet tag-end; iron rivet disintegrated. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V, microfiche.

N. Iron knife, wooden handle; found under L.

Pi. Ae buckle with iron pin and broken Ae plate with iron rivets and punched decoration; same punch as on Pii which is not part of this plate.

Pii. Decorated Ae plate of tag-end with iron rivet.

Piii. Ae belt-plate with punched decoration and two iron rivets.

R. Closed loop of rolled Ae sheet, perhaps part of necklace.

(S). Fragment Ae sheet among bone at W end of grave (not illus.).

Grave 398 (Figs 281 and 451)

Grave-goods:

A. Iron spearhead; Swanton E3.

B. Iron buckle and plate with iron rivet. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

C. Large iron pin, broken in antiquity.

D. Iron knife.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragment of iron possible brooch pin, surviving length 7 mm, diam. 1.5 mm (not illus.).
B, C. Remains of two pairs of silver bells; as they were found in pairs it is perhaps more likely that they were joined to form two hollow beads (part of B not illus.).
Di-x. Forty-six beads:
  i. Thirty-two amber
  ii. Remains of one chalk (not illus.)
  iii. One yellow
  iv. Three yellow and red
  v. One red and white
  vi. One red and white
  vii. Two red and white viii. Two red and green and white ix. Two red, green, yellow and white
  x. Two red, green and white.

Grave 401
D8; possible child; no bones recorded; 1.25 m by 0.8 m, depth 23 cm.

Grave 402 (Figs 283 and 452)
D8; male; no bones recorded; depth 11 cm; probably cuts Grave 400.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead, Swanton Fl.
B. Pot, two-thirds surviving, no rim; fabric Ic; sooting on exterior and upper half of interior.
C. Iron knife. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 403 (Figs 281 and 453)
D8; sex unknown; teeth fragments recorded at west end; depth 1.7 cm; two lines of flints along N and S edges of central 18 cm deep area of grave; cut by Grave 160; uncertain relationship with Grave 400.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron staple.
B. Iron knife, horn handle.
C. Ae penannular brooch with elaborate terminals, one pierced. See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

Pit or Post-hole 404
B7; diam. c. 50 cm, depth 22 cm; contained one burnt flint, four flint blades and charcoal.

Pit 405
A7; cut by ditch 347; depth 53 cm; gravelly filling contained patches of charcoal.

Grave 406
F10/11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; c. 2.2 m by 0.95 m, depth 10 cm; cut by Grave 251.

Grave 407 (Figs 285 and 453-4)
C9; female; teeth indicate young adult; depth 40 cm.

Grave-goods:
A. Fragments of iron nail (not illus.).
B. Fragments Ae sheet, perhaps the remains of a wrist-clasp (not illus.).
C. Ae wrist-clasp with repoussé decoration; Hines Form B13c. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
D. Decorated Ae ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
Ei. Part of Ae sheet tag-end with iron rivet.
Eii-Fi. Parts of three iron keys with iron suspension ring. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Gi-xiv. Seventy-four beads:
i. Forty-two amber
ii. Two jet
iii. Four red
iv. Two white
v. Two greenish yellow
vi. Three yellowish green
vii. One yellow viii. Parts of two colourless, segmented
ix. Two blue, translucent
x. Three white and blue xi. Four white and green
xii. Four yellow and red xiii. Two blue, white and red xiv. One white, green and red.
H. Tinned ?gunmetal annular brooch of hammered sheet; punched decoration; tinned;
Ae pin through hole securing overlapping ends. Metal analysis, see Chapter 3, Section V; microfiche.
J. Part of large iron pin.
K. Decorated Ae penannular brooch and pin.
See report by Mackreth, Chapter 3, Section II.

Probable Grave 408
D16; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth c. 15 cm; cut by Grave 265 and Ditch 273/282.

Grave 409 (Figs 286 and 454)
C8; male; no bones recorded; depth 29 cm; uncertain relationship with Grave 393.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton H3. Tip lying on gravel surface outside grave. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
B. Large iron pin with decorated head.
C. Iron buckle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 410 (Figs 287 and 455)
D16; female; bone indicates probable adult; depth 20 cm;
E end of grave extends outside excavated area; cuts possible
Grave 270.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron buckle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
B. Ae annular brooch with punched decoration. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Ci-x. Seventeen beads:

i. Two amber

ii. Two red

iii. One white

Grave 416 (Figs 292 and 456-7)
C15; male; no bones recorded; depth 21 cm; SE end outside excavated area; cut possible Grave 417.

Grave-goods:
A. Iron spearhead; Swanton ID2.
B. Remains of iron buckle; Ae sheet plate with punched decoration and iron rivets. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.
C. Part of Ae tweezers.
Di. Iron knife, horn handle.
ii. Iron bar and suspension loop of purse-mount with decorated terminals of up-curved bar-ends lying on top of bar. Found beneath Di. Remains of leather and textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Possible Grave 417
C14; sex unknown; no bones recorded; length 2 m, depth c. 15 cm; extends into unexcavated area; cut by Graves 414 and 416.

Grave 418 (Figs 293 and 457)
C15/16; sex unknown; no bones recorded; depth 25 cm; S end extends into unexcavated area; cut by Ditch 273/282.

Grave-good:
A. Iron knife, horn handle. Textile, see Chapter 3, Section VI.

