

MORNING IN SCOTLAND

July 29, 2011 Badger Community Archaeology, Day of Archaeology 2011, Iron Age Australia, Canada, Celtic culture, East Lothian, fort of Whitecastle, Geography, Lammermuir hills, Manchester, Scotland, United States

After a day of scorching sun, followed by a day of damp rain, we now wake to a day of white cloud. perfect!

The Rampart Scotland fieldschool is into day 4.

18 folk from around the world, Canada, USA, Australia, Manchester , and local volunteers are working on the iron age fort of Whitecastle in the foothills of the Lammermuirs in South East Scotland.

White Castle View

Off to site now, and some survey, erosion checking and digging... I will keep you up to date. But first off, I need to finish my coffee and check my emails. You see, I also run BAJR. ! but that is another story.