

III.—WOODMAN CHARTERS.*

With note by H. H. E. CRASTER, Fellow of All Souls
College, Oxford.

[Read on the 29th April, 1908.]

The Woodman Charters relate, for the most part, to the manors of Trewick and Kirkharle. The Kirkharle deeds are chiefly interesting as containing a reference to a hitherto unknown chapel in Hawick dedicated to St. Catherine (Woodman Charters, no. 1), and as giving particulars of the purchase of Kirkharle by the Strothers from Sir Ralph Hastings, who had married the Harle heiress. The following note supplements the information contained in the deeds relating to the Trewick family:

About the year 1240 Trewick was held by Robert de Trewick (Testa de Nevill, p. 386). Robert had a brother Adam (Woodman Charters, no. 13), who, by his wife, Alice de Bebside, was father of John de Belsay.† This descent is set out in a deed belonging to the marquis of Waterford, which runs as follows:

Omnibus Christi fidelibus, presens scriptum visuris vel audituris, Johannes de Belsou, filius Ade de Trewike, salutem in Domino. Noverit universitas vestra me dedisse concessisse et quietum clamasse domino Guychardo de Charron sexdecim acras terre cum tofto et crofto et cum omnibus aliis pertinenciis suis in villa et campis de Horton quas Alicia de Bebeset, mater mea, quondam uxor predicti Ade de Trewike, in libera viduitate et legitima potestate michi dedit et per suam cartam confirmavit, tenendum et habendum predicto domino Guychardo et heredibus suis vel suis assignatis de dominis feodi de quibus predictus Guychard' tenet predictum manerium de Horton cum pertinenciis, libere quiete et integre, cum omnibus libertatibus et aisiamentis ad predictam terram toftum et croftum pertinentibus, etc. In cujus rei testimonium presenti scripto sigillum meum apposui. Hiis testibus, Adam de Selebi, Willelmo de Framelington in Crambelington, militibus, Waltero de Hereford, Ricardo domino de Hereford, Ricardo fratre Walteri de Hereford, Roberto de Burtdon, et aliis. [Waterford Charters, No. 54.]

* These charters are in the library of the Society at the Castle, Newcastle.

† For the descendants of John de Belsay see Genealogist, N.S., vol. xi, p. 15.

(1) Margery de Trewick, from whom the pedigree can be traced with certainty, was, with Richard de Stikelawe, heir to Adam de Jesmond (Three Northumberland Assize Rolls,* p. 247), from whom she inherited a moiety of the manors of Cramlington and Jesmond, lands in Hartley, and the service of the manor of Heaton. That she was a Trewick by marriage only seems certain, and her parentage and relationship to Adam de Jesmond is unknown. She died in 1298 (inquisition taken 6th May), leaving a son and heir, William de Trewick, who was then fifty years of age (Inq. p.m., 26 Edw. I, no. 20).

(2) William de Trewick, son and heir of Margery, died in 1300 (inquisition taken 17th July), leaving a widow, Sibilla (Arch. Ael., 3rd ser. vol. I, p. 58), and two sons, namely, John de Trewick his heir, and William de Trewick (Hodgson, Northumberland, part II, vol. I, p. 387.)

(3) John de Trewick, son and heir of William, was thirty-two years of age on 24th June, 1300 (Inq. p.m., 28 Edw. I, no. 16). He sold his moiety of the manor of Jesmond in 1312 to Richard de Emeldon, but retained Cramlington and the lands in Hartley (Inq. ad quod damnum, file 94, no. 11). The date of his death is not known. He had a wife named Aufrica (Woodman Charters, no. 6), but appears to have left no issue, and to have been succeeded by a kinsman, Henry de Trewick, son of Henry Proctor of South Middleton.

(4) Henry de Trewick, heir of John de Trewick, died in 1328 (inquisition taken 5th August), seised of lands in Trewick, Belsay and Bolam, as well as in Cramlington and Hartley. By his wife, Margaret,¹ he had issue a son and heir, John de

Trewick, who was ten years of age on 24th June, 1328 (Inq. p.m., 2 Edw. III, first numbers, no. 50).