Grave 419
F11; sex unknown; no bones recorded; 1.8 m by c. 0.6 m, depth c. 20 cm; uncertain relationship with Graves 40 and 43.

Context 420 (Fig. 457)
Pot found by quarryman who reported to Castle Museum that it contained cremated bone but had been emptied before it was seen at Museum and contents discarded. Found outside area of excavation in either G8 or H8.

Find:
A. Pot, complete; fabric Ia; grooved linear decoration with three pairs of raised bosses and stamps VIIb.

Context 421 (Fig. 457)
Pot and cremated human sub-adult or adult bone found by quarryman in either G8 or H8.

Find:
A. Pot, base and lower part surviving, no rim or shoulder; fabric Ia.

Context 422
G8; group of potsherds and cremated human bone on surface of Grave 19. Cremation represents a juvenile and an adult.

Finds:
A. Pot, one-third surviving, no rim; diameter c. 23 cm at shoulder; fabric Ic (not illus.).
B. Potsherd; sooted exterior surface; part of same vessel as 5. Aii (q.v.) (not illus.).
C. Potsherd, fabric Ia (not illus.).

Context 423 (Fig. 457)
G8; group of potsherds and cremated human bone, possibly juvenile or sub-adult, on surface of Grave 19.

Finds:
A. Pot, one-third surviving, base and body only; diameter c. 8 cm at base; fabric VIII (not illus.).
B. Fragments of burnt bone pin or needle.

Context 424
G8; group of potsherds on surface of Grave 19.

Finds:
A. Nine potsherds, fabric Ic, some sherds sooted on exterior surfaces; from same vessel as 425.A (not illus.).
B. Potsherd, fabric Ia, probably burnt (not illus.).

Context 425
G8; group of potsherds on surface of gravel.

Finds:
A. Nine potsherds, exterior surfaces sooted; from same vessel as 424.A (q.v.) (not illus.).

Context 426
H9/10; pot and cremated human bone on surface of gravel.

Find:
A. Pot, only half base (diameter c. 5.5 cm) and some body surviving; fabric Ia (not illus.).

Context 427
G8; cremated adult human bone on surface of Grave 19.

Context 428
F10; group of potsherds and cremated human and probably sheep bone on surface of Grave 147.

Finds:
A. Twenty-five potsherds, some basal, mostly body; fabric Ia; some sooting on interior and exterior surfaces (not illus.).

Context 429 (Fig. 457)
F10; group of potsherds on surface of gravel.

Finds:
A. Thirty potsherds, fabric II; grooved linear decoration on some sherds, also raised bosses and stab marks; sooted on both interior and exterior surfaces.

Grave 430 (Fig. 457)
F11; possible infant; depth not recorded.

Grave-goods:
A. Pot, nearly complete, fabric Ia.
B. Potsherd, fabric Ia, probably burnt (not illus.).

Context 431
Late Bronze Age urn containing cremation; individual adult; see Chapter 3, Section I.

Possible Grave 432 (Figs 54 and 457)
E9; possible infant; no bones recorded; very shallow feature cut by Grave 61.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, two-thirds complete; fabric Ib; some sooting on both surfaces.

Grave 433 (Fig. 457)
F5; possible infant; min. 10 cm diam., depth not recorded; fragment of unidentified bone.

Grave-good:
A. Pot, quarter surviving; fabric II; sooting on both surfaces.

Context 434
G16; group of potsherds on gravel surface with probably human cremated bone.

Grave-goods:
A. Fifteen potsherds, one or two basal, rest body; fabric VII (not illus.).

Post-hole 435 (Fig. 105)
F7; probably cut by Grave 146; depth 25 cm.

Possible Grave 436 (Fig. 278)
D9; possible child; no bones recorded; depth 10 cm; cut by Grave 395.

Unassociated finds (Fig. 458)
1. Fragments of silver circular ‘scutiform’ pendant; with punch decoration.
2. Ae annular brooch of hammered sheet with overlapping ends originally soldered; incised and punched decoration; remains of iron pin. From base of quarry face.
3. Part of Ae sheet hook-plate from wrist-clasp; remains of solder and scar indicates position of missing bar; Hines Form B13a. From gravel surface near S edge D7.
4. Iron knife fragments; horn handle (not illus.).
5. Iron knife fragments (not illus.).
6. Part of iron spearhead. From C14.
7. Part of iron spearhead. From F15, perhaps disturbed from Grave 246.
8. Part of iron spearhead (not illus.).
9. Three beads found close together in F16, E of Grave 248.
   i. Two amber
   ii. One red with darker red area.
3. Specialists’ Reports

I. Prehistoric Material

by Frances Healy
(Fig. 459; Tables 3-4)

With the exception of a Bronze Age cremation exposed in the quarry face (Context 431), all prehistoric material was residual, and takes the form of struck flint and small, abraded sherds. Most came from the north-centre of the excavated area, but there was no strong concentration.

Struck Flint

Worked flint is summarized in Table 3. Selected pieces are illustrated in Figure 459 and described in the catalogue below. Blade is used in the visual sense of a relatively narrow, parallel-sided flake (e.g. F2, F4, F5).

