Downland Settlement and Land-use
The Archaeology of the Brighton Bypass

Edited by David Rudling

with contributions from Luke Barber, Alex Bayliss, Maureen Bennell, Guy Beresford, John Funnell, Mark Gardiner, Christopher Greatorex, Ian Greig, Sue Hamilton, Jane Russell, Miles Russell and Keith Wilkinson This monograph is dedicated to the memory of Herbert Samuel Toms (1874–1940)

who worked at Brighton Museum from 1896 to 1939, was the principal instigator in the founding in 1906 of the Brighton and Hove Archaeological Club (later Society) and was a pioneer of chalkland landscape archaeology. Frequently the Brighton Bypass Archaeology Project was able to make good use of Toms’ excellent fieldwork and research.
