

WINCHESTER MUSEUMS SERVICE – ARCHAEOLOGY REPORTS

Since 1974, the Archaeology Section of Winchester Museums Service has been responsible for the curation and investigation of the archaeological heritage of the City and its surrounding District. The results of the numerous excavations in the Winchester area, together with associated analyses and research, are being published in a series of academic and popular archaeology reports.

The following reports have already been published:

Academic Reports:

The Brooks, Winchester – a Preliminary Report on the Excavations 1987-88

by G D Scobie, J M Zant & R Whinney, 1991

The report is a preliminary statement about the major discoveries made during archaeological investigations of a site in the town centre, prior to redevelopment

The Brooks, Winchester 1987-88 – The Roman Structural Remains

by J M Zant, 1993

The book details the origins and development of the Roman buildings and associated features discovered at The Brooks, from the middle of the 1st century AD to the early 5th century AD

Popular Booklets:

The Brooks, Winchester – the First Year of the Excavation, 1988

The Story of The Brooks, Winchester – Archaeological Excavations 1987-88, 1990

Nunnaminster – a Saxon and Medieval Community of Nuns. 1993

For further details of these and other Winchester Museums Service publications, contact:

Winchester Museums Service
Historic Resources Centre
75 Hyde Street
Winchester SO23 7DW

tel: 01962 848269
fax: 01962 848299
e-mail: museums@winchester.gov.uk
www.winchester.gov.uk/arts_museums

ORAM'S ARBOUR

THE IRON AGE ENCLOSURE AT WINCHESTER Volume 1: Investigations 1950-1999

Oram's Arbour - the Iron Age enclosure at Winchester Vol 1, 1950-1999

K E Qualman, H Rees, G D Scobie & R Whinney

K E Qualmann, H Rees,
G D Scobie & R Whinney