(5) John de Trewick II, son and heir of Henry, married Isabel, daughter and coheir of Alexander de Kibblesworth² (Surtees, Durham, vol. II, p. 216). In 1360 he compounded for his father's lands in South Middleton, Trewick, Cramlington, Whitlaw and Hartley (Arch. Ael., 1st ser. vol. III, pp. 72-73), and died 30th October, 1361, leaving a son and heir, Thomas de Trewick (Inq. p.m., 36 Edw. III, part 2, first numbers, no. 53).

(6) Thomas de Trewick, son and heir of John, was born at his mother's home of Kibblesworth, in the county of Durham, on 24th November, 1348, and was baptized at Lamesley. In 1370 he proved himself to be of full age (Arch. Ael., 1st ser. vol. IV, p. 326). In that year he succeeded to lands in Kibblesworth upon the death of his uncle, John de Kibblesworth (45th Deputy Keeper's Report, app. I, p. 225), and died 31st October, 1399, leaving a widow, Agnes, and two daughters and coheirs, Eleanor and Joan, who were then respectively twenty-four and twenty-two years of age (Inq. p.m., 1 Henry IV, no. 12). His widow married secondly William de Holgrave. By deed dated 1st February, 1412/3, she had the manor of Trewick settled upon herself for life, with remainder to her eldest daughter, Eleanor. She died 5th March, 1412/3 (Inq. p.m., 1 Henry V, no. 32).

(7) Eleanor de Trewick, daughter of Thomas, and, with her younger sister Joan (who married John de Wotton), coheir of the same, married John Hoggisson, and died 7th April, 1423, leaving a son and heir, John, who assumed the name of Trewick, then twenty-nine years of age (Inq. p.m., 1 Henry VI, no. 28). John de Trewick III was living 20th June, 1448 (44th Deputy Keeper's Report, p. 478): the date of his death is not known.

² The Kibblesworth family had already an interest in Cramlington. On 9th July, 1332, William de Kibblesworth and Cecily his wife had pardon for acquiring from William de Burdon, vicar of Newcastle, without the king's licence, a fourth part of the manor of Cramlington, to them and the heirs of the said William de Kibblesworth (Cal. Pat. Rolls, 1330-1334, p. 312). William de Burdon had obtained the premises by grant from John de Trewick I. (ibid. 1321-1324, p. 287).

Further particulars regarding the family of Trewick are given in Archaeologia Aeliana, 3rd ser. i, 57 note. A grant of the manor of Trewick made by Thomas de Trewick on 22nd January, 1364/5, is printed in the Proceedings, 3rd ser. vol. i, p. 163.

APPENDIX.

The following description of the seals attached to the various deeds has been prepared by Mr. C. H. Blair.

2. Seal, dark green wax, circular, one inch diameter; the device is very indistinct, but appears to be a running dog or wolf.

5. Two seals in red wax, both partly destroyed. (1) Circular, seven-eighths of an inch diameter, armorial. Ermine an escucheon; MI: DE HOLGRAVE. The blason is ermine an escucheon gules (Glover's Ord.). This shield appears in stained glass, impaled with Bertram, in a window in the south aisle of Bothal church. (2) Circular, half-an-inch diameter device a fleur-de-lis within a circle.

9. Seal, brown wax, circular, five-eighths of an inch diameter; device a chalice draped with a cloth, COSVE ✱. The legend is illegible with the exception of these letters.

10. Three seals in brown wax. (1) Destroyed. (2) Circular, seven-eighths of an inch diameter, armorial, partly destroyed and much defaced; the charges appear to be three stringed bugle-horns; L: WILLMI: HO

(3) Oblong, with corners rounded off; device a geometrical figure of the nature of a merchant's mark.

12. Four seals have been attached, both labels and seals Nos. 1 and 4 are destroyed. (2) Seal in brown wax, same as attached to deed 10, seal 2, in a better state of preservation; the charges seem certainly to be three stringed bugle-horns and the legend reads SGLU': WILLM: HOLGRVAE †. I cannot give the blason of this shield and know of no authority, except this seal, giving these bearings for Holgrave. (3) Same as attached to deed 10, seal 3.

