

Regional Groups Report 2017

In early April Chris Cumberpatch organised another very successful meeting in Doncaster. Following on from last year, the meeting moved away from a purely medieval focus. Papers covering post-Roman pottery included medieval pots from North Yorkshire (Anne Jenner), post-Medieval pottery from Ticknall, Derbyshire (David Budge), and Isaac Button, the renowned mid-20th century potter from Halifax (John Hudson). Papers on Roman pottery from North Yorkshire and Lincolnshire were presented by John Buglass and Ian Rowlandson. The day was well attended with around 50 delegates from both the amateur and professional fields alike.

There have been murmurings about regional group meetings in the North West and the Surrey region. My term as Regional Groups Officer has now ended, but my successor, Jane Young, would be delighted to hear about any activities in these or our other regions.

Gareth Perry, Regional Groups Officer

Medieval Ceramics
Office

