Project details

Project name	18 London Rd, Pulborough, West Sussex - An archaeological evaluation and watching brief report
Short description of the project	In January and February 2005 AOC Archaeology undertook an archaeological evaluation at 18 London Rd, Pulborough, West Sussex. The evaluation comprised two phases of work: Initially, three 20mx2m trenches were excavated. These identified six linear features but no datable evidence was retrieved other than some possible render or plaster, thought to be of Roman provenance. To establish a firmer date and function for these features a fourth trench was excavated. This revealed the linear features to represent two phases: one set of natural drainage channels, one set of post-medieval land management cuts. Following the evaluation work, a one day watching brief was undertaken on a 4.20m x 1.30m drainage hole. Below 0.6m of overburden blue alluvial clay was observed to a depth of 3.80m. It was concluded that this probably represents the fill of the east-west stream or leat recorded in post-medieval Ordnance Survey maps.