16. Seal in red wax, circular, one and seven-sixteenths of an inch diameter, armorial. In the centre of elaborate tracery a shield charged with a maunch; in chief, in a compartment of the tracery, a crest of a bull's head; to the sinister is a roundel charged with a cinquefoil; in base a roundel bearing fretty and a chief (this is partly destroyed on this seal but appears clearly on the same seal attached to deed no. 20); to the dexter a roundel charged with a chevron between three birds. sigillu' radulf baitygis bl olk (?)

This beautiful seal is an interesting example of the grouping together of several distinct shields to form a single composition speaking of its owner's manors, honours and dignities. The centre shield is blasoned silver a maunch sable (Ed. III. Roll), being the arms of Hastings of Allerston and of Slingsby, Yorkshire, and of Kirby, Leicestershire, differenced from the arms of the main line of Hastings by change of colour; above this is their crest of a bull's head sable. The charge to the sinister is blazoned gules a cinquefoil ermine, and refers to the Honour of Leicester, being the device used on his seal by Robert de Bréteuil, earl of Leicester (1191). The reason for the shield in base is not obvious. It may possibly be the shield of Wyville gules fretty vair and a chief gold (Glover's Ord.) and be borne for the manor of Slingsby. In 1343, William de Wyville released to sir Ralph Hastings (the elder) all his right in Slingsby, and in 1344 sir Ralph had licence to make a castle of his manor house there. The shield to the dexter is that of sir Robert Sadyngton of Sadyngton, Leicestershire, whose daughter and heiress was sir Ralph Hastings' first wife (Bridge's Collins's Peerage, VI, 647). It is blazoned vert a chevron between three martlets silver.

17. Four seals in red wax. (1) Oval, partly destroyed, armorial. The shield is suspended from the branch of a tree and is within a traceried panel; it is diapered, and bears on a cross engrailed five escallops. Bigod of Settrington gold on a cross engrailed gules five escallops silver (see Foster's Visit. of Yorksh., 595; Arch. Ael., 3rd ser., vol. III, 270). (2) Circular, five-eighths of an inch diameter, armorial, a chevron between three roundels, BOWL O T *. I am unable to give the blason of this shield. (3) Oval, device of a cross formed of four fleur-de-lis; DL × NV × PR × (4) Device of a woman's head bound by a fillet, probably from an antique gem; ave · ma[r]tija · gracia · pl[ena] · domi ·] ×

19. Six seals in red wax. (1) Fragment of same seal as no. 2 on deed 17. (2) Partly destroyed, appears to bear the device of an animal standing. (3) Circular, partly destroyed, armorial, within a traceried panel a shield charged with a lion. Probably ermine a lion azure for Pickering (see Arch. Ael., 3rd ser., III, 272). (4) A fragment only remains. (5) Circular, seven-eighths of an inch diameter, armorial. Within tracery a shield charged with a bend engrailed between two cotises flory on the outer side; . . . gillum · willelmi Glover's Ordinary blasons sable a bend flory counterflory gold for Spencer. (6) Same as seal 4 on deed 17.

20. Seal in red wax as on deed 16.

21. Five seals in red wax. (1) Circular, half an inch diameter; device a mermaid. (2) A fragment only remains showing a roughly traceried border and a cross-crosslet in chief. (3) Circular, partly destroyed, seven-eighths of an inch diameter; device of a stag or similar animal standing against a tree, within a traceried border. (4) Same as seal 4 on deed 17. (5) Circular, three-quarters of an inch diameter; device of a standing animal.

22. Seal in red wax as on deed 16.

24. Two seals in red wax. (1) Fragments only remaining on label. (2) Circular, seven-sixteenths of an inch diameter; device of a bird, probably an eagle, with wings displayed. Some lettering appears above the device but it is not legible.

30. Seal in brown wax, armorial. Barry in base, in chief a device, apparently a squirrel or fox rearing up against a tree. Late and debased armory.

Mr. F. Bradshaw, M.A., D.Sc., has given every assistance in deciphering the legends.
