

NOTES FOR THE AUTHORS

The Nigerian Field welcomes articles on the flora and fauna, culture and history of West Africa. The Society is particularly anxious to encourage field observations in all of these areas. Since the journal serves a wide audience, highly technical papers more suitable for specialist journals will not be accepted. However, popular accounts of such research aimed at the general reader would be welcomed. The Nigerian Field has established a reputation for the quality of its illustrations and, in consequence, preference will be given to contributions offered with a strong illustrative content.

Text: The text must be submitted on CD, flash drive, or by e-mail to: the editor-in-chief: aisichei@oauife.edu.ng

The author's name and address should follow the title of the paper. A correspondence address, ie, email address, should follow the physical address. Contributions of 2000 to 6000 words will be printed as main articles. Shorter items of 500 to 1000 words are welcome as notes or correspondence.

Halftone illustrations: Clear digital black and white prints, with good contrast, should be submitted. Colour images can sometimes be reproduced in black and white.

Line illustrations: These should be clearly drawn and the scale of the object should be indicated by bars.

References should be given in the following manner:

Papers: Hopkins H.C. 1983. The taxonomy, reproductive biology and economic potential of Parkia (Leguminosae: Mimosoideae) in Africa and Madagascar. Bolt. J. Linn.Soc. 87:135-167.

Ikediobi C.O., Obi V.C. & Achoba I.A. 1985. Beekeeping and honey production in Nigeria, Niger. Fld. 50-59-70

Books: Rosevear D.R. 1974. The carnivores of West Africa, xii + 1548, London: British Museum (Natural History)

Fagg W. (ed) 1971. The living arts of Nigeria. 154 pp. London; Studio Vista.

If in doubt about the correct abbreviations for names of journals, the name should be given in full. Articles will be subjected to the normal refereeing procedures by specialists in the area. It is assumed that submitted papers are not on offer elsewhere. The copyright of all published contributions is vested in The Nigerian Field Society, and papers are accepted on this strict understanding. Proofs of articles are not sent to authors, but if the original text has been substantially edited, the author's approval will be sought before publication.

EDITORIAL BOARD

Pat Oyelola, chairperson
Professor David Okpako
Professor David Okali
Dr. T. R. Fasola
Professor A.U.Ezealor

Professor J. F. Bamidele
Professor S. O. Fagade
Professor J.R. Ojo
Professor A.O. Isichei, editor

Volume 79, Part 1 & 2

April & October 2014

CONTENTS

PAGE

Editorial

Officers of the Society

Review Articles

Wetland and Sustainability and Urban Growth in Southwestern Nigeria
An example of Ile-Ife

O.O. Ogunkoya & O.S. Aboyeji

3

Male Attitudes to Female Dundun Drumming in Western Nigeria

Kayode M. Samuel

25

The Mystery behind the Northern Knot and the Agadez Cross

Raymond Hickey

41

African and European Traditions Combined in Ghana

Leonard E. Newton

51

Names and Naming among the Yoruba

Modupe Oduyoye

54

Update on Agodi Gardens

D. Okali

66

West African Art in Context

Phillip Allsworth-Jones

72

News from the branches

Ibadan Branch Member, Achenyyo Idachaba, Wins Cartier Women's Initiative Award 2014

Pat Oyelola, culled from an article in The African Woman, issue 28

84

Obituaries

Robert E Sharland

85

Rufus Adegboye

86

Society Reports

88

ISSN 0029-0076