Some chronological division is possible:

Palaeolithic

F1, F2 and, less certainly, three other blades or blade fragments (from Contexts 24 and 404 and unstratified), have the dulled surfaces, blurred arrises, and damaged edges of flakes rolled in gravel. They are most readily seen as Palaeolithic material incorporated into the terrace on which the cemetery lies.

Mesolithic

F6, an obliquely-blunted point, is a microlith of a form current throughout the Mesolithic (Mellars 1974, 89-91), although its basal retouch suggests a later rather than an earlier date. It is unclear how much other Mesolithic material is present. Some blades, like F5, are so small that they seem most likely to have been struck during the production of blanks for microliths, but continuity of knapping practice from later Mesolithic to earlier Neolithic (Pitts 1978) makes attribution of the one blade core (F3) and most of the many blades (e.g. F4) imprecise. An excess of blades over flakes (Table 3) may partly be due to differential recovery. Even if the high frequency of blades is exaggerated, it suggests that the bulk of the collection is Mesolithic or earlier Neolithic in date, since blade-production fell off in later periods (Pitts 1978). In this respect the Morning Thorpe material resembles the larger collection from Tasburgh Camp (Site 2258), 2.5 km downstream to the north-west (Healy forthcoming).

Neolithic

F7 is probably a fragmentary scale-flaked knife or a broken and unfinished single-piece arrowhead. In either case, a Neolithic or Early Bronze Age date would be appropriate. F8 lacks one end but tapers so much in longitudinal section that it must almost certainly have come to a thin cutting edge. In this case it would be classifiable as a chisel, especially as there is battering on its surviving, thicker end. Most flint chisels are stray finds. Some indication of date and affinities may be given by the contexts of end-polished examples from Yorkshire, two of which were found in pits with Grooved Ware (Manby 1974, 11, 74; figs. 3:17, 31:1), and another in a ‘hoard’ of finely-worked later Neolithic implements (Manby 1974, 90; Thorpe and Richards 1984, 71).

Table 3 Struck flint

Pottery

Prehistoric pottery is summarized in Table 4. Selected sherds are illustrated in Figure 459 and described in the catalogue below.

Indeterminate

The indeterminate prehistoric sherds are externally orange to buff in colour, sometimes with grey or black cores and interiors. All are flint- or flint- and sand-tempered, except for one sherd from Context 396, which contains flint and grog. The finer, harder examples approach the fabric of P2, an Early Iron Age bowl (Fig. 459); others are coarser and softer. All are comparable with local prehistoric fabrics of Iron Age or earlier date.

?Earlier Neolithic

P1 is likely to have formed part of an earlier Neolithic bowl. Its expanded, slightly beaded rim can be matched among plain bowls from Spong Hill, North Elmham (Site 1012). Its vacuous fabric (see Catalogue) corresponds to those of a minority of the pots in contemporary East Anglian assemblages, such as that from Hurst Fen, Mildenhall, Suffolk (Longworth 1960, 228).

Bronze Age

A Bronze Age burial (431) was exposed in the quarry face approximately 50 m beyond the north-west corner of the excavated area (Fig. 4). Observed in section, it consisted of a straight-sided, flat-bottomed pit with a primary fill of...
grey flinty soil and a secondary fill of black soil and charcoal. The secondary fill surrounded an upright Bucket Urn which contained black soil and cremated bone. The urn was recovered in fragments from below the quarry face, from which it had fallen, and is already published (Lawson 1980, 275, 292, fig. 5:E). It is of heavily-groffed fabric and barrel-like profile, decorated with oblique finger-nail impressions on the rim-top and with a row of perforations beneath it. Its form and decoration are most readily paralleled among sherds from midden deposits in the top of the 1972 shaft at Grime’s Graves, Weeting with Broomhill (Site 5640; Longworth 1981, fig: 24:P23-35), charcoal from which has been dated to 3084±44 bp (1134±44 bc, BM-1097).

Iron Age

P2 is a fragment of an Early Iron Age bowl. Its fabric and finger-tip decoration would appear to relate it to West Harling (Site 6019; Clark and Fell 1953), but neither the form nor the internal decoration occurs there.

Catalogue of illustrated prehistoric pottery (Fig. 459)

P1. Expanded, slightly beaded rim sherd, with horizontal smoothing marks, probably of Neolithic Bowl; vacuous, with some sand temper; hard, medium-textured; buff-brown (Munsell 5YR 4/2) throughout; (148.Q).

P2. Early Iron Age bowl; flint-tempered, with some sand; hard, coarse-textured; interior and uppermost 1 cm of exterior grey-buff (Munsell 5YR 4/1), core dark grey (Munsell 5YR 3/1), remainder of exterior buff-orange (Munsell 5YR 6/4); (15.A).

Comment

Evidence for intermittent prehistoric activity is frequent, if not ubiquitous, on the sands and gravels of the river valleys which cross the central East Anglian boulder clay (Healy 1984, 97-8 and forthcoming). The Morning Thorpe material, scanty as it is, underlines the extent to which the lighter soils formed on these deposits were occupied by earlier populations.

II. A Note on the Roman Brooches (Table 5)

by D.F. Mackreth

Introduction

Eleven ‘Roman’ brooches were recovered from graves at Morning Thorpe, in addition to two gem stones (86.Dv, 384.Bi) and several coins pierced for suspension (e.g. Grave 73.B). A list of these brooches appears in Table 5 below.

