

Monumental Brass Inscriptions, &c.,
IN NORFOLK,
Omitted in Blomefield's History of the County.

(THIRD PORTION),

(Concluded from p. 104 ante).

COMMUNICATED BY

THE REV. C. R. MANNING, M.A., F.S.A.,

Hon. Sec.

Hundred of Brothercross.

BURNHAM THORPE. (vii. 14.)

The date of the death of Philip Cornwallis, rector, should be 1680, not 1688.

CREAKE, NORTH. (vii. 73.)

The fine brass (engraved by Cotman and by Haines, p. cxxiii.) of a man in a gown and cape, holding a model of a church on his arm, is not mentioned by Blomefield. From the appearance of a tonsure, he may have been an ecclesiastic, in academical dress. A bag is suspended from his girdle, with a rosary, having "ave" and "credo" on the beads, and a signet ring hangs by a cord beside it. He stands under a low triple canopy. The date is c. 1500. This is supposed (Norf. Arch. ix. 3) to be Sir William Calthorp, who died in 1494.

CREAKE, SOUTH. (vii. 82.)

1. A fine half-length figure of a priest, in cope, c. 1420. May be the same mentioned by Blomefield as that of John Felbrigg, clerk, Prebendary of Wherwell, and Parson of Coltishall, ob. 1417. (Figured in Farrer's Norfolk Brasses).

2. A shield of arms (Wheatley, impaling Pepys) c. 1560. Underneath was a figure and inscription.

3. Instead of John Norton and Christian his wife, this fine brass has a figure of a priest in the cope, holding a pastoral staff, head gone, between the figures of his father and mother (the latter lost.) He is "in a cassock, plain alb, almuce, and cope" (Haines, p. 136). The inscription is:—

Orate p̄ aīab; Joh̄is Norton Cl̄ici filij Ricardi Norton & K̄pīae Confortis sue qui quidem Joh̄is (sic) obiit.
Vicesimo tercio die mensis Octobris Anno domini millesimo Quingentesimo Nono.

This inscription certainly gives the date of John Norton's death as 1509; but the execution of the figures and their costume belongs to an earlier date, perhaps 1470. The brass may have been made about that time, at the death of one of the parents; and John Norton may have survived till 1509, when the inscription was completed. Nothing is known of him to explain his having a crosier.

Hundred of North Erpingham.

ALDBOROUGH. (viii. 73.)

BIRCHAM, GREAT. (x. 293.)

The inscription given by Blomefield as to Edith Cook, wife of Mr. John Wollis, notary, should be as follows:—

Orate p̄ aīā Edithē Cootē quōdā uxoris maḡri Joh̄is Wattis notarij.

BRANCASTER. (x. 301.)

1. The brass to William Cotyng, rector (not Collyng or Coling, as in Blomefield), has the indent of a heart and scrolls, raised on a stem, very like the Stapleton brass at Helhoughton, described in this volume, ante, p. 89. The stem had, no doubt, a verse upon it, and it is curious that the same expression occurs in both brasses, "nunc in pulvere dormit." The date of Cotyng's death was never filled in beyond the year 1480; room is left for another "X," in case he lived over 1490, but he was evidently not expected to reach 1500. He was succeeded in the benefice by John Welles in 1485.

2. The "rude old English verse" which Blomefield mentions, to Robert Smithe, is as follows:—

Here lyethe for all that please to see
 Robarte Smithe disposed to great charitie
 A free schoole he built and two almes houses of fame,
 Who entended to geve lands to mayntayne the same,
 Bvt sodaynlie he dyed in this towne of Brancaster,
 So the right of all was in Elizabethhe his sister,
 Which buildinges for ever this godly matron did assure,
 Wth foure score & twelve acres land, for y^e pvrpose to endvre
 To the bringinge vpp of youthe, and relief of the poore.
 Lett us praise their procedinge, GOD send the world more.

In June he dyed, that monthe the thirteene
 The eight and thirtie of Elizabeth our Queene
 Richard Stubbs, Richard Buntinge, and John Reade,
 To this end are infeofed, all in one deed.
 The first of worshipp, the other of great honestie,
 As any could be founde in all our cuntrie. 1596.

3. In the brass of William Taylor, merchant, 1641,
 Blomefield has omitted "ætatis sue 77."

HEACHAM. (x. 310.)

1. A man in armour, sword across his body, a dog at his feet, c. 1485.
2. John Rolfe, Gent., d. 29 Nov. 1594, aged 32. With long Latin inscription.

HUNSTANTON. (x. 324.)

Orate pro āiabus Edmundi Greene et Agnetis uxoris eius quorum animabus propicietur deus. Amen.

With two figures turned towards each other, c. 1490.
 (Engraved by Cotman.)

