Inside back cover

Front cover

The great Cosmatesque pavement in the sanctuary of Westminster Abbey was created by Italian craftsmen for Henry III's new church in the 1260s. It was the starting point for a 20-year investigation and conservation project, which has revealed the pavement as part of an extensive, integral mosaic scheme at the heart of Henry's Abbey. Warwick Rodwell and David Neal's two-volume book on this project won the 2020 London Archaeological Prize. The story behind the many discoveries is told in Becky Wallower's feature on p 94. The painting on our cover is one of hundreds by David Neal that record every tessera. Painting: © David S Neal
