

APPENDIX 1, KNOWN ARCHAEOLOGICAL AND HISTORICAL SITES

The locations of known historical and archaeological sites within and close to the study area are listed below. This information is derived from the National Monument Record and the North Yorkshire Sites and Monuments Record. Each site within the NMR is identified by a "unique identifier" and where applicable the equivalent record number in the SMR is also provided (these all have NYM as a prefix). Additionally there sites which are only recorded in the SMR. It should be noted that there are sites, usually which involve a number of elements, which are recorded slightly differently within the two systems, but effort has been taken to list all the relevant identifying numbers from both systems which are associated with any site.

There are three sites which have Scheduled Monument protection and one Listed Historic Garden which is also a part of the site with World Heritage Site status. The full areas covered by this protection within the study area are mapped (see Fig. 1).

Some of the sites have a statutory listed status and these will also be recorded in the full list of listed buildings see Appendix 3.

Listed Historic Gardens

85. Studley Royal, GD 1376

Fountains Abbey was one of the richest religious houses in England, following the Dissolution the buildings and some of the land was sold to Richard Gresham, who later sold them to Stephen Proctor. After several more changes of ownership the Abbey ruins and Fountains Hall were acquired by the Messenger family who sold them to William Aislebie. The principal entrance is from the west side of Ripon, south of Bishopton Bridge. A track leads south west through a finger of parkland to East Ripon Lodge (listed grade II*).

Studley Royal Park (NMR UI 51924) NGR SE 283 696

The Archbishops of York had formed a park at Ripon, and the existing park at Studley Royal is in the immediate neighbourhood and appears on Saxton's Survey of 1577. The present park was developed from an earlier park owned by the Mallories in the 17th century, but no ground evidence exists to delineate an earlier enclosure. This was landscaped by John Aislebie, but following the fire which burnt Studley Hall in 1716 a major reorganisation of the landscape. Central to Aislebie's scheme was an enhancement of the River Skell. The valley sides were lowered and the bottom raised and canalised. On the east side of the canal a circular pond flanked by two crescent ponds (Moon and Crescent Ponds) were constructed.

Fountains Abbey which includes the monastic precinct, a mill, water management works, agricultural and industrial features and an 18th century water garden is also a Scheduled Monument (no. 26930).

National Monument Records (with unique identifying numbers) and North Yorkshire Sites and Monuments Records (with identifying numbers with the prefix NYM) see Figures 7 and 8.

Chapels and Hospitals

26. Unique identifier: 53724 John the Baptist's Hospital SE 3136 7085

Founded in 1109-1114 by Archbishop Thomas II for the poor and not suppressed. It was replaced by the Mission Room in the 19th century, and nothing survives above ground of the hospital.

NMR 19762, Medieval hospital (St John's)

27. Unique identifier: 53758 St Mary Magdalens Hospital Chapel SE 3172 7178
Grade I listed building, descheduled in 1995
The chapel of the hospital founded by Archbishop Thurstan (1114-40) with the chapel dating from shortly after the foundation. The south doorway is of 12th century date but otherwise the chapel is substantially 15th century in date. It is constructed of hammer-dressed limestone with a low pitched roof hidden by the parapet. The Hospital of St Mary Magdalene is slightly later than that of St John, but this chapel is the only complete fragment of any of Ripon's medieval hospitals to survive.
27. NYM 19774 Medieval Hospital Chapel, St Mary Magdalen SE 31727178
27. NYM 19775 Medieval Hospital, St Mary Magdalen SE 317717

River Crossings

40. Unique identifier: 53779 Medieval ford and bridge SE 3145 7096
The remains of this ford are visible as a partially paved surface c. 4m wide set into the bed of the River Skell. The 1774 (Beckworth) map shows this ford connected with a road across Bondgate Green, then an open space towards Boroughbridge. Parallel with the ford, on the east side a footbridge is shown (names chain bridge on the 1800 map by Humphries). There are no visible remains of this bridge and it and the ford were replaced by the New Bridge.

40. NYM 19783 Early Medieval - Medieval bridge across the Skell near to the New Bridge SE 31457096

40. NYM 19784 Early medieval-medieval ford across the Skell, in the same location as medieval bridge (near to the New Bridge).

Medieval Settlement, outside of Ripon

41. Unique identifier: 52136 site of Studley Parva or North Studley deserted medieval village SE 2820 7230

There is a documentary reference to this vill (or perhaps two vills) in 1285. There are earthworks at Bikby Nab which might represent the village of Studley Parva (Beresford 1953, 235). NMR reports field workers observations in 1962 that earthworks were visible and the land was then under pasture. They note a few stoney banks and a hollow way descending to the river.

Need to have a look

NYM 15240 Deserted settlement, medieval village of Studley Parva

42. Unique identifier: 52133 possible site of Clotherholme deserted medieval village SE 2856 7225

Clotherholme was separately taxed as late as the 1297 Subsidy, but the village was reportedly destroyed by the Scots in 1322. The 1st edition OS map shows "old foundation" at this location (Beresford 1953, 234). These may have been of a manor house at Clotherholme said to have been demolished in the 17th century (Beresford 1953, 61). In 1312 Roger de Cotherholme had licence to found a chantry chapel. The land is under pasture and the NMR reports that field investigation in 1962 reported that earthworks may represent a deserted medieval village (DMV) but also possible that they were caused by the remains of military buildings and practice trenches dug during the 1914-18 war.

43. NYM 15288 Deserted settlement, DMV?, SE 287722

44. Unique identifier: 52139 site of Clotherholme tower SE 2862 7220

Site of medieval Clotherholme tower, now occupied by a modern farm. Antiquarian references to fragments of walling and Tudor masonry still visible at the end of the 19th century but NMR reports field workers noting no above ground remains visible in 1963.

45. Unique identifier: 53750 Medieval turf maze SE 3114 7198

Appendix 2, Archaeological events (investigations)

Archaeological events (investigations) which occur within the study area (overwhelmingly within the historic city of Ripon) are listed here with their identifying numbers. The events recorded by the North Yorkshire SMR have NY as a prefix and those in the NMR have Event UDI as a prefix. Those which are recorded in both databases have an identifying number from both systems. Most of the records and reports from the more modern events have been studied in great detail and the results of the earlier events have been examined by means of published sources. The full excavation details of these events cannot be covered by this report, instead, reference is made to relevant archaeological remains within the period by period analysis, and all of the events are mapped see Figure 10 for Numbers 1-36 and letters A-F form an index to Figure 11.