INGOLDISTHORPE. (x. 337.)

HERE LYETH AGNES BIGGE THE WIFE OF THOMAS BIGGE, GEN. & THE DAUGHTER OF THIS THOMAS ROGERSON LATE PARSON OF THIS CHURCH & OF AGNES ROGERSON HIS WIFE, WHO DEPARTED THIS LIFE THE FIRST DAY OF NOVEMBER A^o DNI 1608, ANNISQ. REGNI DNI JACOBI RS ANGLIE FRANCE & HIBERN VI. & SCOTIE XLII. ; WHO DID GIVE TOWARDS THE REPAYRINGE OF THIS CHURCH V^l & FOR A STOCKE FOR THE RELEEFE OF THE POORE OF THIS TOWNE FOR EVER TEN POUNDS THE PROFIT THEREOF, YEARLY FOR EVER UPON S^t THOMAS DAY TO BE DISTRIBUTED UNTO THE MOST AGED AND NEEDY POOR PEOPLE OF THIS PARISH BY THE PARSON & CHURCHWARDENS FOR THE TIME BEINGE ; WHICH SUMMES WERE PAYDE BY THE SAIDE THOMAS BIGGE HER HUSBANDE ACCORDINGLY.

Three curious figures in ruffs and hats, the man holding a book.

RINGSTEAD. (x. 344.)

The brass to Richard Kegell, rector (not Regill), "decretor' Inceptor" (not "Doctor Jurisprtit") 1482, has a good figure, in the chasuble.

KING'S LYNN, ST. MARGARET. (viii. 502.)

The inscriptions on the large Flemish brasses have been so frequently reproduced in the illustrations of them, that they need not be repeated here. The later ones, to John Atkin, Mayor, his wife and children, 1617; Francis Parlett, 1628; and Thomas Parlet, 1632, with long Latin verses, are printed in Mackerell's Lynn.

KING'S LYNN, ST. NICHOLAS' CHAPEL.

Inscription to Anne Raylie, an infant, 1627, "the first baptized in the Funt of this chapell" (Mackerell, p. 113.)

(Illustrated in Farrer's List of Norfolk Brasses.)

NORWICH, ST. MARTIN AT PALACE. (iv. 367.)

The inscriptions to the children of Peter Parham, M.D., and Susanna his wife (daughter of Bishop Sparrow) are given by Blomefield (iv. 50) as at the Chapel of the Bishop's Palace, from which they appear to have been removed.

HEIGHAM ST. BARTHOLOMEW. (iv. 507.)

1. Portion of a marginal inscription:—

Hic : iacent : Oca : Willi : et : Margerie : Bateman : Patris.

This is supposed to be to the parents of Bishop

BRASS OF WILLIAM AND MARGERIE BATEMAN,

PARENTS OF WM. BATEMAN, BISHOP OF NORWICH,

C. 1330-1345.

AT ST. BARTHOLOMEW, HEIGHAM.

Size $73\frac{1}{2}$ x $33\frac{1}{2}$ inches, $1\frac{1}{4}$ wide.

Bateman (1344—1355), the Christian names being the same. If so, the brass is one of the earliest in the county, and next to that at Elsing, 1347. See Norfolk Archæology, viii. 339, where the date c. 1400 is suggested, but the lettering may fairly belong to c. 1350. (Illustration.)

2. Hic facit Willm̄s Kar cui' aie ꝑpiciet de'. Amen.

3. HERE · LIETH · THE · BODY · OF ·
THOMAS · HOLL · SECOND · SONNE
TO · THOMAS · HOLL · ESQUIRE 𐆆

4. HERE LIETH THE BODY
OF ELIZABETH HOLL THE
DAUGHTER OF AVGVSTIN HOLL
ESQVIRE WHO WAS BVRIED THE SIX
AND TWENTITH DAY OF APRILL, 1633.

ADDITIONS AND CORRECTIONS.

BINTRY. (Ante, p. 75.)

Although this parish is apparently omitted by Blomefield, the particulars of it are given under "Brandeston and Guton" (viii. 197.)

BUCKENHAM FERRY (Hund. of Blofield). (vii. 215.)

Orae ꝑ aīa Caltridī

CLIPPESBY. (Ante, p. 86.)

These inscriptions are the two sides of a palimpsest, and No. 2 is probably that of John Heron, rector, 1472, mentioned by Blomefield.

FAKENHAM. (Ante, p. 89.)

Inscription, perhaps belongs to No. 4.

Hic jacet Audrie narborow.

WESTON LONGVILLE. (Ante, p. 82.)

The inscriptions Nos. 2 and 3 belong to RINGLAND, and not to Weston; and the first is mentioned by Blomefield (viii. 254).
