Walk-over surveys were undertaken on 6 and 16 February 2015 along the route of a proposed new hydro-electric scheme on the E side of Loch Tay, 10km SW of Kenmore. From the power house a cable will cross the loch, coming ashore at Lawers and connecting with an existing power supply. One previously unrecorded feature of archaeological significance was encountered: the scant remains of a building measuring 14m by 5m at NN 70935 38774.
