

Surrey in Periodical Literature 1985

Compiled by J WHITE

Articles on Surrey or including Surrey interest have been published during 1985 in the periodicals and series listed below. Articles in periodicals and publications specifically devoted to Surrey have been excluded.

Archaeological Journal

- 142 The application of phosphate analysis to the location and interpretation of archaeological sites, by P T Craddock and others, 361-76

Archaeology

- 37 (4) Recovering the past, bit by bit, with microcomputers, by David V M Stephen and Douglas B Craig, 20-6

Journal of the Garden History Society

- 13 (1) Preparation of a landscape garden: Charles Hamilton's sowing of grass at Painshill, by Michael Symes, 4-8

London Archaeologist

- 5 (1) Getting a handle on medieval Pottery, by Jacqui Pearce, 17-23
5 (2) Excavation round-up, by Beth Richardson, 47-52
5 (3) Excavation round-up, by Beth Richardson, 63-67
5 (4) Parasite egg survival and identification from Hibernia Wharf, Southwark, by Clare de Rouffignac, 103-6

Open Space

- 22 (4) Surrey shockers, 11-13

Oxford Journal of Archaeology

- 4 Neolithic and Bronze Age settlement on the buried floodplains of Runnymede, by Stuart Needham, 125-37

Popular Archaeology

- 6 (5) The Grotto: a whimsical little object (Painshill Park, Cobham, Surrey, 1750s), by Lesley Howes and Jane Ward, 15-25

Southern History

- 6 Land, technology and water management in the Tillingbourne Valley, Surrey 1560-1760, by P F Brandon, 75-103

Spink Numismatic Circular

92 Yet another surprise from the Haslemere hoard, by Robert D van Arsdell, 216–7

Transactions of the London and Middlesex Archaeological Society

35 The Lethieullier tomb at Clapham, by Sarah Markham, 135–48