

existing in that county; also a part of the Parochial and Family History of the Deanery of Trigg Manor, in the county of Cornwall, now publishing.

The REV. J. H. HILL further exhibited a drawing of a very small coffin, probably of a child, discovered in the wall of the church of Burton-le-Coggles.

The REV. MACKENZIE, E. C. WALCOTT, B.D., F.S.A., Præcentor and Prebendary of Chichester, sent the following interesting Inventory of Church Ornaments belonging to Churches in Framland Hundred, Leicestershire, in the sixth year of King Edward VI.

INVENTORIES OF FRAMLAND DEANERY, CO. LEICESTER.

The following Inventories transcribed from the Uncalendered MSS. of the Public Record Office, form an almost complete Return for the Deanery of Framland; I have in one or two cases explained a difficult or mis-spelt word, but I have made no attempt to give a glossary of terms, as they are sufficiently explained in my Dictionary of Sacred Archaeology.