Table 4 Prehistoric and ?prehistoric pottery (totals are number of sherds except for 431)

Table 5 ‘Roman’ brooches from graves

There is seemingly no difficulty in assigning brooches 5-9 to the Roman period, as coiled terminals were in use before the Roman conquest (Partridge 1981, 136, fig. 72, 56; Jackson and Ambrose 1978, 220, fig. 57, 9) and also occur in the middle of the first century AD (Hawkes and Hull 1947; Brailsford 1962; Cumiliffe 1971) as well as later. The line of evolution has been charted by Elizabeth Fowler (1960, 152, fig. 1) who cautiously concluded that their time span was ‘1 B.C.-Anglo-Saxon Graves’ (p. 175).

Table 5 ‘Roman’ brooches from graves

Saxon grave assemblages often contain complete and useable, or broken and scrap Roman brooches (see Fowler 1960, 174-6, passim, for example), so that it is not surprising to find these artefacts at Morning Thorpe. However, there are some unusual aspects to this particular assemblage.

It has been argued that the selection of specific types of Roman object casually collected from a defunct site will represent a rough balance of what was likely to have been there (e.g. West 1985, 167), but the proportion of penannulars from Morning Thorpe is extremely high by comparison with a ‘normal’ Roman brooch assemblage. Secondly, five of the nine penannular brooches are made of iron. This is most unusual for Roman brooches later than c.150 AD. It is also the writer’s impression that iron brooches of any kind are rare in Saxon contexts, and the present form is not common even in copper alloy.

The typology and chronological associations of such brooches is problematical but the evidence from Morning Thorpe, and elsewhere (such as Barnsley Park (Webster and Smith 1982, 144-5, fig. 37, 162) and Lydney Park (Wheeler and Wheeler 1932, 79, fig. 14, 28-9), Glouce., and Verulamium, Herts. (Freer 1984, 31, fig. 9, 55)), combines to suggest that rectangular-sectioned rings with curled over, upturned ends, at least, should be dated to the late Roman period at the earliest.

Brooch No. 10 is clearly not Roman as far as period of manufacture is concerned. There are no exact parallels for this item and, on present evidence, it cannot be assigned to the late Roman period (Fowler 1963), nor to a date late in the Early Saxon period, but would appear to belong somewhere in between.

The disc brooch (No. 11) is likely to be purely Anglo-Saxon, in terms of both its design and manufacture and tempting though it may be, there can be no association with the last surviving type of Romano-British plate brooch (e.g. Hinchliffe and Green 1985, 44; fig. 28,5) which had passed out of use by the fourth century. These gilded disc brooches do, however, occur quite frequently in Saxon graves although the later Crossbows are a very great rarity on any Saxon site (e.g. West 1985, fig. 21A, 2: 'whistle?').

The Morning Thorpe 'Roman' brooches pose some interesting questions with regard to dating. There is not room here to develop these, possibly contentious, ideas but they will be discussed more fully in a later report where Roman brooches from Anglo-Saxon cemeteries in East Anglia will be considered in detail.

III. Report on the Lyre Remains from Grave 97
(Figs 460-3; Pl. XXII)
by Graeme Lawson

Of the pieces of wood and metal scattered around Grave 97, two bear features that suggest the distinct possibility of a musical identification, as parts of the arms of an Anglo-Saxon lyre, perhaps the most fragment. 7 so far recognised. Although one is very poorly preserved, enough remains to show it to have exactly mirrored the structure of the other (97.H-I). Each comprises a short segment from a longer piece of wood, into the face of which the end of a thinner, matching, sheet has been rebated. In both cases this covering sheet terminates obliquely, surmounted by a different, divergent structure (Fig. 463a). Such forms, in a parallel alignment as elsewhere, could suggest a quite different, divergent structure (Fig. 463a). Such forms, though familiar from later illustrations, such as the ninth-century David scene at Masham, N. Yorkshire (Bailey 1972; Lawson 1981) and also known from the remains of the eighth-century Cologne instrument, have not yet been attested at so early a date in any Insular archaeological context. 8

The second point arises from their possible contribution to our still limited knowledge of the numbers, distribution and, in particular, the social standings of instrumental musicians in Anglo-Saxon England. The position of the remains in the grave and the relatively modest scale of the rest of the surviving grave-goods contrast with those from the better known, lavishly furnished, royal and aristocratic graves at Sutton Hoo and Taplow, Buckinghamshire (Bruce-Mitford 1970). There, the location of each instrument was distinctly peripheral, recalling the role of hearpe- playing among the varied accomplishments of early kings and noblemen, such as Hrogar (Beowulf 2501-2114). Here the relationship between man and instrument is far more intimate, and the instrument itself of much more central significance in the layout of the grave. So far only two other such instances have been recorded from Anglo-Saxon cemetery excavations. At Saxton Road, Abingdon, Oxfordshire, the adolescent male burial B42 was furnished with both a lyre and a fine fifth-century sword and fittings, although even there the remains of the instrument lay only by his feet (Leeds and Harden 1936; Bruce-Mitford 1970; 1983). At Bergh Apton, on the other hand, although the closer relationship is again represented, no trace of weaponry was recorded, an absence paralleled in only one of the four recorded continental graves (Cologne P100). In both of the musicians’ graves at Oberflacht, Württemberg, and possibly also the horsemans’ grave at Broa i Halla, Gotland, the association of warrior and instrument found at Morning Thorpe is again attested (Veeck 1931, 20, 296-7; Salin 1922, 205; Andersson 1930, 175; Reimers 1980). Whether, however, this apparent distinction implies the existence of two separate classes of instrumental musician, either in East Anglia or elsewhere in north-western Europe during the early medieval period, it is still too early to tell.

