

AND THEN THE BATTERY RAN OUT..

July 29, 2011 Hampshire Cultural Trust Day of Archaeology, Day of Archaeology 2011, Finds, Museum
Archaeology, Roman, Science Battery, coin, Coins, Recyclable materials, UK

So after spending an hour this morning working out how to blog, I got down to some work.. First on the list was to begin documenting a selection of 30 Roman coins from Hamble. Twelve coins in and the battery ran out, but I can make a start examining the first ones under the microscope, and writing condition reports. Eventually they will all be cleaned, stabilised, coated, and mounted for display – that's the bit that generally causes the headaches!