

XLVII.—A Rental of the antient Principality of Redesdale, copied from an Original Roll in the Possession of William John Charleton, of Hesseleside, Esq., by Mr. R. W. Hodgson, with some Notes by the Rev. John Hodgson, Sec.

* * Redesdale, of which Harbottle Castle was the principal seat, was, at the time of making this survey, in the possession of Thophilus Lord Howard, of Walden, by virtue of a grant from James the First; and the gentlemen who made the rental were, I apprehend, a sort of board or commission, for managing his estates in Northumberland. Sir Henry Widdrington was of Widdrington, and the chief of his family; and Sir Ephraim Widdrington, his uncle, and then proprietor of High Trewhit and East Ritton. All I remember to have seen respecting Edmund Sawyer is, that in 1628 he was a knight, and that, in that year there were writs obtained in Hillary term, both by him and Thophilus, Earl of Suffolk, against different persons in Northumberland. Thomas Atkinson is a name I am quite unacquainted with. This document is not only curious on account of the purposes for which it was made, but as a census of Redesdale, and an enumeration of the persons holding property in each village there, in 1618. Sir Robert Bowes, in 1551, in a report of the state of the marches, had described the country of Redesdale as “overcharged with an excessive number of inhabitants, more by many than the profits of the same may sustain;” and, to a person at all acquainted with this district, a slight inspection of this document will convince him that the same evil was still prevailing here in 1618. Many of the villages and places here enumerated, are now either wholly destroyed or occupied by one tenant.

A RENTALL of the lordshipp of Harbottle renewed before S^r. Henry Witherington knight, S^r. Ephraim Witherington knight, S^r Wiffm Selby knight, Edmond Sawyer, esq^r., & Thomas Atkinson gent., the xxvth day of August 1618 as followeth.

* This place, in other parts of this document. is called Haver-acres, which I take to be the true name, and to be the same as Oat-acres, for Haver, in many parts of the north of England, is still the common name of Oats. An aver, in Scotland, is a cart-horse, or nag of indifferent quality; and the averia, so frequently mentioned in old writings, were horses and oxen used for ploughing and other husbandry purposes. So that if Aver-acres be the true reading, it might mean Horse-acres. At present, the place is called Over-acres.—See below, under Spithope, "Thomas Hall, of Haver-acres, &c."