Endnotes
1. In a comprehensive survey of all the miscellaneous Morning Thorpe finds, carried out in July 1976, two other graves (152 and 178) were found to contain small copper alloy river-plates bearing some resemblance to the paired plates surmounting the principal structural joints of the Bergh Apton instrument (152.A-C; 178.Ji-ii) but in each case neither morphological nor contextual similarity was sufficiently close to lend particular support to such an interpretation.
2. The figure of 65° applies only to the remains as they stand at present; estimates of lateral shrinkage since deposition of between 28 and 33% would suggest an original angle of 71-73°.
3. The instrument shown on a small patch on a sixth-century metal bowl (now lost) from Gilton, Kent (Bruce-Mitford 1970, 12, fig. 3) may be of this type, but the illustration is too crude and stylised to be relied upon in this connexion.

VI. Textiles
(Fig. 467; Table 9; Pls XIX-XXI)
by Elisabeth Crowfoot with fibre identifications by H. M. Appleyard and dye tests by Penelope Walton

Introduction
Preservation of textile evidence at Morning Thorpe had originally been more extensive than in many cemeteries, but the very difficult conditions of excavation, lack of bones, and multiple burials in some graves, complicated the picture.

In most fragments preserved, the fibres had been replaced by metal oxides; the actual textile areas were brittle and deteriorated, so that even in these fibre identification was almost impossible. Unfortunately, after early examination of some material from sixty graves, while excavation was still taking place, the rest of the fragments were not seen until they had been cleaned off the grave-goods and, though they had been carefully kept for study, they had inevitably been damaged in removal. Notes had been taken by the conservators, and some thread counts recorded by them suggest that sizeable areas (i.e. of more than 1.0 cm²) had survived, as in a number of previously examined pieces, but no overall measurements were given.

Fibres, spinning and dyeing
Fourteen samples were examined by H. M. Appleyard (Table 9) but probable identification of fibre was only possible in ten of these: animal fibre (in these contexts almost certainly sheep’s wool) in six cases and vegetable fibre (possibly flax) in four. The appearance of some fragile white fibres, which did not stand removal, also suggested flax (Graves 25.Aii, 30.Nb).

As in most late 6th- to 7th-century burials, spinning was predominantly Z, with mixed spinning (Z one system, S the other) present in only twenty-five textiles: four tabbies, twenty twills and one tablet-weave. Where mixed spinning is used it often indicates a patterned weave, and possibly the use of two colours, as in one broken-diamond twill at Sutton Hoo, where the probable use of blue warps in one area would have helped to throw up the pattern (Crowfoot, E. 1983, 421-3 (M.C. Whiting 465)).

Dye analysis was attempted on some tiny fragments from a braid preserved in wrist-clasps (360.Ji-ii; P. Walton, below, Appendix), where the use of red and purple, or of two different red dyes, was indicated. Blue (or green) was also visible to the eye in this tablet-braid but samples could not be taken without destroying the pattern-weaving evidence (see below).

Weaving
The weaves follow the usual Anglo-Saxon range of tabby (plain weave), three-shed and four-shed twills, including broken diamond patterns, and tablet-weaves in several interesting varieties. In spite of the small areas surviving in many cases, it is clear that the standard of textile production was good and the large majority of pieces come from well-spun and well-woven fabrics.

Tabby weaves

Of the four possible tabbies with mixed spinning (22.Ci, 50.G, 346.C (Pl. XIX), 416.Dii), none have enough preserved, or are sufficiently clear, to show if there were groups of S and Z threads forming checks or stripes, as found in examples from Essex and the south (Crowfoot, E. 1985b, 15-16). One weave, with coarse Z warp threads almost concealing the S weft system, perhaps comes from a man's belt (416.Dii). Z and S thread on an iron ring (90.Bl) seem to indicate a fine tape wound round the object, but the weave is not clear.

The quality of spinning, rather higher counts, and tight folds in some S-zip spun tabbies, suggest that these may originally have been flax (see particularly 146.A,B, 153.C, 173.B, 253.P, 359.A and 376.H). The remainder of the tabbies are medium grade weaves. In one example (218.A), some noticeably coarse threads in the weft of an otherwise even tabby on a spearhead, might indicate decoration, perhaps a stripe in thicker, or different coloured, thread, as suggested in the textile covering of a bucket from Portway, Andover, Hants (Crowfoot, E. 1985c, 102, pl.xvi).

Twill weaves

Only two three-shed twills could be clearly identified (376.H and 384.Li), the passage of the threads showing clearly on both at broken edges. Notes made by the conservators suggested a few more examples but some had not survived sufficiently well to be confirmed. This weave, not found in northern Europe before the Viking period, has been recorded from a number of Anglo-Saxon sites, particularly in the east and north-east of England (Crowfoot, G.M. 1952, 190; Crowfoot, E. 1966, 29; 1978, 104-5; 1981, 98; 1983, 438-42; 1984, 18; 1985a, 53).

