

DAY OF ARCHAEOLOGY: LOOKING AT NEW FINDS FROM THE BRONZE AGE, AT THE BRITISH MUSEUM

July 28, 2011 Steven Matthews Day of Archaeology 2011, Education, Finds, Museum Archaeology, Prehistory Archaeology, Britain, British Museum, Bronze Age, Bronze Age Europe, Cultural history, Hoard, Iron Age Europe, London, Portable Antiquities Scheme, specialist, Steve Matthews, United Kingdom

As a specialist in Bronze Age metalwork, I've been invited to the British Museum (London) to examine and write a report on two new hoards of metalwork from the British Late Bronze Age (c. 1300-600 cal. BC) that have recently been found. I have no idea what the finds consist of or where they're from, and I only have 4 hours to work on them.

Like Time Team... but with stuff!

Steve Matthews