

THE ROMANS BECKON

July 11, 2014 Don Henson Day of Archaeology 2014, Education Aldborough, Historic Houses Association, Mesolithic, Romans

Doing a little bit of working writing up some notes on my PhD before heading off to Aldborough later today. I am an education advisor for the Historic Houses Association and will be visiting Aldborough Manor to hear what they have in mind for making greater educational use of the Roman remains they have on their land. From Mesolithic to Roman in one day, 4,000 years in the course of an hour's bus ride. Looking forward to it.