Of the four-shed twills, eighty-three probable examples have Z-spinning in both systems, while only twenty have mixed spinning (normally Z warp, S weft in Anglian material). In sixteen of these (thirteen Z/Z, three Z/S), reverses in the direction of the diagonals still visible in one or both thread systems indicate that these had chevron or broken diamond patterns, constructions particularly well suited to the warp-weighted loom (Hoffmann 1964, 187-93) and found on many Anglo-Saxon sites (Crowfoot, G.M. 1951, 30-2; Crowfoot, E. 1967, 21, 37-8; 1969, 51; 1976, 29-30; 1978, 103-5; 1981, 97; 1983, 418-24; 1984, 18; 1985a, 52-3). The clear areas are small at Morning Thorpe (Fig. 467, a, b) and these figures may not give a true picture of the proportion of patterned weaves worn. Many of the twill fragments are only large enough to show a few threads of the characteristic diagonal construction. In northern weaving, chevron reverses can be very widely spaced (Crowfoot, E. 1983, 371, 425-6); diamonds can be very large (Ganton Wold, Yorkshire); or there can be large areas of diagonals between groups of broken diamonds (Kempston, Beds., Grave 71; Hald 1980, 89); or at the beginning or end of a weave (Crowfoot, E. 1984, 18, 20).

One possible patterned twill was probably of flax (369.Bi-ii), which was perhaps more used in this type of weave for furnishings than for garments, judging by pillows at Sutton Hoo, in the ship burial and in Mound 4 Tumulus (Crowfoot, E. 1983, 460, 466), and the covering of buckets in graves at Finglestham (Kent) and Mucking, Essex. Perhaps, lying against the wrist-clasp near the waist, the Grave 369 weave may have come from an item such as a bag.

Tablet weaves

Tablet weave, a technique particularly well represented in East Anglian cemeteries, can be used in two ways: as borders to the cloth, made during the weaving, or as braids, woven separately and sewn as decoration to the edges on garments, such as necks, wrists and hems. Both types can be identified at Morning Thorpe. The woven borders, that is the starting-border (an important feature in weaving on the warp-weighted loom (Hoffmann 1964, 151-83)), the side selvedges and the end border, can be used to produced a finished cloak or blanket and are preserved with minimum cutting and sewing in the earliest form of the man's tunic (Englehardt 1863, pl. 1) and probably in a peplos-type overgown in the Anglo woman's dress (Owen-Crocker 1986, 28-39; see also below). The borders are generally simple but very strong and solid, woven on 4-hole tablets (Henshall 1959, 18-20; Hoffmann 1964, 153-4; Crowfoot, E. 1967, 37-8; 1983, 468-70; 1986, 18, 20; Hald 1980, figs 48, 53-69).

Among the twenty-three remains of tablet-weave recognisable at Morning Thorpe, seven fragments probably come from weave borders, varying in width preserved from five to ten 4-hole twists; one may belong to a twill (253.P); the two best preserved are on tabby weaves (140.H, 376.H, Fig. 467, f). Similar regular 4-hole weaves, undecorated except, perhaps, by the use of coloured threads, have been used for separately made sleeve-end bands found in wrist-clasps (Crowfoot, G.M. 1951, 27-8; 1952, 189-91) but twists like these are always found giving a strong edge to more decorative weaves, and the smaller scraps could have come either from weave borders or braids.

Nine of the braid fragments show probable pattern techniques. Two, as far as can be seen, can be identified as in the 'double-faced 3/1 broken twill' weave used for the complicated animal patterns of early, well-preserved, Scandinavian braids (Hougen 1935, pls xiii.2, xvii.4; Collingwood 1982, 282/f). The patterns in these were also highly coloured and in two Morning Thorpe bands colours were originally visible. In that from wrist-clasps Ki-ii, Ji-ii, from Grave 358 (unfortunately lost during cleaning), the regular edge twists were recorded as blue and white and the few twill pattern twists surviving, blue and red-purple, with red-purple wefts. In the wrist-clasp Ji-ii from Grave 360, the edge twists are missing but the same colours were probably present. Characteristic pattern meetings of the weave, horizontal and diagonal, blue (or green) and white (or yellow), are clear on two tiny fragments (Fig. 467, e) and the weft and other broken-off warp threads were red or purple (see Appendix, below). Tiny remains of four other braids may also be of this type; they are clearly not straightforward 4-hole twists, but splitting and deterioration make the passage of the very fine threads difficult to follow.

Three other fragments, all in brooches, are in techniques using threads in only two holes of the tablets in the pattern areas. That in Grave 334.B is no longer clear but, when originally seen, was described as in the same 2-hole weave as a flax braid from Wakerley, Northants (grave 78) and some Scandinavian examples (Hald 1980, 230; Collingwood 1982, 163); the others are in techniques that have not, so far, been recorded from East Anglian contexts. On a pair of annular brooches from Grave 208 (B and C), scraps of the 4-hole border survive and the centre twists, all S, are in a 2-hole weave in which for many picks alternate cords are not twined, so that the S-ply wefts are visible in a pattern that must have been in contrasting colours (Fig. 467, d; Collingwood 1982, pls 85, 86, 165-7). The rather untidy back of the weave with its longer floats can be seen on the underside of one brooch, suggesting that the braid was sewn to the edge of the garment (not overlapping it) as in Scandinavian examples (Hougen 1935, pls xvi-xviii) and a fragment from Mucking, Essex (grave 814/2). In Grave 358, on an annular brooch (A), a narrow braid with fine 4-hole edges has a centre in which the two-strand warp twining has frequent reversals in which, again, the wefts show, giving almost the effect of a lattice pattern (Fig. 467, c; Collingwood 1982, 159, fig. 105).

