

IV.—SHAWDON COURT ROLLS.

BY J. C. HODGSON, M.A.

[Read 24th November, 1920.]

The township of Shawdon, in the parish and beautiful vale of Whittingham, is irregular in shape with a bounder that can only be imperfectly described as bounded by Glanton and Whittingham on the west and south-west, by Whittingham and Bolton on the south and south-east, by Titlington on the east and north-east, and by Beanley and Crawley on the north. It has an area of 1232 acres with a highest elevation of 600 feet over sea level near Shepherds Law. It is well wooded and in 1911 it had a population of 95.<sup>1</sup>

Above Shawdon-hill homestead and close to the east side of the public road there are 'faint traces of a circular camp formed apparently of two concentric circles at about 30 feet asunder. The width of the interior circle is about 130 yards.'<sup>2</sup> In the month of January, 1761, a cist and two prehistoric urns were found by workmen digging in a plantation.<sup>3</sup> Other urns are stated to have been found from time to time.<sup>4</sup>

Under the form of Schauden the place occurs in Testa de Nevill, drawn up in the early part of the thirteenth century, when with the neighbouring townships of Titlington, Bolton and a moiety of Glanton, it was returned as a member of the barony of Ros, or Wark-on-Tweed.<sup>5</sup> In or before the reign of Edward III under the name of Schaweden or Chauden<sup>6</sup> it had come into the hands of the family of Lilburn of West Lilburn, important feudal tenants of the house of Ros and wearing the same arms differenced in tinctures.<sup>7</sup> At Shawdon they erected a fortalice which in 1415 was of sufficient importance to be described as a castrum belonging to Thomas Lilburn.<sup>8</sup> The history of the Lilburns must be reserved for an account of the place from which they took their name.

John Lilburn died 23 December, 1506, leaving two daughters and co-heiresses, viz. : Elizabeth wife of Thomas Armorer, aged 24, and Isabella wife of William Proctor, aged 22, who succeeded to his estates in Lilburn, Shawdon, and Belford.

William Proctor, husband of the younger daughter, was a son of Geoffrey Proctor of Nether Bordley in Craven. His marriage settlement is stated to have been made 11 December, 1500.<sup>9</sup> Either he, or his son, made an exchange with the co-parceners, receiving the Armorer's moiety of Shawdon and giving, as it would seem, their moiety of the Belford property. The Proctors rested at Shawdon until the beginning of the eighteenth century. A proved and well worked out pedigree of the family may be found in the second volume of the new History of Northumberland.

By an agreement dated 26 June, 1705, John Proctor gave Shawdon, Crawley and other property, to Alexander Brown of Doxford, receiving in exchange lands in Dunstan, Craster and Embleton with a sum of money to equalize the bargain.<sup>10</sup>

Alexander Brown died in the following year being succeeded by his elder brother William Brown, sometime of Ewart, afterwards of Bolton, who on the 13 October, 1708 held a court of the manor of Shawdon to which he caused to be summoned many tenants who rented lands or cottages from him in the townships of Bolton, Branton, Crawley, Doxford and Glanton, all of which places were within other manors and only associated with Shawdon in unity of ownership. Dying in 1712 he was succeeded by his eldest son Thomas Brown who held a manor-court on the 27th May, 1717; and voted for Shawdon at the election of Knights of the Shire in 1722. A worked out and proved pedigree of Brown of Bolton and Doxford may be found in the seventh volume of the new History of Northumberland.

At an unascertained date between 1722 and 1734—probably about 1723—Thomas Brown, or his representatives, conveyed to James Hargrave* of Newcastle, attorney, who in the latter year voted at the election of Knights of the Shire. He served as high sheriff of Northumberland in 1738. The accompanying pedigree of Hargrave (see p. 65) is as full as the material will admit.

On the death of William Hargrave's widow in 1828, Shawdon passed to the representative of his aunt, Mary Hargrave, first wife of John Pawson of Newcastle, wine merchant, in whose descendants the property still uneasily rests.

As has been stated already, the three court rolls of the manor of Shawdon dated respectively 13 October, 1708, 27 May, 1717, and 3 December, 1719, disclose an attempt to enlarge and augment the manor by calling up the owner's tenants in other townships, which were most certainly never within the manor of Shawdon, to do suit and service. On the alienation of the property to James Hargrave the reason for this attempt would fail, and the temptation would be all the other way.

* The consideration paid was 5300*l*.

There is no reason to think that the manor of Shawdon was at any time more extensive than the township. It is now more restricted, for the township has been enlarged by some 357 acres of Beanley moor, given to the owner of Shawdon in 1781, in satisfaction for his right of inter-common of pasture.<sup>11</sup> By subsequent agreements a portion of the allotment seems to have been given to the Duke of Northumberland in exchange for a portion of the ancient land of Beanley of similar value. The allotments, or their equivalents, may be taken to be represented by the land near and around Shepherd Law which it is conceived remain in part or in whole within the township of Beanley.

<sup>11</sup> 13 Oct., 1780, articles of agreement made between the Duke of Northumberland, as lord of the manor and also as owner of the township of Beanley, Sir Francis Blake, bart. as owner of Crawley and William Hargrave, esq., as owner of Shawdon for the division of Beanly moor or common. The commissioners appointed to carry out the enclosure were Simon Dodd of Reedswood, Daniel Alder of Adderston, and Ralph Laidler of Newtown, gentlemen, who after making provision for roads, &c., by an award dated 25 August, 1781, gave to the Duke of Northumberland 577a. 3r. 23p. in respect for his consent to the division and in respect of his lands in Beanley; to Sir Francis Blake 76a. 3r. 23p. in respect of his lands in Crawley and to William Hargrave 357a. or. 19p in respect of his lands in Shawdon.

<sup>12</sup> Miss Martin—the Public Record Office searcher—writes 'I have not extended the abbreviations after the names as I thought it better to leave them as they were written. I think that 'r' stands for respondit, and 'esd' for essained. I do not know what 'Non prox' on sheet 4 of the Court of 3 Dec., 1719 means, unless it is a mistake for Non prosecutus est.'