Three selvedges preserved are tubular constructions (Fig. 467, g), a hard-wearing type which appears early in the north (Hald 1980, 154-9) and is found in other Anglo-Saxon cemeteries (Crowfoot, E. 1978, 104, 106; 1981, 96-8; 1983, 473-4; 1985a, 52-3). The clear examples here are on twills (368.A, Fig. 467; 378.L, M) and a possible example on a tabby (90.A). On one tiny fragment (337.Mc) the close threads of one system suggest the packing of warps before a simple selvedge but no loops have survived and the textile remains are crushed and confused by scraps with impressions of leaf fragments.

In eleven graves, coarse threads are, in most cases, probably bead threads; Z-spun, often in groups, on the pins or pin attachments of brooches (90.A, 140.I, 328.B, 384.F), in one case a solid flax thread (353.S), in another a bunch of 6-7 threads bound round with a paired Z thread (317.C), and occasionally loose Z, S ply (346.B, 360.E). The very solid threads round the ring of keys in Grave 376 (G) may have been used to tie them together, or to the belt. Sewing threads can be seen in a few places; perhaps the extra, coarser, thread run across a broken diamond pattern (384.G), a knot and stitch across four threads (129.A) and, on a buckle, a folded edge with one long sewing stitch, perhaps from a hem (284.A).

Leather

Some leather details are well preserved. Belt fragments are present on buckles in five graves, three female (353.K, 369.T and 384.G, a child), one male (398.B) and one unsexed (414.Bi). One shows clearly the cut end of the belt on the back of the plate (353.K). The use of soft leather strips on the sleeve ends of the woman's underdress, as a strong but rather inferior substitute for the rich tablet-woven braids, is represented here in the wrist-clasps of Grave 312 (Ei-ii); similar remains have been found in cemeteries in Lincolnshire, Suffolk and East Yorkshire (Welbeck's Hill, Irby, Lincs (unpubl.); Thomas 1887, 383-406; Lethbridge 1931, 14, 42, 80; Crowfoot, E. 1985a, 53). A double layer of leather underneath a ring with keys in Grave 407 (D) suggests that a bag hung at the woman's waist, against the rather loose twill of her gown.

In three male graves, the shield-grips are covered with cut strips of leather, the ends stretched and held by nails, with other strips interlaced in tabby weave going round the grip. Remains of a layer of textile, replaced by the metal underneath the leather, could have been extra padding to provide a comfortable hand-hold (1.Cii, 126.Aii (Pl. XX), 225.Bii; Figs 467). The same treatment is found in a grave at Westgarth Gardens, Bury St. Edmunds (Grave 41; Crowfoot, E., forthcoming).

Clothing

Evidence of women's garments from remains on metal goods has been discussed in other cemetery reports (Crowfoot, E. 1981, 99; 1984, 19; 1985a, 53-4) and in a recent study of Anglo-Saxon costume (Owen-Crocker 1986), all pointing towards the continuance of a peplos-style gown, held by a pair of brooches on the shoulders and with a long-sleeved underdress. Both garments seem to have been made of fairly solid wool fabrics, the overgown generally twill. Tablet-woven borders and selvedges suggest that, as far as possible, the garments were still made with as little cutting and shaping as possible, the exception being, perhaps, the sleeves of the undergown. These were shaped at the wrist, with the sleeve opening (closed by the wrist-clasps) turned back and sewn, as clearly demonstrated in textile preserved in the clasps at Mildenhall, Suffolk (Crowfoot, G.M. 1952, 190). The position of tubular selvedges in brooches at Morning Thorpe suggests the width of the cloth may have been used as the length in the overgown.

The uniformity of the better twills at Morning Thorpe sometimes confuses interpretation; for example, in Grave 378 where, although only the fragment of twill on the long pin (N) shows reverse, this and the scraps from the brooches and wrist-clasps look as if they could come from the same cloth. Familiarity with the style of dress, however, suggests three different garments, with probably only the cloak in a patterned twill. The one fine tabby caught on a brooch (M) perhaps comes from the woman's head-covering. With weaving practised either in the family, or communally in the settlement, the similarity in the double Grave 358 of the rather open tabby weaves on brooches A, Bi (overgown, female 1), and on brooch Qi, further west (presumably one of the pair belonging to the second female burial), and of the twill weaves used for the sleeves in both pairs of of wrist-clasps is perhaps to be expected. The fine coloured braids on the neck and cuffs of female 1 seem to point to her superior importance but very little survives of the braid in wrist-clasps (Mi-i, Ri-i) associated with the second burial. The other twills perhaps come from a cloak (key Ci and buckle F), and the single fine twill fragment on the front of brooch Bi perhaps, again, from a head-covering.

Textile preservation in male graves gives little information about costume. In Grave 157, if the broken diamond twill on back and front of buckle G represents the man's tunic, a good tabby weave, lying underneath this, has marks suggesting that it lay against his skin (i.e. it was probably his shirt). In Grave 367 a fine, even twill could come from the tunic and the patterned tablet weave from the belt. Other fragments on buckles and brooches, again probably come from tunics and cloaks, though it is possible that their presence on upper surfaces indicates that the cloak, or a blanket, was laid over the whole burial. Most of the remains naturally come from the larger metal surfaces and suggest that arms and tools were probably wrapped: spearheads, some in noticeably coarse fabrics (including one (218.A) possibly striped); shields, where the cloth is replaced on the hand-grip or boss and smaller objects such as knives and a key. The bucket in Grave 218 (Di) had clearly been covered with a cloth, as had the bronze cauldron in Grave 200 (Ai; sex uncertain), a practice found in both male and female graves in other cemeteries (e.g. Finglesham, Kent, graves 203-4; Crowfoot, E. 1976a, 71; 1985c, 102).

Appendix: Tests for dyes on a braid from wrist-clasp J (Grave 360) by Penelope Walton Samples from warp and weft were submitted separately to dye analysis. The technique used was solvent extraction followed by absorption spectrophotometry (U.V.-Visible, using the Visible light source).

Both samples weighed less than 0.5 mg, as compared with the 10-30 mg usually used for dye tests; there was, therefore, only a slight hope of detecting dye. Nevertheless, a trace of dye was found in both samples, although in too small a concentration to allow complete identification.

The behaviour of the dye from the weft was comparable with that of the red mordant dyes; madder and kermes are the most likely candidates. The warp threads seem to have been dyed with a purple, or possibly red, dye (but not, in this case, madder or kermes).
The abbreviation 'replaced' is used for 'fibres replaced by metal oxides'. The spinning direction is indicated by the letters Z and S, the probable warp thread being placed first. Overall measurements of best fragments are given in cm, and weave counts in threads per cm, except where otherwise stated. a, b, etc. indicate probable different fabrics.

VII. Report on the Skeletal Material (Tables 10-11)
by Jacqueline I. Mckinley

As a result of the acidic nature of the gravels on which the site was located (see Chapter 1, above), bone was recovered from only thirty-two per cent of the graves recorded. The surviving bone was in poor condition and tooth roots were generally destroyed, with only the crowns remaining. Bone preservation had occurred where copper alloy was located next to a bone and much green staining was noted. Over fifty-five per cent of the collections had less than 10 g of bone, only thirteen per cent having more than 100 g surviving.

Age
The survival of the tooth crowns made it possible to assess the ages of ninety-four individuals (using Brothwell's tooth wear table (1972, 69)). The results are presented in Table 10. As a sample, this probably represents the age at death of the population generally, the majority of individuals apparently dying young, i.e. before 25 yrs. Only one individual of over 35 yrs was identified. Identities are included under the appropriate Catalogue entry above.

Table 10: Age at death

Sex
Only fourteen of the adult individuals could be sexed from sexually dimorphic traits of the skull, all pelvic bone having been destroyed (in the Catalogue most burials are sexed on the basis of the grave-goods, see Note on the Catalogue, Chapter 2, Section I, above). Such a small sample precludes any demographic comment.

Pathology
Noted pathology was limited due to the condition of the bone, the majority being observed in the teeth crowns. Details are provided in Table 11 (microfiche). Over ten per cent of the individuals from which teeth remained displayed one or more hyperplastic lines, usually on several teeth and, at times, most pronounced. These lines are indicative of periods of ill health or hunger experienced during infancy/early childhood, sufficiently severe to halt the development of unerupted teeth for a time. Many of the collections of teeth are incomplete and, therefore, affected teeth may be missing. However, some reflection of the state of health of the population in childhood is shown by this sample.

Over seven per cent of the teeth collections had some tartar deposits, usually on several teeth and some quite heavy. No caries were noted.

Only one incidence of probable trauma was found; the loss of three anterior mandibular teeth, probably as the result of a blow to the face, either by accident or design (288).

The remaining pathology consisted of morphological variations in the skull (27), anterior mandible (253 and 288) and teeth. Such traits may be of genetic basis but, due to the incomplete nature of the material, it would be difficult to draw any conclusions. It may be worth noting, however, that, of the third molars remaining, thirty per cent vary from the normal morphology, including over ten per cent of the mandibular third molars with a five cusp variation (as first molar form).

Cremated material
Twenty-five collections of burnt/cremated bone were made; four of these being animal only. Of those remaining, nine collections were of only a few grams of bone. These were recognisable as human but insufficient for each to be considered a discrete ‘cremation’ and probably represented scatters from elsewhere, or possibly some kind of ‘token’ deposits. Seven collections could be classified as cremations (175, 222, 250, 385, 411, 422 and 428). All except one were of single individuals, 422 being that of a juvenile and adult. Three included burnt animal bone. Cremation deposit No. 411 is now missing.

Full analysis of the human remains is available in archive.

East Anglian Archaeology is a serial publication sponsored by the Scole Archaeological Committee Ltd. The Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex Units, the Norwich Survey and the Fenland Project will all be contributing volumes to the series. It will be the main vehicle for publishing final reports on archaeological excavations and surveys in the region.

Copies and information about the contents of all volumes can be obtained from:
Centre of East Anglian Studies,
University of East Anglia,
Norwich, NR4 7TJ or directly from the Archaeology Unit publishing a particular volume.
